The law … should surely be accessible at all times and to everyone.

--Franz Kafka

The Southern California Association of Law Libraries (SCALL) Committee on Public Access to Legal Information (PALI) is charged with providing consulting services and related educational programs to public and other non-law libraries offering open access to legal information.

Public access to legal information is extremely important in today’s rapidly changing legal environment. In recognition of the public’s need to know their legal rights and how statutes, administrative regulations, and judicial cases affect their lives, SCALL is pleased to present the fifth edition of Locating the Law: A Handbook for Non-Law Librarians, 2009. This publication, as each of the earlier editions pointed out, is not intended to replace a detailed legal research guide nor is it to be a substitute for the advice of a licensed attorney. Locating the Law is intended to provide basic information about California and federal legal materials: what they are, how they are organized, and how to use them.

The full text of the fifth edition of Locating the Law will be available free of charge on the SCALL Web site. For economic and environmental reasons the publication will no longer be produced in print format. Additionally, the electronic only version will make updating more effective and efficient. Web site addresses have been supplied for most of the materials discussed in each chapter. Further, when Locating the Law is viewed over the Internet, readers will be able to find sources of information almost instantly by clicking on the hyperlinked text provided throughout this publication. As used in this handbook, Internet access means electronically available. When commercially available Internet services are described within, they are identified as fee-based services.

As a member of SCALL for fifteen years (1992-2007) and former PALI chair, I know that previous editions of this handbook have been used by librarians both within and outside of California and have assisted paralegals, law students, legal administrative assistants, attorneys and others. The editor and authors hope the fifth edition will continue to be an important resource for locating legal information.

Readers with questions, comments and suggestions for revisions may use the Contact Us link on the Locating the Law page at http://www.aallnet.org/chapter/scall/locating.htm.
With your help, the members of the PALI Committee will strive to keep this new online edition as up-to-date as possible.

Preface

The revision of the fifth edition of Locating the Law was completed in November 2011. Because most of the edits involved updating links or deleting obsolete resources, the Committee decided that this version of Locating the Law did not include enough substantive changes to qualify as a new edition. A couple of changes, however, do merit a mention here. New PALI member Janine Liebert suggested several new titles to add to Chapter 10: Bibliography of Self-Help Resources. In addition, the list of common abbreviations in law previously included at the end of Chapter 2: How to Read a Legal Citation is now Appendix B. We hope that providing this handy list in its new location as a separate appendix will make it more accessible to researchers.

I would like to thank the PALI members who updated the 2009 versions of their chapters: David McFadden, Joan Allen-Hart, Patrick Meyer, Lisa Schultz, Jennifer Lentz, and Esther Eastman. I would also like to acknowledge the assistance provided by Judy K. Davis and several new members of PALI, Catherine Deane, Michelle Gorospe, Curtis Jones and Janine Liebert. Also, PALI thanks Ramon Barajas for his technical assistance.

On behalf of the 2010-2011 Committee on Public Access to Legal Information, I hope that the revised fifth edition of Locating the Law will be a useful resource to public librarians in California and elsewhere.

Acknowledgments

The 2008-2009 Public Access to Legal Information (PALI) Committee is pleased to present the fifth edition of Locating the Law: A Handbook for Non-Law Librarians. The new edition reflects the hard work, diligence and expertise of over a dozen California law librarians, all of whom volunteered their time to this project. Given that eight years have passed since the last edition, it should not surprise readers to know that the changes to this publication are extensive. The Committee had its work cut out for it and, I believe, rose to the challenge.

As editor, I had the privilege of working with all of the members of the Committee. Especially during the last four months, when the editing process was most intensive, I became exceedingly familiar with each person’s contributions to this publication. I hope to convey my appreciation of the Committee’s accomplishments here, as well as in the quality of the final product, which I hope meets the expectations of the Committee members. The chapters and appendices are excellent as separate work, but they are even better together, in what I hope is a cohesive whole.

The chapter and appendix authors are Joan Allen-Hart, Laura A. Cadra, Karla Castetter, Esther Eastman, June Kim, Jennifer Lentz, David McFadden, Patrick Meyer, and Lisa Shultz. A detailed list is in the table below.

PALI Committee members, not included in the above list of authors, and who assisted in the editing process are Judy K. Davis, Head of Access Services, USC Law Library, and Tammy Pettinato, former reference librarian at UCLA Law Library. They acted as two extra pair of eyes, for which I am grateful. Special thanks also to David McFadden, a chapter author, who volunteered to assist in the editing process.

I also want to thank Ruth Hill, former PALI chair, who graciously agreed to write the preface to the fifth edition. Ruth was a long-time member of SCALL before she moved to Baton Rouge, Louisiana to become library director of Southern University Law Center. Moreover, two people deserve special mention: Jessica Wimer, 2008-2009 President of SCALL, for her encouragement and support and Ramon Barajas, the SCALL Webmaster, for his technical skills and expertise.

Last but not least, many, many thanks to Laura Cadra, who provided invaluable assistance to me during the past four months. I consulted with Laura on all issues for which I needed a second opinion—from structure and organization of the chapters, formatting, whether to include or exclude information, and much more. She also helped in the editing process by reviewing several of the chapters. In addition, she graciously agreed to co-author the new chapter, Assisting Self-Represented Litigants in California (Chapter 9).

On behalf of the chapter authors, the PALI Committee members, Ruth Hill, Jessica Wimer, and Ramon Barajas, I hope that the fifth edition of Locating the Law: A Handbook for Non-Law Librarians will be a useful resource to public librarians in California and elsewhere.

Chapter 1

INTRODUCTION

This introductory chapter gives an overview of legal research and provides general descriptions of the sources one should consult. Detailed descriptions of California and federal law may be found in Chapters 5 and 7, respectively. In addition, see Chapters 6 and 8 for detailed bibliographies of California and federal legal materials.

Categories of Legal Research Sources

The goal of most legal research is to identify the answer to one’s legal question. Were my rights violated? How do I probate a will? Can I adopt my stepchild? Finding the answer or solution requires research into the applicable legal basis or authority. In other words, which laws apply to my legal issue?

In order to identify applicable laws, one must first have a basic understanding of the U.S. legal system. In the United States, there is a federal government as well as fifty state governments. Each of these 51 governments has executive, legislative and judicial branches, all of which have the power to promulgate laws. These state and federal governments share authority over some legal matters but have distinct authority over others. Hence, one of the first questions a legal researcher must address is whether state law or federal law applies to his or her legal problem.

Second, one must distinguish between three different types of sources—primary, secondary, and finding tools (or aids). Primary sources of law are the official pronouncements of the government’s lawmakers: court decisions, statutes, and regulations. They are the legal rules that govern our society. Secondary sources of law describe the law, discuss a legal problem or set out a model piece of legislation. Secondary sources of law include law review articles, treatises, restatements, hornbooks, and practice manuals. Finding tools facilitate access to primary and secondary sources of law and include indexes, digests, and citators.

Each type of source described above has a distinctive place in the hierarchy of legal authority. Authority may be (1) primary or secondary and (2) mandatory or persuasive. Indeed, while courts and other decision makers are often open to guidance from a wide range of sources, only primary authority can be mandatory in application (which means that the court decision, statute, or regulation must be followed). For example, a decision from a state’s highest court is mandatory authority in its jurisdiction and must be followed by the lower state courts. Similarly, a state statute must be followed within the state. However, some primary authority is only persuasive. Persuasive authority is that which the court or other decision maker may consider it but is not obligated to follow. For example, California state courts may find other state court cases persuasive, but are not bound to follow court opinions from any of the other 49 states. Moreover, there are varying degrees of persuasiveness. A well-respected treatise, albeit a secondary source of law, may have more persuasive force than decisions from courts in other states.

Primary Sources of Law

The primary sources of federal law are the U.S. Constitution, the enactments of the U.S. Congress, the decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court and of the lower federal courts (i.e., Courts of Appeals and District Courts), the regulations and rulings of the federal administrative agencies, and the executive orders and proclamations of the President of the United States. The primary sources of law for each state are the state constitution, the enactments of the state legislature, the decisions of the state courts, the regulations

1 Treatises are books on legal topics. A treatise can be one volume or many volumes.
2 Restatements are prepared by the American Law Institute and literally “restate” (or summarize) general case law principles in specific areas of law.
3 Hornbooks are one-volume books on a legal topic often used by law students.
4 Subject indexes to case law.
5 Citators serve two functions: updating a source of law and leading the researcher to additional sources of law.
and rulings of the state administrative agencies, and the orders of the states’ governors. Within each state, municipalities may have their own charter, ordinances and administrative regulations.

Other sources of primary law include tribal laws passed by Indian sovereign nations and international laws (usually expressed in the form of treaties between two or more nations).

Hence, it is important for researchers to determine at the beginning of their research whether federal or state law is implicated and which type of primary law applies to their legal problem.

Secondary Sources

Most law librarians will suggest starting legal research with a secondary source. This advice is especially relevant to those who are new to legal research or new to a specific subject area of legal research. Secondary sources, such as practice guides or handbooks, will summarize a subject area of law, describing (and providing the citations to) the applicable statutes, court opinions and regulations. Not only does this save the researcher time in identifying the relevant primary law, but it also provides the background information needed to frame intelligent questions, determine the best research paths, and learn the key terms used in the area of law. Moreover, scholarly commentaries (in law reviews or legal treatises) can have persuasive influence on the law-making process by drawing attention to the flaws in current legal doctrine and suggesting alternative methods.

Although many public libraries will not add legal treatises, hornbooks, practice guides, and law reviews to their physical collections, they will likely have legal self-help books, which will provide an excellent starting point for most researchers. It is worth noting here that legal secondary sources are generally not available for free on the Internet. In any case, for those unfamiliar with these sources, it is recommended that they use secondary sources in print, in order to take advantage of the indexes, tables and other finding aids included therein. Secondary sources are referenced throughout these chapters, with the idea that librarians will be able to locate the best area library to serve the needs of their users.

Finding Tools

The third and final type of legal research material is the finding tool. These research aids would never be cited in a court brief, law review article or legal memorandum, but are, nonetheless, critical to anyone updating or searching for primary and secondary sources. West’s California Digest is an example of a finding and indexing tool for California case law. Shepard’s citation titles such as Shepard’s United States Citations or Shepard’s California Citations are examples of updating tools. The process of updating cases and other legal materials is colloquially called Shepardizing, whether or not one is using a Shepard’s tool. Online updating is widely available in public law libraries—either through LexisNexis, which owns Shepard’s, or through Westlaw, which has its own updating service called KeyCite.

Constitutional Law

The highest law of the land is the U.S. Constitution. As a grant of power to the federal government to rule in the name of the people, the Constitution defines the basic rights of U.S. citizens. It cannot be changed except by amendments proposed by two-thirds of both houses of Congress and ratified by three-fourths of the states, or by a constitutional convention. The U.S. Supreme Court is the final authority on interpreting the U.S. Constitution. No law, whether state or federal, is valid unless made in accordance with the U.S. Constitution and with the interpretations of the U.S. Supreme Court. All state constitutions, state statutes, and county and municipal charters and ordinances are subordinate to the U.S. Constitution.

A state’s constitution is analogous to the U.S. Constitution in that it is the supreme law within the boundaries of that state, and all state statutes must be in accordance with it. However, a state constitution is inferior to the U.S. Constitution, as well as to all valid federal statutes.

In California, the state constitution can be amended by the legislature and by the voters. Amendment by voters is accomplished by the initiative and referendum processes. Initiatives and referendum appear on the ballot as propositions. If passed, they are incorporated into the Constitution.

Statutory Law

In basic terms, a statute is an enactment by a legislative body. Statutes are the acts, or bills, written and passed by the United States Congress or by the state legislatures (and signed (or not vetoed) by the chief executive).

Statutes are published in chronological order (i.e., in the order in which they are signed into law). To provide a more logical (and accessible) arrangement of these laws, most statutes are collected and systematically arranged, usually by subject, into a separately published set called a code. The federal laws are codified into the United States Code, which is subdivided into 50 titles. Each title covers a certain subject. For example, Title 15 deals with commerce and trade. California’s codes are identified by name instead of numbered titles. For example, the laws dealing with taxes are in the Revenue and Taxation Code. In addition to federal and state statutes, there are municipal and county ordinances, which are enactments of bodies such as county boards and city councils.

Statutes and codes are published in both official and unofficial versions. Official versions are published by the government itself or by a commercial publisher under contract with the government while unofficial versions can be offered by several commercial publishers. The text of the law is identical in both official and unofficial publications. The difference is that the official versions are usually not annotated, while unofficial publications generally are annotated. The annotations in the unofficial publications include such helpful information such as references to court opinions interpreting the code sections, citations to law review articles, summaries of legislative histories, and a list of related administrative regulations, if there are any. Another difference between official and unofficial versions is that the commercial publisher may be able to publish and update the unofficial version more frequently.

Case Law

The United States is a common law country. This means that, in addition to statutes passed by legislative bodies, the collected history of cases decided by judges in various courts is also part of our law. The underlying principle of such a system is that similar cases should be treated in a similar way. This principle is referred to as precedent, or, in Latin, stare decisis.

The written opinion of a judge or of a panel of judges is also referred to as a case. A case usually includes a brief description of the factual background of the situation and a short history of the legal procedures that brought the dispute before the present court followed by the court’s reasoning in reaching its decision.

Judicial decisions are published, or reported, only if they change or clarify a rule of law. Generally, trial level state court decisions are not published. Only some appellate decisions are reported. All cases from the U.S. Supreme Court and from state supreme courts are published.

Like statutory law, judicial law or cases are published in both official and unofficial versions. The difference between the official and unofficial version lies in the publisher and in the editorial enhancements. The text of an opinion is the same in both versions. Editors for the unofficial publishers often add a summary of the case and identify individual points of law discussed in the case with special topic headings and numbers called headnotes. These headings can then be used to find similar cases in the case finding tools called digests.

Administrative Law

Agency Regulations & Decisions

Administrative law is created when a state or federal agency issues regulations, or when an administrative official decides a dispute in the subject area for which the agency is responsible. Examples of federal regulatory agencies are the Federal Communications Commission, the Environmental Protection Agency, and the Federal Trade Commission. California state regulatory bodies include agencies such as the Public Utilities Commission and the Public Employment Relations Board.

These agencies are authorized by the federal or state legislative bodies to promulgate rules, or regulations, governing the area of the agencies’ special knowledge. Such agencies also have their own procedural rules to follow when settling disputes. They may also have their own administrative law judges, who hear cases and reach decisions involving the interpretation of the agencies’ regulations.

Administrative decisions, or cases, are usually published in special loose-leaf services[^8]

[^8]: Loose-leaf services are binders where pages with new information are inserted to replace the pages with outdated information. Loose-leaf services are updated at varying intervals, depending on the volatility of the area of law they cover.
whose coverage is limited to a particular subject, such as antitrust or labor law. Loose-leaf publications are generally issued by commercial publishers. Most publishers offer these services as online subscriptions as well. However, many federal and state agencies are now putting their current decisions, procedures and rules on their Web sites. Federal and California regulations are available on the Internet (see Chapter 6: Bibliography of California Law Resources and Chapter 8: Bibliography of Federal Law Resources).

Executive Orders & Proclamations

The major legal documents issued by the President of the United States are executive orders and proclamations, which are described in detail in Chapter 7: Federal Law and Chapter 8: Bibliography of Federal Law Resources. California makes available recent Executive Orders (as well as older executive orders under “Archives”) on the Governor’s Web site.

How It All Fits Together

There are fifty-one separate legal systems in operation in the United States—the federal system and each of the state systems. In any one instance, federal law alone may apply, state law only may be relevant, or there may be a mixture of state and federal issues. In general, the federal courts are responsible for applying and interpreting federal statutes and the U.S. Constitution, and the state courts for applying and interpreting the state’s constitution and state statutes. Bear in mind that there may also be relevant county and municipal ordinances as well as state and federal administrative regulations and rulings, which may apply to a legal issue.

How do all these different systems fit together? Since a full answer to that question would require far more space than is available here, a brief explanation will have to suffice. First, the powers of the federal government are defined in the Constitution. Conflicts between state and federal laws are governed by the Supremacy Clause of the Constitution (Article VI, paragraph 2), which establishes the Constitution, federal statutes, and U.S. treaties as “the supreme law of the land.” Thus, federal laws have legal superiority over state constitutions and laws. Second, no laws may contradict any of the Constitution’s principles.

Briefly outlined, the hierarchy of our legal system is as follows:

![Legal Hierarchy Diagram]

Basic Tips for Locating the Law

Tip 1: Use finding aids

Most legal publications are well organized. Look for indexes, cross-reference tables, tables of cases and other special features.

Tip 2: Parallel citations lead you to the same official text

Primary sources of law, especially statutory or case law, may be published by more than one publisher. The text of the law itself will be the same, no matter which case reporter or which version of the code you decide to use.
Tip 3: Cases can be published and unpublished

Remember that the vast majority of court cases are unpublished, in the sense that they are not available online or printed in case reporters. This is especially true of trial court cases. The patron who wants to read the decision of a highly publicized trial needs to understand that, although the trial may be reported in the news, there is no published decision, as such. There may be a brief court order or memoranda in the case file. A trial transcript may or may not be included in the case file. One must contact the court clerk directly to find out whether they provide copying services to the public. Sometimes one is required to contact the court reporter directly for trial court transcripts, which can be costly (depending on the length of the trial).

Tip 4: Update your research

The law is constantly changing. To determine the current status of the law, check the currency of the information:

- Is there a pocket part?
- A paperback supplement?
- If loose-leaf, when was the last update filed?
- Is there a Web site available which is reliable, current and free or low-cost?

Tip 5: Not all legal Internet sources are created equal

Using Google can be extremely helpful in finding all sorts of useful information. However, in legal research, one must be extremely careful in evaluating the results gathered from a general Internet search. A good rule of thumb is to use the Advanced Search option and limit to the domains .edu and .gov to find more reliable sites. Other options are to use Internet search engines that refine your results for you, such as Cornell Law Library’s Legal Research Engine\(^\text{10}\) or Findlaw’s Lawcrawler.\(^\text{11}\)

Below you will find a short list of reputable Web sites as well as three legal research guides in print. Note that throughout the fifth edition of Locating the Law, you will find numerous links to Internet sources that law librarians use on a daily basis. Print resources are, for the most part, reserved for the bibliographies. Nevertheless, since print sources continue to be used in legal research, selected titles are highlighted in the explanatory chapters as well.

HOW TO READ A LEGAL CITATION

A citation (or cite) in legal research is a reference to a specific legal source, such as a constitution, statute, reported case, treatise\(^1\) or law review article. Like non-legal citations, it is a shorthand method of identifying an authority. One basic format of a legal citation includes the volume number, the title of the publication, the page or section number, and date. The titles of primary\(^2\) legal authorities are generally abbreviated. This format may look unfamiliar at first to non-law librarians who are accustomed to seeing citations where the title is unabbreviated, followed by the volume and page numbers. This chapter will describe citations to cases, statutes or codes, and law reviews and treatises. A short discussion of legal citation manuals and a list of common abbreviations are also included in this chapter.

Contents:

- Cases
- Statutes or Codes
- Law Reviews and Treatises
- Citation Manuals

Cases

Court cases (i.e., judicial opinions) can be published by more than one publisher. Because of this, there can be more than one citation appearing after the name of the case. The first citation given in this string of numbers and letters is to the official reports for a particular court, and is called the official citation. The official reports are published by the publisher with whom that court has contracted to publish its cases. For example, in California, the official reports for the state Supreme Court and Courts of Appeal are currently published by LexisNexis. The California Supreme Court cases are published in the California Reports (1st - 4th series)\(^3\) and the Courts of Appeal cases in California Appellate Reports (1st - 4th series).\(^4\)

The citations given after the first, official cite are known as unofficial or parallel citations. The text of the opinion is the same in all sources, whether they are designated as official or unofficial. Here is an example:

The citation in our example above begins with the case name, which includes the plaintiff/appellant’s last name, Lyle, and an abbreviated version of the defendants/respondents’ name, Warner Brothers Television Productions. The first citation, to the California Reports, is the official citation. The second and third citations are considered parallel citations because they refer to unofficial sources—to the Pacific Reporter and California Reporter, respectively. The goal is to provide the researcher with several options by which to locate the same judicial opinion. Case reporters are hundreds of volumes and a library may only have space (and the budget) for one of these sets.

Below you will find additional examples of the official and parallel citations for a California Supreme Court case and a California Court of Appeal case.

The California Supreme Court case has two parallel citations. The first is to the Pacific Reporter, and the second is to the California Reporter. The Court of Appeal case has one parallel citation, to the California Reporter.

In the above examples, note the inclusion of the series number after California Reports (3d series) and after Pacific Reporter (2d series). This is a crucial part of the citation because publishers start numbering from volume 1 when they begin a new series. Therefore, there is more than one volume with the number 18 on it in the California Reports: there is a volume 18 in the first series, another volume 18 in the second series, another volume 18 in the third series, and yet another volume 18 in the fourth series. (The absence of a 2d, 3d or 4th from a citation indicates that the volume is part of the first series.)

The following is an example of a citation for a United States Supreme Court case:
As with the California Supreme Court case, there are two parallel citations. Here, the first one is to the Supreme Court Reporter and the second is to the U.S. Supreme Court Reports, Lawyers’ Edition.

Cases from the thirteen United States Courts of Appeals and the trial level United States District Courts are published by West in the Federal Reporter and Federal Supplement, respectively. The Federal Appendix includes decisions from the Courts of Appeals that were not selected for publication in the Federal Reporter and are generally of lesser precedential value. Like other case reporters, the Federal Reporter, Federal Appendix, and Federal Supplement are arranged in series. Unlike other case citations, however, there are no parallel citations to these reporters.

Examples of citations from each of these reporters are shown below. Note that these citations include the court that issued the decision.

Statutes or Codes

Another common type of legal citation likely to be encountered is a citation to a statute or code. The major difference between a case citation and a statute or code citation is that the latter will usually not include a parallel citation. Also, the year of publication of the print volume is used, not the year of enactment or amendment.

Here are two examples: Cal. Rev. & Tax Code § 2280 (West 1998) and Cal. Lab. Code § 5304 (Deering 2006). The year next to the publisher refers to the publication date of the print volume.

The first citation refers to section 2280 of the California Revenue and Taxation Code published in West’s Annotated California Codes. The second citation is to section 5304 of the California Labor Code published in Deering’s California Codes Annotated. Again, note the absence of parallel citations for code sections.

5 The terms statutes and codes are generally used interchangeably.
The major difference between the California Codes and the United States Code is that titles in the former are identified by subject (Civil, Penal, Family, etc.), whereas titles of the U.S. Code are arranged by number. In the examples above, title 8 of the U.S. Code is Aliens and Nationality; title 15 is Commerce and Trade; and title 42 is the Public Health and Welfare. Also note that the United States Code is the official government publication, while the other two are commercially published.

Law Reviews and Treatises

Law review and other legal periodical citations follow the standard format of author, title, volume number, abbreviated title of the law review, beginning page number, and date. An example would be:

Note that the title of the law review is abbreviated. Sources to decipher such abbreviations are listed below.

Treatises, books on a particular legal topic, are generally cited by author, title and year. Unlike other citation systems, the publisher is usually not included in the citation.

Citation Manuals

Further discussion on citations and guidance as to the proper citation format can be found in The Bluebook: A Uniform System of Citation (19th ed. Cambridge, Mass.: Harvard

Citations are necessarily in an abbreviated form. To assist you with deciphering some of the more common abbreviations used in legal citations, a list of abbreviations follows this section. The above mentioned style manuals may be of help in understanding abbreviations. For more complete lists of legal abbreviations, see the following works:

- University of Washington Marion Gould Gallagher Law Library, Acronyms and Abbreviations

Please note that most law book publishers devise their own system of abbreviations that may vary from the examples shown below. Therefore, check the preface to each source for their in-house abbreviation explanations. Although many legal researchers are now relying on the online citators, the print version of Shepard’s Citations is a leading example of a legal research tool that uses unique symbols and abbreviations.

Also, there is a movement in some states (but not yet California) to move toward a publisher and format neutral/vendor neutral citation style. There is a list of “Jurisdiction-Specific Citation Rules and Style Guides” in the 19th edition of the Harvard Bluebook in Table BT2 (on pages 30-51) that includes citations to court rules dealing with public domain citations. In any case, older sources will continue to use the more traditional publisher based systems.

This chapter is intended to serve as a guide for public librarians assisting users who have legal reference questions. In many ways, a library user seeking legal information is no different from any other library user. You use the same reference skills to assist users seeking legal information as you would with users seeking information about, for instance, history or biology.

Still, finding and using legal resources can be tricky. The good news, as discussed in other chapters in this book, is that many legal resources, especially primary law (cases, statutes, regulations, local ordinances, and related government information), are now available online. Nonetheless, because a general knowledge of the print publications helps one to understand and navigate online resources, this chapter also covers traditional print resources.

Initial Steps

Conducting a thorough reference interview will allow you to more effectively identify the legal resources that may provide answers to the user’s questions. The first steps in answering a legal research question are (1) to identify the legal issues by conducting a thorough reference interview and by using the TARP method (discussed below) and (2) to identify the legal resources the user should consult, which includes secondary sources and indexes in the print collection as well as relevant online resources.

Identifying the Legal Issues

A person seeking legal information will often begin by presenting a factual scenario, ending with a very general question. Here are two examples:

My neighbor’s dog barks all night long, and I’m tired of putting up with the noise. I’ve called the police, but they never want to come out, because they say it is not an emergency situation. They also tell me I have to take my neighbor to court and sue him. Is this true? I want to know my legal rights!

My landlord comes into my apartment when I am at work. I think he is going through my personal items. He says he is there to do repairs, but I haven’t seen any improvement to all the problems I have complained about. Can he come into my apartment anytime he wants to? And what can I do to actually get him to repair my leaky faucets and broken stove?
Other legal reference questions may be deceptively straightforward as initially presented by the user:

I was driving my brand-new red Mercedes, and it was totaled in an accident. I need to find all the cases on car accidents. Can you help me?

I received a letter from the state announcing a public hearing on a highway expansion that is going to go right through my neighborhood. Can the government build the highway if my neighbors and I object to it?

Regardless of how the question is phrased, the user is ultimately asking what law or laws apply to his or her situation. Your first task, as in any reference interview, is to analyze the information provided in order to identify the relevant facts and to weed out the irrelevant. To determine the relevant facts, you will usually need to ask additional questions. At this point, it is appropriate to briefly address concerns about the unauthorized practice of law.

Librarians conducting a reference interview should not be afraid to ask questions of someone seeking legal information. Asking questions in order to make recommendations about appropriate legal resources to consult does not constitute giving legal advice.

Do not be afraid to exercise your expertise as an information specialist! A librarian who conducts an effective reference interview can assist the user in identifying the facts that may be relevant to the legal issue (whatever it may be). While the user may have difficulty in initially describing the situation, by asking a few appropriate questions you can help the user help him or herself by starting to identify the relevant facts. Ultimately, however, it is the user’s responsibility to determine the legal issue(s) involved in his or her situation and make a decision as to how he or she will handle the problem.

- Using the TARP Method

  Many legal researchers use a systematic approach called the TARP method to analyze fact situations (see table on next page).

  It is not always necessary to think of words to fit each TARP category. However, an analysis of the facts with TARP will suggest alternative ways in which the problem can be researched. Use your imagination.
<thead>
<tr>
<th>T</th>
<th>THING or subject matter, place, or property (e.g., divorce, contested will, dog bite)</th>

</thead>
<tr>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>P</td>
<td>PERSONS or PARTIES involved &amp; their relationship to each other (e.g., husband-wife, employer-employee, landlord-tenant)</td>
</tr>

At this point, the most important task for the librarian is to try to ascertain the most relevant facts in the user’s reference question. Begin the reference interview by ascertaining:

1. What information is already known? For example, the user may have part or all of a case name, the popular name of a law, or a code citation.

2. In which jurisdiction will research be conducted? Is the research only for California law, only federal law, or perhaps both? Remember that county or city municipal ordinances may also apply.

3. What are the factual issues involved? An issue is the question a court (or the researcher) must answer to solve a specific legal problem.

The issue may already be clearly formulated, such as:

What is the penalty for shoplifting?
Who is at fault in a car accident when one car rear-ends another?

One thing you can do is assist the user in separating the relevant from the irrelevant facts. Is it relevant that the two vehicles involved in the car accident example mentioned above were both painted red? Probably not. Is it relevant that one of the vehicles was a private car and the other was a fire engine with its siren blaring as it raced to answer an alarm? Perhaps, but do remember that the answer will ultimately be a legal conclusion, made either by the user acting as her own attorney, or by an attorney representing the user in the legal matter.

Once the user and the librarian identify the potentially relevant facts, the next step is for the librarian to use his or her professional expertise to identify the appropriate resources that are likely to answer the user’s questions. As in any other interaction, the librarian’s responsibility is to assist the user in locating relevant resources that may answer the research question.

The major difference when providing legal reference is that the librarian must then step back, as it is the user’s responsibility to do his or her own legal research and come to a conclusion about the legal issues and the relevant law that applies to the specific situation. Often, due to the complexity of legal issues, a person will reach the conclusion that he or she needs to consult a lawyer.

Identifying Relevant Legal Resources

Once the legal issue(s) have been identified, the challenge for the librarian is to identify the legal resources available in the collection or online which are most likely to provide answers. Many public libraries have some basic legal titles and self-help law books. It may be helpful to have one or two legal research books available for public library users, such as Nolo’s Legal Research: How to Find and Understand the Law. Public libraries in California may also want to have a number of the California law-specific self-help books.¹

It cannot be stressed enough that legal materials must be kept current, as the law is constantly changing. Many public libraries purchase the Nolo Press self-help law books, either in hard copy or in e-format, for the general public. Nolo Press and Nolo Press Occidental are very reputable publishers who are committed to keeping their materials up-to-date, so librarians can confidently refer users to the current editions of these resources.²

- Consult a Secondary Source First

  Once the general legal terms are identified, the user will likely need to become more familiar with a specific area of law. Most researchers find it helpful to start with a secondary source such as a legal encyclopedia, a treatise, or a legal periodical article before researching primary authority. Secondary sources summarize and interpret the law in a narrative format. They also give useful background information and provide references to relevant primary sources.

One of the most useful secondary sources is a legal encyclopedia, which can be found in some non-law libraries. Legal encyclopedias provide good overviews of many legal topics, with numerous references to primary law and other secondary materials. There are three legal encyclopedias useful to researchers in California: California Jurisprudence 3rd, (abbreviated as Cal. Jur. 3d), which covers California law, and the two national encyclopedias: American Jurisprudence 2d (abbreviated as Am. Jur. 2d) and Corpus Juris Secundum (abbreviated as C.J.S.). The latter two titles cover all jurisdictions in the United States.

Another useful secondary source for those interested in California civil law is Witkin’s Summary of California Law. This authoritative, multi-volume treatise provides an overview of major areas of California law: torts, contracts, landlord-tenant, employment, and family law, to name a few. A separate Witkin treatise, California Criminal Law (scroll to bottom of page) discusses crimes and criminal procedure.

Common features of these secondary legal sources include subject indexes, as well as tables of cases and statutes cited. They are updated regularly with pocket parts (which are inserted in the back of the bound volumes) or supplementary pamphlets to reflect changes in the law or new cases. Please note that neither the Witkin publications nor the legal encyclopedias described above are available for free on the Internet.

- Accessing Print Legal Materials: Using the Indexes

Despite many dire predictions to the contrary, printed law books are still widely used by researchers at all levels of experience. For the librarian with limited experience in legal materials, it can be comforting to know that using law books is not very different from using other kinds of reference books. Most law books have subject indexes, tables of contents, and tables of cases and statutes, as well as other helpful information. Whether looking for statutes, cases, or commentary on a particular topic, the index is usually the best place to begin research. In most indexes, both commonplace words as well as legal terms are used; often a subject is indexed under several different words or phrases. As an example: statutes of limitation may also be referred to as limitations of actions.

The first words to look for in the index are those that you have identified through TARP. If you are not successful using those words, you should not assume there is nothing on point. Also, you should not stop searching the index simply because you have found a single relevant reference. There may be other applicable statutes or relevant cases. For example, California statutes that address driving while intoxicated may be found in both the Penal and the Vehicle Codes.

As stated in other chapters of this publication and in the section above, novice legal researchers should start with a secondary source, such as a Nolo Press book. These publications are written in plain English and will provide citations to relevant cases and statutes. Secondary sources will also provide the researcher with keywords and terms that may not otherwise occur to the researcher.

For the purposes of identifying alternative terms, dictionaries and thesauri (particularly legal dictionaries and thesauri) may be consulted. Moreover, there are a number of legal Web sites which may be helpful in identifying the appropriate terminology for a particular issue. Later, this chapter will highlight the most reputable and authoritative legal Web sites.

Print vs. Online Resources

As previously stated, a vast amount of legal information is available for free online. In addition to government Web sites, there are commercially published online resources, such as West’s FindLaw and Lexis’s Communities, as well as online resources created by academic and county law libraries. Online legal research can be daunting, however, depending on the researcher’s familiarity with legal terminology and understanding of the organization of legal authority. As with all online research, the adage “garbage in, garbage out” is true when someone attempts to retrieve relevant information without a clear understanding of the legal concepts involved. The initial challenge, then, is in deciding whether it is more efficient to start with an online search, or whether it makes sense to start with the books. Consider the following two questions:

I have a traffic ticket. What is VC 23152?

I want to read the California case, Marvin v. Marvin.

If the librarian is able to identify VC as an abbreviation for Vehicle Code, he or she can assist the user in going online to the Web site for Official California Legislative Information, which provides online access to the codes (select the button “California Law”), and locate section 23152 of the Vehicle Code, which is one of the statutes dealing with driving under the influence. As for the Marvin case, the user can be directed to the California opinions database at the Judicial Council’s California Courts Web site. Both of these resources will be discussed in more detail below. The point is that when a user has a specific citation to a case, statute, or regulation, going to the online resource is preferable in most situations.

Aside from questions relating to specific code sections, regulations, cases, and citing (discussed in greater detail below), the choice of using a print resource over an online resource depends on the complexity of the question and the expertise of the researcher. Certainly, a librarian’s options may also be limited by the availability of print resources in his or her own collection, the proximity of a

Finding the Law

Because access to the Internet is now almost universal in public libraries, and much primary legal authority is available through government and other Web sites, the remainder of this chapter will provide an overview of traditional print legal materials, providing references to online sources where appropriate. Legal information from each branch of government will be discussed in this order: statutes, regulations, case law, and a short description of local government ordinances and codes. The chapter concludes with a discussion of a few of the most reputable and useful legal Web sites.

Finding Statutes

Many public and college libraries in California collect one or more of the printed federal codes, as well as one or both California annotated codes. Once the user has a general idea of the major legal issues involved, he or she should be directed to the federal or state codes for applicable statutes. This is advisable even when the user has already done some case law research and believes he or she has identified the relevant cases. If the user is not sure whether state law or federal law governs, he or she should consult both the state and federal codes, as some legal issues are covered by more than one jurisdiction.

As discussed in detail in Chapter 1: Introduction and Chapter 7: Federal Law, statutes are laws passed by the U.S. Congress and the various state legislatures. Federal laws are assigned public law numbers and California laws are assigned chapter numbers. Statutes are first published chronologically (by public law number or chapter number) and then reorganized by subject into codes. The federal code is published by the government in the United States Code (abbreviated U.S.C.) and in two commercial publications: West’s United States Code Annotated (abbreviated U.S.C.A.) and Lexis’ United States Code Service (abbreviated U.S.C.S.).

California codes (discussed in detail in Chapter 5: California Law) are published in West’s Annotated California Codes (published by West) and in Deering’s California Codes Annotated (published by Lexis). Annotated codes include references to case law and other sources in addition to the text of the statutes themselves. The text of the statutes is the same in all sets of codes for a particular jurisdiction; however, indexing words, case annotations, and references to other sources are chosen by the publication editors and may differ from one set to another.

Each codified set includes a comprehensive general index, which is republished annually. In addition, each also includes a table of contents and a separate index for each subject code or title. Because some legal issues may be addressed in a number of laws, in several different subject codes or titles, it is best to start with the general index when looking for relevant statutory law. As an example, California laws involving drugs and other controlled substances can be found in the Penal Code, the Health and Safety Code, and the Vehicle Code.

Starting with the general index usually helps the researcher identify the relevant subject code title(s) that cover the broad legal topic. He or she can then go to the specific code and use the code index and/or table of contents to find the precise sections relevant to his or her research. Use the words identified through TARP to search the index. Both legal and factual words are indexed. Once the user has identified a relevant section of the code using the index, he or she can go to that code section and read the text of the statute. For the California codified sets, the code names and sections are on the spines of the volumes. For the federal codified sets, the title name, number and sections are on the spines.

Be sure to tell the user to read the information that follows the text of the code section. There are often references to legal encyclopedias, treatises (such as the above-mentioned Witkin's) or periodical articles that discuss the statute.

Most importantly, there will usually be case summaries (or annotations), often referred to as Notes of Decisions. The Notes of Decisions for a particular statute summarize the cases that have interpreted that section and include citations to the cases (See Chapter 2: How to Read a Legal Citation). For some statutes, especially in the federal codes, there may be many cases where the courts have interpreted or applied the law. The case annotations are organized by specific topic and subtopic, with an outline of the topics and subtopics provided at the beginning of the Notes. After identifying some potentially relevant cases in the annotations, the researcher should read the complete opinions in these cases (discussed further below). Legal researchers never rely solely on the case annotations to understand the legal issues that were decided in the case.

Those researching California law should know that in addition to the general indexes contained at the end of the West’s and Deering’s codified sets, there is an alternative general index to the California codes entitled LARMAC, The Consolidated Index to the Constitution and Laws of California, which is republished annually.
• Using a Popular Name Table

Another useful tool contained in many of the code sets is the Popular Name Table. This table is useful when the user knows the name of a particular act, but not the code citation. For example, if a user wants to find the federal Americans with Disabilities Act, she can look up this name in the Popular Name Table of either U.S.C.A. or U.S.C.S. to identify the correct title and section number in the federal code. In both the federal and state codes published by West, the Popular Name Tables are located at the end of the General Indexes (after the Z’s). Fortunately, there is free online access to the federal Popular Name Table from the following two Web sites:

- U.S. House of Representatives’ Office of Law the Revision Counsel
- Cornell Law School’s Legal Information Institute (LII)

While Deering’s California Codes Annotated does not contain a separate popular name table, the General Index for this set includes popular names of many state laws (e.g., the Brown Act) as index entries. An additional publication entitled Shepard’s Acts and Cases by Popular Name: Federal and State allows the researcher to locate federal and state legislation by popular name, but is usually found only in law libraries.

• Updating Statutory Law in Print

The annotated federal and California codes, like many other types of legal publications, are updated by annual pocket parts and supplementary pamphlets, each one of which incorporates the changes in the law that have taken place in a particular bound volume of the code since that volume was last published. Researchers must remember to check the relevant section(s) in the bound volume(s) and in the corresponding pocket part(s) or supplementary pamphlet(s) to determine if the law has been amended or repealed, and whether there are new case annotations or other references.

Unlike the annotated codes, the official United States Code is not updated regularly by pocket parts or supplementary pamphlets that correspond to specific volumes of the code. Instead, the official code is republished every six years and is updated annually by a series of hardbound supplements. For this reason, researchers are advised not to rely on the printed U.S. Code for the most current version of a statute.
There are additional sources that a researcher can use to find even more recent statutes and amendments not yet incorporated into the annual supplements. For example, both U.S.C.A. and U.S.C.S. have supplementary pamphlets that update the sets after the annual pocket parts are published. These pamphlets follow the same classification scheme as the bound volumes are organized by subject code or title. Even more up-to-date than those supplements, are the monthly advance sheets to United States Code Congressional and Administrative News (abbreviated U.S.C.C.A.N.), which contain the text of newly enacted legislation, arranged by public law number.\(^7\) Both U.S.C.S. and U.S.C.A. also have legislative service pamphlets that contain the text of the most recent public laws arranged by public law number.\(^8\)

For California statutes, both West's and Deering's have advance legislative service pamphlets that can be used to update the annual pocket parts or supplementary pamphlets contained in their respective codes. The legislative service pamphlets for California contain statutes recently passed by the California legislature, which are arranged chronologically by chapter number.\(^9\)

The advance sheets to U.S.C.C.A.N., as well as the California legislative service pamphlets, contain subject indexes and a number of tables. One such table enables the researcher to use a bill number to identify the chapter number or public law number of the new statute. The indexes allow you to locate recent legislation by subject and popular names of acts. In addition, the current California laws are available online, as described in the section below.

Unfortunately, this multi-step process is cumbersome. The commercial databases (Westlaw, LexisNexis, and other lower-cost alternatives, such as Loislaw and Fastcase) are updated frequently and offer the researcher the assurance that he or she is relying on a law that has not been recently amended. Local academic and county law libraries often provide public access to these commercial legal services for free. Users can either contact the library directly or search the libraries’ Web sites for information on electronic databases available for public use. Below is more information on several of these online databases.

- Federal Statutes on the Internet

\(^7\) Most law libraries have this multi-volume set.

\(^8\) For more detailed information on federal materials, see Chapter 7: Federal Law.

\(^9\) For more detailed information on California materials, see Chapter 5: California Law.
There are several websites that provide free access to the unannotated federal statutes. While all use the same U.S. Code (prepared by the Law Revision Counsel of the House), each has a different “front end” (way to access and search). Deciding which site to use for federal statutory research is dependent on how much information is available at the start of the search session, as well as the type of information that is sought. Many legal researchers often go to more than one web site to be sure that they have located all relevant information:

1. Cornell’s Legal Information Institute (LII)
   This site provides access to the United States Code that is easy to navigate for the researcher who is familiar with federal law and knows the title in which a statute will be contained. The searcher can enter the title and section number of the code and be linked to the current text as produced on the House of Representatives site. Another great feature of this site is the Popular Names of Acts in the US Code that provides links to statutes and other resources related to recent federal laws, such as legislative documents on Thomas. There is also a search engine that permits keyword searches.

2. House of Representatives, Office of the Law Revision Counsel
   The House’s version of the Code actually links directly to the Web site of the Office of the Law Revision Counsel, the agency responsible for compiling and publishing the U.S.C.. This site is fairly easy to navigate and one of the best features is that recent amendments to laws are incorporated, and a note about the amendment is appended at the end of each statute. It also has very simple search options for researchers who are looking for the text of a statute and already have the U.S.C. citation. Furthermore, it offers the option of keyword searches within specific titles. However, in terms of citation to the official U.S.C., the following caution on the site should be noted: “While every effort has been made to ensure that the Code database on the web site is accurate, those using it for legal research should verify their results against the printed version of the United States Code available through the Government Printing Office.” Also note that the new United States Code beta site was launched in the fall 2011, which introduces new search features.

   This is the official online version of the U.S. Code, produced online in the same way that the print U.S. Code is published by the Government Printing Office (GPO). FDsys contains the virtual main editions of the U.S. Code, which has been provided to GPO by the Office of the Law Revision Counsel of the U.S. House of Representatives. The most current edition is the 2006 edition. Annual cumulative supplements are published in order to present the most current information.

4. Library of Congress’ Thomas
   This is Congress’ official Web site, which is maintained through the Library of Congress. A link on the homepage sends the researcher to the Code as published by the Office of the Law Revision Counsel as discussed above. In addition, Thomas has federal bills, committee reports, and other legislative documents.

- California Statutes on the Internet
  California statutes are available on the Official California Legislative Information Web site. This site is maintained by the Legislative Counsel of California and contains the text of the current California codes. The codes are searchable by keyword and citation, or can be browsed section by section within each subject title. A new beta site for California legislative information was released in the fall of 2011. As of Nov. 4, 2011, it did not yet include a California Law option.

Finding Agency Rules & Regulations

Administrative law is a huge, complex category of law. Often, when Congress or a state legislature sees a need to regulate in a certain area, it will write a statute in very general terms and delegate the power to issue specific rules and regulations to an administrative agency that specializes in this area. The rules and regulations issued by the administrative agencies are referred to as administrative law. Agencies deal with such issues as eligibility requirements for Medi-Cal and safety standards for various products such as toys.

As our society has become more and more complex, Congress and the state legislatures have been forced to delegate more and more of their legislative powers to administrative agencies, which has significantly augmented the role that administrative law plays in our legal system and in our everyday lives. In California, there are more than 200 agencies, departments, commissions, and other entities that have some regulatory power. Chapter 5: California Law and Chapter 7: Federal Law discusses federal and California administrative materials in more detail. Below is a summary of the major resources for locating federal and California administrative law.
Federal Regulations

The Government Printing Office (GPO) publishes federal administrative regulations, which are first issued in chronological order in the Federal Register. Regulations are later codified by subject in the Code of Federal Regulations (C.F.R.). Like the U.S. Code, the C.F.R. is organized into 50 broad subject titles. There is an official subject index to the C.F.R. contained at the end of the set. The entire set is revised annually in paper bound volumes. Each year has a different spine color. There are also commercially published C.F.R. indexes. Researchers may need to update a specific C.F.R. section, to determine if it has been recently amended. The List of CFR Sections Affected (LSA) pamphlet lists all of the C.F.R. sections affected by new regulations issued since the C.F.R. annual revision. Consult the Federal Register issues, which contain CFR Parts Affected tables for the months following the latest LSA that covers your subject. These tables usually appear in the Federal Register issues at the end of each month. All of the sources discussed in this paragraph are available online through GPO’s Federal Digital System (FDsys).

California Regulations

In California, regulations are codified by subject and published in Barclays Official California Code of Regulations (CCR), which is published by West in loose-leaf format. The state’s administrative code is divided into 27 titles and each title focuses on a particular topic (e.g., Title 5, Education). All of the rules for a particular agency are kept together in CCR. Each title contains detailed tables of contents that can be consulted to find the relevant regulations. There is a detailed subject index for the California Code of Regulations, called the Master Index. The state regulations are also available online through the Web site of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL).

The OAL has contracted with West to provide online public access to the state regulations. However, one title, Title 24 Building Standards, is not published as part of the Official California Code of Regulations, nor is it available on the OAL.

10 The migration of information from GPO Access into FDsys was completed in 2011. As of November 5, 2011, GPO Access is no longer updated or maintained. Until it is shut down in 2012, it will be available as a reference archive. For a table that outlines the relationship between the collections on GPO Access and FDsys collections, see http://www.gpo.gov/help/gpo_access_and_fdsys_content_collection_mapping.htm
Web site. Title 24 is copyrighted and published by the International Conference of Building Officials.¹¹

- Other Methods of Finding Regulations

The Master Index to the California Code of Regulations contains a Statutes to Regulations table that lists the regulations related to the various California statutory code sections. For federal regulations, the official C.F.R. index contains a similar table called a Table of Authorities, which lists the regulations issued under the authority of the various federal statutory code sections. Researchers who have a statutory code section may find these tables particularly useful when trying to locate related regulations. Regulations related to a particular statute may also be referenced in the annotations to the code section in either West’s Annotated California Codes or Deering’s California Codes Annotated.

Finding Case Law

Case law is judge-made law issued by the appellate courts in the form of written opinions. Courts and attorneys are concerned with case law because our legal system is based in part on the recording of precedents. Under this system, courts apply the same law to similar cases. Sometimes, courts are bound to follow prior precedents (e.g., when the precedent comes from the U.S. Supreme Court). Even if the prior authority is not binding on a court, the prior decisions still have persuasive authority and courts rely on these prior decisions in subsequent cases. Generally, the more similar a previously decided case is to the case at hand, the more likely it is that a court will follow the prior precedent. Thus, it is the job of the researcher to look for cases that are as similar as possible (both from a factual, as well as a legal standpoint) to the case at hand.

- Traditional Subject Approach to Case Law: Print Digests

Because cases are published chronologically, historically the researcher needed an index to access case law. Cases are indexed in multi-volume sets called digests. For California cases, two digests are available: McKinney’s Digest of Official Reports and West's California Digest. For federal cases, there is the West Federal Practice Digest series, which indexes all reported federal opinions, including the U.S. Supreme Court. West publishes the Supreme Court Digest and Lexis publishes the Digest of U.S. Supreme Court Reports, Lawyers' Edition. Both focus exclusively on U.S. Supreme Court cases.

West also publishes the Decennial Digest series, which covers all federal and state cases from throughout the country, as well as regional digests that correspond to various regional reporters published by West (e.g., Pacific Digest, South Eastern Digest, etc.).

The West digests are organized by legal topics, which are subdivided into many smaller sections known as key numbers, each of which represents a specific legal/factual issue.

All digests have multi-volume subject indexes. In the digests published by West, these indexes are called Descriptive Word Indexes. To find cases that are factually similar to the user's, one should use the words identified through TARP as discussed at the beginning of the chapter. The Descriptive Word Index directs the researcher to a topic and a key number. Once the topic and key number that covers the legal issue are identified, the digest volume containing that topic and key number must be located. Under the key number, you will find many short summaries (i.e., annotations) of cases that deal with the legal issue at hand.

Researchers must read through the annotations to identify the cases that may be promising. At the end of each annotation is the name of the case and its citation. Again, users should always be advised to read the actual opinion in a case and not to rely solely on the annotations in the digests, which are written by editors, not judges.

Because the key numbers are arranged in the digest in a logical classification scheme, users who are having difficulty isolating a relevant key number from the Descriptive Word Index may find it helpful to browse one or more of the topical outlines that exist for each topic in the digest. A list of the digest topics can be found at the beginning of all of the digest volumes. Even if a user has already found a relevant key number, she may still wish to browse the topical outline for that topic to find related key numbers. Another way of finding other relevant topics and key numbers is to look up a relevant case in the appropriate case reporter. West case reporters contain headnotes (which summarize the rules of law) at the beginning of the case with the relevant topic and key numbers also provided. Often, browsing the headnotes of a relevant case will provide a researcher with ideas of other relevant topics and key numbers to look up in the digest.

Note: West uses the same topics and key numbers in each of its digests. This enables the researcher to readily find relevant cases from a multitude of jurisdictions.

Like other legal materials, the digests are updated with pocket parts and supplementary pamphlets. When looking up a particular topic and key number, after checking the appropriate bound volume of the digest, remember to check the pocket part or supplementary pamphlet for more recent case annotations under your relevant topic and key number.

- Case Name Approach

  What if the user has the name of a case, such as Brown v. Board of Education, but no citation? A case citation can be found by consulting the Table of Cases volumes found at the end of the digest. The Table of Cases is merely an alphabetical listing, by plaintiff, showing the name of all reported cases covered in the digest. There is also a Defendant-Plaintiff Table. Like all other digest volumes, the Table of Cases and Defendant-Plaintiff Table are updated with pocket parts or pamphlets.

  As mentioned earlier, Shepard’s Acts and Cases By Popular Name: Federal and State may also be an effective way of finding the citation to a well-known case by its popular name (e.g., Closed Shop Case). However, it is not comprehensive, so the digest tables may need to be consulted for less prominent cases.

- Using the Annotated Codes to Find Case Law

  As noted above, case law can be very important when doing statutory research. When looking for cases related to a particular statute one should begin with the case annotations contained in the annotated codes (as opposed to starting with the digests). After consulting the annotations (and reading the cases summarized therein), one should consult the relevant digest for additional cases, since the digest may summarize cases not included in the annotations to the codes.

- Legal Citators
Shepard’s Citations enables a researcher to find all of the subsequent cases that have cited to a particular case. Shepard’s is used primarily to trace the history of a case, to determine whether a case is still valid and to find other relevant authority to support one’s arguments. Researchers should always “Shepardize” a case before relying on it in court or in a court document. The Shepard’s hardcopy sets are kept up-to-date with both bound supplements and supplementary pamphlets. Researchers using Shepard’s must consult all supplementary volumes and pamphlets in order to do a complete search for the subsequent treatment of a case. The preface pages of each volume contain detailed illustrations of actual usage and have a table of abbreviations. Researchers should be cautioned that since judicial opinions are issued daily, the Shepard’s print copies are out of date from the date that they are published. Additionally, they are extremely cumbersome to use, especially when compared with online versions. Hence, because many law libraries subscribe to Shepard’s online through LexisNexis, users should contact their local law library. Westlaw has developed a similar online service, called KeyCite, which links the researcher to other cases. Again, some law libraries provide public access to Westlaw. A list of county law libraries is available online at the Public Law Library, under Find Your ...

- Locating Case Law on the Internet

Until recently, a user who was attempting to do extensive case law research, even with a fairly clear set of facts, usually needed to be referred to the closest law library open to the public. This was because searching for case law on the Internet was frustrating and time-consuming, since the commercially published reporter series containing appellate decisions are copyrighted publications, which are not available for free online.

Increasingly, recent and even historical cases are available for free online. In November 2009, Google launched a Legal Opinions and Journals database (available via its Google Scholar search). Go to the Advanced Scholar Search page to limit your search to only U.S. federal court opinions or to search court opinions from individual states or combination of states. Keep in mind that because you are searching the full text opinions your searches will inevitably result in many cases not directly relevant to your research. Please see the section on Google’s Advanced Scholar Search Tips for options on how to refine your search.

In addition, various sites, covering specific legal topics, often contain the full text of significant cases. All appellate courts, federal and state, are now making their recent decisions available on their Web sites. Most of these Web sites can now be searched by case name, docket number or date of decision, and many sites have some type of search engine. Retrospective coverage for earlier decisions, however, varies significantly from one site to another.\(^\text{12}\)

United States Supreme Court cases can be located on a number of Web sites. One of the easiest to access is FindLaw’s US Supreme Court Opinions. This site contains U.S. Supreme Court opinions back to 1893 (volume 150 of the United States Reports), which can be searched by citation, case name or keyword.

As stated previously in this chapter, California cases are available online for free on the Judicial Council’s California Courts site. Several years ago, Lexis agreed to provide free online access to California cases as part of its contract to be the official publisher of the state court reporters. A link on the official court Web site takes the researcher to a special Lexis page for searching California cases from 1850 to within six months of publication. Cases can be retrieved by citation to the official and unofficial reporters. Natural language is the default search. For terms and connectors searching, click on the Advanced Search link. A new source worth noting is SCOCAL, a joint project between the Robert Crown Law Library at Stanford Law School and Justia, Inc. The site provides free access to the full text California Supreme Court opinions from 1934 to present, along with detailed annotations of selected cases written and edited by students in Stanford’s Advanced Legal Research class. Also note that some briefs and other court documents are available on this site, free of charge.

Finding Local Government Law

City and county ordinances are local statutes passed by city councils and county boards of supervisors. For most local jurisdictions, there is a codified set that arranges the local ordinances by topic (like the state and federal codes). Usually there is a subject index for the local code. Today, most municipalities have official Web sites that publish their ordinances and codes, in addition to other official information, such as minutes of meetings, calendars of events, etc.\(^\text{13}\) However, if a local community is slow in publishing its ordinances or does not have a Web site, the county office or city hall may be your only recourse to finding this information.

Online Resources

The increasing availability of online legal information offers the advantages of speed and timeliness for the experienced researcher. In recent years, costs for subscribing to LexisNexis, Westlaw, and other online legal services, have become more affordable, as legal information vendors have increasingly marketed their products outside of the traditional legal community. Today, researchers can subscribe to some legal databases for as little as $100 per month.

The good news is that many county law libraries in California now offer access to one or more of the subscription legal databases for the public. To locate the closest county law library to you and obtain information about their publicly available resources, please see Appendix C of this publication or go to the Public Law Library Web site (click on Find Your ...)

Commercial Legal Databases

For some users, subscription to one of the commercial legal databases may be a viable alternative to the extra time it would require to visit a law library or to navigate the free resources on the Internet. These users would be fairly advanced online researchers and not averse to spending their own money, in exchange for the convenience of doing their research from their own computer. There are several options from which to choose: Fastcase, LexisNexis Communities, Loislaw, VersusLaw, and Westlaw by Credit Card. These legal services are described in Georgetown’s Free & Low Cost Legal Research Guide.

Free Internet Sources

In addition to Georgetown’s Guide, Pace Law Library has a guide entitled Free and Low Cost Resources for Legal Research, which includes several New York state sources. UCLA Law Library also has a guide called Online Legal Research: Beyond LexisNexis and Westlaw that includes many California resources.

14 As of April 5, 2011, LexisNexis discontinued LexisNexis by Credit Card, its Research Value Packages and transactional access to enhanced case law available at lexisONE. In addition, LexisNexis Communities have replaced lexisOne, although you are still able to access the same forms and free case law offered through lexisOne.
In concluding this chapter, here is a summary of several of the better-known legal Web sites:

- FindLaw
  Probably the largest and best known of all the legal meta-sites, FindLaw was originally created in 1996 by several attorneys who sold their site to Thomson West in 2001. FindLaw has a user-friendly search engine (i.e., Law Crawler, powered by Google) that can search within the site or across the Web. Users create a free “My FindLaw” account and can create a customized homepage for their specific legal research requirements. And most important of all, users have confidence that information retrieved through this site will be legitimate and reliable. The “new” FindLaw continues to grow and has some great features, such as offering separate interfaces for the public, for the legal practitioner, and for students.

  While researchers are able to access many of the same thousands of links to law and related sites (more than 50,000) from any of the three interfaces, FindLaw for the Public offers information in more than 100 subject areas, which are all arranged in an easy-to-view format:

  1. Overview of the legal topic;
  2. Subject FAQ (frequently asked questions);
  3. Links to related resources, including forms.

- Cornell Law School’s Legal Information Institute (LII)
  One of the most venerable portals to legal information, LII continues to be one of the most frequently visited Web sites since its launch in 1993. LII provides links to more than 90,000 other sites. Its version of the United States Code (discussed above) is the single most heavily visited source for this item. In addition, all opinions of the United States Supreme Court from 1990 to the current term are available (organized by party name), as well as over 600 earlier decisions selected for their historic importance.

  There are a number of easily-accessible drop-down menus for the most frequently accessed sources from LII’s home page, including: federal and state constitutions and codes, court opinions, law by jurisdiction, basic legal citation information, and directories, which includes a link to the University Law Review Project. This service allows the researcher to sign up to receive abstracts of current law review articles (from the LII homepage, go to the Directories page and click on Journals for registration information). This also links the researcher back to FindLaw’s Academic Law Reviews and Journals page.
The real highlight of Cornell LII’s site, however, is under the “Law about” link to Wex, “a collaboratively-edited legal dictionary and encyclopedia” which offers the online researcher access to primary and secondary materials arranged in more than 130 main legal topics, each of which is broken down in the following manner:

1. Each topic begins with an “Overview,” which offers a concise explanation/definition of the legal topic, similar to that found in traditional print legal encyclopedias such as C.J.S. or Am. Jur. 2d.
2. There is also a “Menu of Sources” which provides links to online federal and state materials, including statutes, regulations, and selected court decisions about the particular area of law.
3. “Other Resources” links the researcher to other Internet (both free and fee) sites with information about these topics.
4. Finally, there are links to “Other Topics” in Wex, which are related to the present topic.

- Washburn University School of Law’s WashLaw
  This site, maintained by the staff of the Washburn Law Library, organizes much of the information available in an alphabetical index by jurisdiction, for state, federal, and international law. Each page is organized similarly, with links to the following:

  1. The official home page for the jurisdiction
  2. Statutes and other legislative documents
  3. Administrative codes and regulations
  4. Courts and related agencies, other resources (opinions, forms, rules, etc.)
  5. Historical documents (if available), such as constitutions

There is also a separate “Master Index,” which provides an interesting A-Z listing of law-related topics not found on other sites.

(Hint: For easy, one-stop shopping to all official websites for California’s state, county and local governments, bookmark WashLaw’s California page).

Chapter 4

LEGAL REFERENCE VS. LEGAL ADVICE

“No person shall practice law in California unless the person is an active member of the State Bar.”

In California, it is illegal for individuals who are not members of the California State Bar Association to practice law. The practice of law has been defined by California courts as:

“... doing or performing services in a court of justice, in any matter depending therein, throughout its various stages, and in conformity to the adopted rules of procedure. But in a larger sense it includes legal advice and counsel, and the preparation of legal instruments and contracts by which legal rights are secured, although such matter may or may not be pending in court.”

The Issue Presented

When or in what situations legal reference may constitute the unauthorized practice of law has been the topic of professional library literature since the early 20th century. If one takes the most common sense view, the issue is whether a user who goes to a public library to do legal research reasonably believes that the communications between him or her and the librarian creates an attorney-client relationship. Most people, queried about this scenario, would probably answer with a resounding “no.” However, while there is no documented case of a librarian being prosecuted for practicing law without a license, the real concern for our profession is a matter of ethics. No librarian wants to give bad or inaccurate information to their library’s users.

Nonetheless, it is foreseeable that in an effort to provide good service, a librarian may go beyond providing reference assistance and begin offering personal opinions or advice. Under this scenario, the librarian may inadvertently, but unduly, influence the user in deciding not only what his or her specific legal issue may be, but also the course of action which should be taken to resolve the legal issue.

It is important to remember that in times of stress, people often neglect to mention facts that may be crucial to the legal issue. If the librarian is mistaken in his or her understanding of the facts or legal issues involved (possibly because the user has not communicated his or her question clearly), the librarian’s interventions could negatively affect the ultimate outcome of the user’s legal problem.

Imagine the following scenario at the reference desk of your public library:

Library User: I would like information on security deposits. I just got a letter from my old landlord. He is not going to give me any of my security deposit back. I left the apartment cleaner than it was when I moved into it! In fact, I even painted the apartment while I lived there for almost a year. Now I get this letter from him saying I won’t be getting my deposit back, and not only that, he is threatening to sue me for more money!

Public Librarian: “Landlords can’t do that! They have to provide you with a list of any deductions for repairs they make from your deposit,” as she prepares to hand a copy of Nolo’s Tenant’s Rights book to the user.

Library User: “Really? In that case, I am going to the court to get the papers to sue him first right now.” Out of the library he goes, without looking at the book being offered to him.

In this scenario, there is no issue of unauthorized practice of law. However, by commenting on the user’s situation, the librarian may have inadvertently influenced the library user’s course of action in dealing with this potential legal problem. Without conducting a thorough reference interview, the librarian was not able to assist the user in identifying the facts which may determine the legal issues involved.
It is possible that the landlord had to re-paint the entire apartment to cover the inappropriate colors (think neon pink, yellow & blue) chosen by Library User (who did leave the apartment clean). Also, Library User may not have paid rent for the last month he lived in the apartment, assuming it was covered by the move-in deposit. The cost of repainting the apartment may have been more than the amount the landlord was holding in the tenant’s account, causing the landlord to demand more money from Library User. There are a number of unknown facts which could impact the legal issues of this landlord-tenant dispute.

This scenario is an example of how the comments of a librarian who does not know all the relevant facts might influence a library user to act in ways that may not be in their best interests. Presumably, no librarian would ever knowingly provide bad information to users, but when assisting those seeking legal information, additional sensitivity and caution is important. Conducting a thorough reference interview allows the librarian to assist the user in identifying potential legal issues such as:

- Can the landlord deduct for the cost of re-painting the apartment when the tenant lived there for a year?

- Is the letter Library User received the legal equivalent to the required “list of repairs and deductions”?

What a Non-Attorney Can and Cannot Do

Librarians in all types of libraries are committed to giving the very best service possible. The following is a list of “dos and don’ts” to serve as a guide when public librarians assist a user with legal reference questions. In general, librarians who recommend books and other sources, teach legal research techniques, and help in constructing searches, are providing legal reference.

On the other hand, a librarian who “takes over” the user’s legal question by interpreting and making conclusions about the legal problem may inadvertently cross the line. Librarians, paralegals and other non attorneys may know where to find legal information, but are not trained in the procedures and rules of the court, or in legal theory, and most importantly, are not licensed to practice law. It is imperative that users research their own issues and come to their own conclusions about how the law applies.

to their particular situations.

Ultimately, it is the user’s decision as to what the particular legal issue is and how or whether he or she will handle his or her own legal problem or obtain representation. There are plenty of legal procedures self-represented litigants can handle themselves, such as small claims court matters, but when issues get complicated, there is usually no substitute for a good attorney. Attorneys are trained in the law, they understand legal theory, they have experience with forms and court procedures, and they have malpractice insurance in case matters go awry.

How to Help Users Find Legal Assistance

There may be a variety of legal resources, agencies, or other groups in your community that are not well-publicized. This section briefly describes three steps that librarians may take to prepare for law-related questions from library users. For further information, please see Chapter 9: Assisting Self-Represented Litigants for a description of the California Courts’ programs for pro se litigants, as well as those offered by California county law libraries, nonprofit legal aid organizations and local law schools.

First call or check out the Web site of the closest public law library

There are often legal resources available in the community to assist people who are reluctant or unable to consult an attorney when they are initially confronted with a legal problem. For public librarians in California, a great resource is the Council of California County Law Librarians’ Public Law Library Web site. There are five “modules”: (1) Ask Now is a law librarian service which lets you ask questions and get answers in real time. Hours are limited to weekdays; (2) Self-Help provides links to Web sites which include content for use by the self-represented litigant; (3) Find Your... allows users to find the nearest county law library; (4) Mini Research Class is a mini research guide intended to help users learn the legal process. Classes include “Learning How to Research,” “Finding the Forms You Need,” and “The Importance of Updating Your Research;” and (5) Legal Links are links divided into categories to help the researcher find the information he or she requires. Categories include “General Legal Research,” “California Resources,” “Federal Resources,” “Local Law,” “Legal Directories,” and “Forms and Rules.”

There is a county law library in every county in California. Though they are funded separately from the public library, they are open to the public, and offer some reference service. They usually have a good collection of self-help law books, such as the Nolo Press publications. While many law librarians do have legal training, they do not give any legal advice—they provide reference service. County law libraries often compile a listing of local legal resource services (such as the State Bar-approved lawyer referral service or a legal clinic which offers pro bono services in the area), and they will be happy to share this information with public libraries. In addition, because many county law libraries are located in or near courthouses, the librarians may be able to provide information about domestic violence clinics which assist victims in getting temporary restraining orders, as well as other important programs, such as adoption clinics, mediation services for divorce, landlord-tenant, or neighbor disputes. Library users may be unaware of these resources, which may prove to be good starting points.
Be familiar with local bar associations and other legal service providers

You may also contact your local county bar association to find out what resources they have available in your area. Many county bar associations in California have pro bono programs, where attorneys volunteer time to legal causes and to people who cannot afford an attorney. In addition, some law schools offer legal clinics run by students who are supervised by attorneys. Contact your local law schools to get more information regarding this option.

There are legal aid societies and community outreach programs which may host legal clinics. Often senior citizen centers will have a lawyer visit on a regular basis.

Be familiar with the basic online federal and state resources

Check out the Web sites of federal and state government agencies for answers to questions about their internal policies and procedures. This will assist library users who are involved in a dispute with these agencies. The United States Government Manual is often a good resource to begin a quest for information about federal agencies. For general information about federal laws and regulations, remember to refer the user to USA.gov.

For information about California law and legal resources, do not forget to refer the user to the Official State of California Web site. There are links to all types of state government information from the main page.

Go to the California State Bar Web site for information about lawyer referral services to the public.

Have a Written Policy

People who need legal help are often apprehensive and may even be desperate to get the answer they want. When a library staff member becomes overly eager in assisting users, it can give the impression that a library is willing to do more than the law allows. All library staff should be educated regarding giving legal reference assistance. A posted written statement of the library’s policy is often useful in helping staff understand their limitations, as well as notifying the public.
Be sure to prominently display your library’s policy regarding legal reference assistance. The following language may assist you in developing your library’s policy:

A MESSAGE TO OUR USERS ABOUT LEGAL REFERENCE QUESTIONS:

It is unlawful for members of the Library staff to help users interpret legal materials they read or to advise them how the law might apply to their situation because these actions would constitute the unauthorized practice of law. It would also require an amount of personal service that a staff of our size cannot provide if we are still to carry out other duties. For those reasons, our staff must limit themselves to advising you which materials might be helpful to you, where they are located, and how to find information in them. Please do not think our staff is being uncooperative when they suggest that you interpret the materials you read for yourself and make your own decisions as to how the material you have read applies to your legal problem. Our staff will be happy to help you find the materials you need, and to show you how to use the various legal publications.

If you need further help to solve your legal problem, you may wish to consult one of the following legal service organizations:

[List your local legal service providers here]

A file of organizations that offer legal services may be very useful. Keep track of organizations’ URLs, addresses and phone numbers, as well as their hours of operation, and what services they provide. It is a good idea to note if they charge for their services, if they offer help over the phone, if an appointment is necessary, etc.

It is every librarian’s goal to be helpful and to give excellent reference service. By recommending appropriate legal resources, teaching users how to use the sets (e.g., indexes, tables, etc.) in your collection, and helping choose search terms and translating legal citations, we are keeping ourselves within the bounds set by the law and our professional ethics. We are also doing more good than harm to a user’s legal situation.

CALIFORNIA LAW

The state of California has done a great job of making its primary sources of law widely available via the Internet. In addition, legal publishers publish a multitude of secondary sources in print and in online databases. This abundance of information has made researching California law easy for some and overwhelming for others. For those without a legal background (and most with one), it is always advisable to start with a secondary source.¹

Contents:

- Secondary Sources
- Primary Sources
  - California Constitution
  - California Statutory Law
  - Legislative Process
  - California Case Law
    - California State Court System
    - California Case Law Publications
  - California Regulations & Regulatory Decisions
  - City & County Municipal Codes
- Other Resources
  - California County Law Libraries
  - California Attorneys
  - California Judges
- Selected Bibliography
  - Print Sources
  - Internet Sources

Secondary Sources

There are many California secondary sources geared specifically towards non-lawyers. Nolo Press is one of the most well respected legal self-help publishers. Titles such as The California Landlord’s Guide: Rights and Responsibilities, California Tenants Rights, How to Do Your Own Divorce in California, and U.S. Immigration Made Easy are found in many public libraries and serve as an excellent starting place for non-lawyers doing their own legal research. The Nolo Press Web site also has a Legal Encyclopedia which offers brief entries on many legal topics. Chapter 10: Bibliography of Self-Help Resources includes an extensive list of self-help books and Web sites, including numerous Nolo Press publications, arranged by subject area.

Another excellent resource is the California Judicial Council’s California Courts Web site. The California Judicial Council created the California Courts Online Self Help Center to assist self-represented litigants and others in learning about California law and court procedures. The Self Help Center offers information on common legal matters such as divorce, child custody and visitation, landlord/tenant issues, and small claims court in English, Spanish, Chinese, Korean, and Vietnamese. It includes guides for completing necessary court forms and links to legal service organizations and lawyer referral programs. It also provides links to state agencies that assist with legal problems such as employment discrimination.

The Self Help Center also provides access to AskNow’s Law Librarian Service which connects users with county law librarians throughout the state. Law librarians may suggest strategies and resources to help individuals with their particular legal research needs.

Primary Sources

It is important to keep in mind that primary sources of law – constitutions, statutes, cases, regulations, and regulatory decisions – all work together to form “the law” on a particular subject. A good secondary source will explain how these pieces of primary law fit together and which is most important for a particular legal issue. Please refer to Chapter 6: Bibliography of California Law Resources for a list of secondary sources, including legal encyclopedias, treatises, practice guides, and handbooks, which are all specific to California legal research.

A few words of caution: while researchers often just want to read the text of the Vehicle
Code section they allegedly violated or the text of a recent California Supreme Court decision, caution should be exercised in looking at any one of the primary sources of law in isolation when a broader topic is researched.

California Constitution

The first California Constitution was drafted by a group of 48 delegates in 1849. In 1878, a second constitutional convention was convened and in 1879, 152 delegates drafted the second California Constitution. Though amended numerous times, the 1879 Constitution continues to serve as the framework for California government and the rights of its citizens.²

The California Constitution may be found in many sources including within the sets of the California Codes. The California Legislative Counsel provides a searchable copy of the current California Constitution under the California Law button on its Web site.

California Statutory Law

The statutory laws of California consist of acts passed by the California legislature and by the California electorate through the initiative process. The legislative process is explained below. For more information on the initiative process, see A History of the California Initiatives available from the California Secretary of State.³

Statutes are organized by subject and published in the California codes. Codes provide the current version of statutes arranged by topic. Please see the next page for a list of California codes.

California does not publish an official version of its codes. Two unofficial versions of the codes, West’s Annotated California Codes published by West and Deering’s California Codes Annotated published by LexisNexis, contain all 29 codes. Both sets are arranged alphabetically by code title and include the California Constitution and the California Rules of Court. As indicated by their titles, both sets are annotated, meaning that they include references to cases, law review articles, and other materials which discuss and help explain individual code sections. Both sets are updated by yearly pocket parts, newspaper-like pamphlets inserted in the back of each volume, or by supplementary pamphlets. Some individual code titles such as the Civil Code, Evidence Code, and Vehicle Code are also published in unannotated paperback versions, often called compact codes. These volumes are republished yearly to incorporate any changes to the codes.

Both annotated and unannotated codes contain indexes to assist in locating particular sections. West’s Annotated California Codes and Deering’s California Codes Annotated both contain indexes to each individual code title as well as general indexes to the entire set of codes. LARMAC Consolidated Index to the Constitution and Laws of California is a separate index to the California Codes published yearly. It is not easy to guess in which code a particular statute will be found. Therefore, it is best to start in one of the general indexes or in LARMAC to locate relevant code sections.

The California Legislative Counsel provides a current set of the California Codes on its Web site. Individual codes or the entire set of 29 codes may be searched by keyword. In addition, the table of contents for each code may easily be printed or downloaded. The Legislative Counsel’s version of the California Codes is the most up-to-date but lacks annotations and historical notes.4

Legislative Process5

The laws which eventually become part of the California codes begin in the state legislature as bills. Bills passed by the legislature are enacted into law and become statutes. Statutes are published in chronological order in the official Statutes and Amendments to the Codes which serves as the permanent record of all statutes passed by the California Legislature. A single statute may affect (add to, revise, or repeal) more than one code section and, over time, one code section may be affected by many different statutes. West’s Annotated California Codes and Deering’s California Codes Annotated keep each code volume up-to-date with statutory changes through the use of pocket parts and supplementary pamphlets. Compact codes are republished each year so as to reflect any statutory change.

In order to understand why a certain statute was enacted by the legislature, a legislative intent (or history) search may be made. Legislative history research involves collecting the documents generated at each step of the legislative process and then reading them for evidence of intent. Locating legislative history documentation requires that one first understand the process by which a bill becomes a statute.6

The legislative process begins with the introduction of a bill on the floor of the Senate or the Assembly. Only a legislator may introduce a bill, but government agencies and community organizations, as well as individuals often propose the subject matter. The Legislative Counsel drafts the bill into the proper form and also provides a commentary in the preface of the bill, called the Legislative Digest.

Bills introduced in the Assembly are assigned a number preceded by A.B. Bills introduced in the Senate are assigned a number preceded by S.B. The Legislature meets in two-year sessions (e.g. 2009-2010) and bill numbers are assigned in sequential order.

4 Note that in the fall of 2011, the Legislative Counsel released a beta site for California legislative information: http://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/. As of November 4, 2011, the California Codes had not yet been added to the new site.

5 California’s Legislature, published by the Office of the Assembly Chief Clerk, is an in-depth introduction to the legislative process and to California state government. It is also available for purchase (currently $5) from the Legislative Bill room ((916) 445-2323).

6 The Legislative Counsel offers a detailed chart of the California legislative process [PDF], available via the Legislative Publications button (scroll down the page to California’s Legislature).
during each session. Bill numbers start anew with each new legislative session. It is therefore imperative when researching legislative intent to be able to specify:

- A.B. or S.B.
- the bill number
- the year the bill was introduced or passed

As a bill makes its way through the legislative process, it must follow certain rules. Once it is passed by both the Assembly and the Senate, it is submitted to the Governor for his signature. If the Governor signs the bill, it becomes a law effective January 1 of the following year. If the act is not signed within twelve days and the Legislature is still in session, it becomes a law without the Governor’s signature. If the Governor vetoes the bill, it can still become a statute on a two-thirds majority vote from each house of the Legislature. Once a bill becomes a statute, the Secretary of State assigns it a chapter number and it is placed chronologically in the official Statutes and Amendments to the Codes. The Legislative Counsel has made the statutes (starting from the 1993-94 legislative session) available on its Web site.

During the legislative process, documents such as committee analyses and reports may be generated. These documents may offer evidence of the legislative intent behind a particular statute. Committee analyses, voting records, veto messages, and bill versions from the 1993-94 legislative session to the present may be found for individual bills in the Bill Information portion of the California Legislative Counsel's Web site. Legislative information, both for bills which were passed into law and those which died may be searched by bill number, bill author, or keyword. While not providing complete legislative history documentation, the Bill Information portion of the Legislative Counsel’s Web site has made legislative documents much more accessible and may provide insight into legislative intent.

If a more complete legislative history is desired, the best place to start is in a library that serves as a state depository. There are also commercial legislative intent service companies that will research and prepare legislative histories for a fee.

7 Compiling legislative documents can be a time-consuming and frustrating task and many times the documents fail to reveal the legislator’s intent.
8 The California Legislative Information beta site offers new functionality to the Bill Search and bill Text Search Features.
9 Please see the Selected Bibliography at the end of this chapter for examples for commercial legislative intent research services.
Most libraries that collect legislative intent materials also have worksheets which are designed to guide the researcher through the process and are keyed to the materials available in their own collections. An excellent example is the California Legislative History Checklist available from the LA Law Library. Listed below are seven basic steps to get a researcher started on legislative intent research.

1. Check the annotations to the code section in both West’s Annotated California Codes and Deering’s California Codes Annotated for law review articles and/or cases that discuss legislative intent.

2. Check the history notes which follow the code section in West’s and Deering’s for chapter number and year. Note that many different statutes may have affected a code section over time. One must read the annotations and decide which statute or statutes one needs to research based on how each statute affected that code section.

3. Read the original statute and, if available, the Legislative Digest in the Statutes and Amendments to the Codes.

4. Convert the chapter number into a bill number. Before 1970, check Volume 1 of the Statutes and Amendments to the Codes, Table of Laws Enacted. After 1970, check the last volume of the Statutes and Amendments to the Codes, Summary Digest.

5. Check published sources of legislative intent:
   b. CEB’s Review of Selected Code Legislation, which covers some years prior to 1970.
   c. The Bill Information portion of the Web site of the California Legislative Counsel gives bill text and committee analyses from the 1993-94 legislative session to the present.

6. If the library you are using has California legislative materials:
   a. Read the various versions of the bill.
   b. Read the Assembly File Analysis.

10 Again, the California Legislative Information beta site adds new functionality to the Bill Search feature. However, as of Nov. 4, 2011, you can only search from the 1999-2000 session year to the current session.
c. Read the Final History, which will list all actions and committees which studied the bill.

d. Check the indexes to the Senate and Assembly Journals for references to Legislative Counsel Opinions or Statements of Intent.

e. Check for hearings and reports.

7. Contact the California State Archives in Sacramento, (916) 653-7715. The Archives maintains bill files which may contain correspondence, reports, and other useful materials. The State Archives will compile a package of legislative documents but the process generally takes several weeks.

California Case Law

Cases are the written opinions rendered by judges in particular cases. Cases resolve disputes between parties by interpreting statutes and regulations. Cases can also establish “the law” in areas where there are no governing statutes or regulations. Not all cases result in a written opinion, nor are all written opinions formally published or “reported.”

- California State Court System

Like most states, California has a three-tiered court system. The California Supreme Court is the highest court. Cases do not originate in the Supreme Court but arrive there on appeal from a lower court. The Supreme Court’s reviewing power allows it to decide important legal questions and to maintain uniformity in California law. The Supreme Court is composed of a Chief Justice and six Associate Justices.

Diagram is from the California Judicial Council Web site.
The California Courts of Appeal are the basic appellate courts for the state. There are six appellate districts: First District – San Francisco; Second District – Los Angeles and Ventura; Third District – Sacramento; Fourth District – San Diego, San Bernardino/Riverside and Santa Ana; Fifth District – Fresno; Sixth District – San Jose. Each district has a presiding justice and two or more judges.

Superior Courts are the trial level courts within California. All California cases must begin in a superior court. There is one superior court in each of California’s 58 counties (each court may maintain multiple branches). Municipal courts were unified with superior courts in 2001.

As stated above, cases are the written opinions rendered by judges in particular cases. Decisions from the superior courts are not generally published and must be retrieved directly from the court. Cases from the California Courts of Appeal and the California Supreme Court are published in both official and unofficial versions. In either case, only the text of the opinions comes from the court itself; the editorial matter, such as the case summary and headnotes, differ between the official and unofficial versions.

Appellate cases from 1850 to the present are also available in a searchable database provided by LexisNexis, the official publisher of California cases, on the California Courts Web site. In addition, SCOCAL, a joint project between Justia and Stanford Law School Library, provides free access to California Supreme Court opinions (from 1934 to present), along with annotations, briefs, documents and news.

California Regulations & Regulatory Decisions

California regulations are rules and procedures promulgated by state agencies which allow the implementation of statutes. Regulations are a binding source of law similar to statutes and cases.

California regulations are found in the California Code of Regulations (formerly called the California Administrative Code) published by the California Office of Administrative Law. The California Code of Regulations (CCR) is divided into 27 numbered titles (excluding Title 24, see paragraph below) and then into sections. A typical citation would read 25 CCR 60, where 25 is the title number and 60 is the section number. The print version of the CCR is published by Barclays, a division of West Publishing Company (a Thomson Reuters business), and is published in loose-leaf format. Update pages are issued weekly. Regulations can be found by consulting the subject index or, where a relevant code section is known, by consulting the Statutes to Regulations Table.

The CCR is also available online through the Office of Administrative Law. Regulations can be accessed through an agency list, a table of contents, or a subject search through one or more titles. Note that Title 24, the Building Code, is not published as part of either the print or online version of the CCR, since it is copyrighted and published by the ICBO (International Conference of Building Officials). The California Regulatory Notice Register updates the CCR.

State administrative boards and agencies such as the Workers’ Compensation Appeals Board and the Franchise Tax Board often have judicial or quasi-judicial authority and may issue administrative decisions. Finding these decisions may often be a challenging task. Many subject-specific books will include administrative decisions. Check state agency Web sites for their regulations, decisions, forms, and other information of interest. The California State Web page offers a listing of California agencies and their Web sites.
City and County Municipal Codes

Article 11 of the California Constitution gives cities and counties the authority to pass legislative acts, called ordinances, relating to municipal affairs. These ordinances are collected and arranged by topic in municipal codes and county codes.

Most city and county Web sites include their own ordinances. U.C. Berkeley’s Institute of Governmental Studies provides a list of California Local Codes and Charters and includes links to those available on the Internet.

Other Resources

California County Law Libraries

Because many public libraries have limited legal research resources, it may be necessary to refer users to a local county law library. By statute, each of the 58 counties in California maintains a county law library whose mission is to provide free access to legal materials to all persons interested in the law. The county law libraries vary greatly in size and resources. Several, including the LA Law Library, the Bernard E. Witkin Alameda County Law Library, and the San Diego County Public Law Library collect not only California legal materials, but materials for the federal system and for other states as well. The LA Law Library also has an extensive collection of foreign and international law materials.

The larger county law libraries maintain Web sites that provide access to their catalogs and include helpful research guides and lists of local legal providers. Some also provide in-person classes and training on legal research topics. The county law libraries also participate in AskNow’s Law Librarian service which allows real-time legal reference assistance over the Internet.

A list of the California county law libraries may be found at the Council of California County Law Librarians Web site and in Appendix C of this publication.

California Attorneys

To practice in California, an attorney must be a member of the California State Bar. Furthermore, only active members of the State Bar are entitled to practice law within California.
The State Bar makes its member records available to the public through its Attorney Search feature. Information provided for individual attorneys includes current contact information, undergraduate and law schools, and, most importantly, status and disciplinary history.

California attorneys can become certified legal specialists in one or more of 19 legal specialties including bankruptcy, elder law, family law, immigration law and tax law. Individuals can search for certified legal specialists (link provided in search box under “more search options” or by using the Advanced Attorney Search (scroll down to the bottom of the page)).

The State Bar also includes information on how to file a complaint against an attorney.

Martindale-Hubbell is a national directory of lawyers. Its publisher, LexisNexis, has made the database available at no charge. Lawyers may be searched by name or by specialty and geographic region. The Advanced Search Feature also allows searching by language or law school attended.

Avvo.com also provides a national database of lawyers. In addition to providing biographical information, Avvo.com provides ratings for attorneys based on its own proprietary ratings system.

Lawyers identified through either Martindale-Hubbell or Avvo.com should be checked in the California State Bar Attorney Search database for active status and disciplinary history.

California Judges

Biographical information on California judges may be found on individual court Web sites. The Judicial Council provides a full listing of courts and their Web sites.

Biographical information may also be found in Judicial Profiles published by the Daily Journal Corporation. This multi-volume set includes information on state court judges as well as federal judges sitting in California. Check your local law library’s catalog or call the reference desk to find out if you have access to the print volumes. The Judicial Profiles 12 Statuses include active, inactive, not entitled to practice law, disbarred, and resigned. Only active members can practice law.

13 For a directory of California County Law Libraries, see Your Public Law Library or Appendix C of this publication. Contact information and links to the libraries’ Web sites are included (when available).
Profiles are also available on the Daily Journal's Web site but require both a subscription and a fee.

The California Commission on Judicial Performance is an independent state agency responsible for investigating complaints of judicial misconduct and for disciplining judges. Its jurisdiction includes all judges of California’s superior courts, justices of the Court of Appeals and Supreme Court, and former judges for conduct prior to retirement and resignations. See its Web site for additional information, including instructions on how to file a complaint against a judge.

BIBLIOGRAPHY OF CALIFORNIA LAW RESOURCES

This chapter lists a wide variety of California legal materials and includes both print and Internet sources. This bibliography begins with the California Constitution, and then is arranged by branch of government: legislative branch resources (e.g., codes, statutes, bills), judicial branch resources (e.g., case law, digests, court rules, jury instructions); executive branch resources (e.g., administrative rules and regulations); and municipal and county codes and ordinances. Also included are sources related to California attorney and judges as well as secondary sources (e.g., form books, legal encyclopedias, treatises, practice guides, and handbooks). This document includes hyperlinks throughout. For a list of URLs, please see the end of this chapter.

For self-help sources, readers should refer to Chapter 9: Assisting Self-Represented Litigants and Chapter 10: Bibliography of Self-Help Resources of this publication. Also be sure to review Chapter 1: Introduction to determine how each of these types of materials, such as legislative codes, case law reporters, administrative rules and regulations, and secondary sources, relate to each other, as well as Chapter 5: California Law, which gives an overview of California law.

California Constitution

The California Constitution is the supreme law of California. Copies of the California Constitution are available at nominal cost from the Legislative Bill Room, State Capitol, in Sacramento.\(^1\) The Constitution is reprinted in the annotated codes and is also available on the State Constitution page of the California Legislative Counsel Web site, the official site for California legislative information.\(^2\)

California Legislative Branch Materials

This section will cover finding aids, statutes, codes, bills and resolutions, initiatives referenda, ballot propositions, and legislative process resources.

Statutes & Codes

- Finding Aid

  LARMAC Consolidated Index to the Constitution and Laws of California. Matthew Bender. Annual.

  A handy, one-volume index, LARMAC uses “non-legalese” and offers a detailed subject index to the codes. Also note that the publications listed below under Statutes and Codes also include their own indexes and tables.

- Statutes

  Newly passed legislation is bound and printed in chronological order (by date passed into law). These chronological compilations are either called statutes or session laws.

  California Statutes and Amendments to the Codes. Annual.

  This is an official publication of all laws enacted by the legislature in a given year, prior to codification in the annotated code sets. This set includes tables and indexes.

  The California Statutes page on the California Legislative Counsel site provides the full text of California statutes from 1993 to present. Users may search by chapter number\(^3\) or by keyword.\(^4\)

- Codes
  Legislative code sets are collections of current statutes, arranged by subject. Some people consider code sets to be easier to use than session laws because similar statutes are placed together in the code sets and because of an enhanced index. Code sets may be either annotated with editorial enhancements or unannotated.

  - Annotated Codes
    These sets provide the text of the statute as well as references to court decisions and secondary sources that serve to explain the meaning of the code section. For that reason, annotated code sets are the most often used source for legislative research. Two complete sets of annotated codes are available from commercial publishers LexisNexis and West. Both sets include the full text of the codes, the California Constitution, and Rules of Court.

  - Unannotated Codes
    Typically these sets are compilations of one or a few of the 29 California code titles. Calling them “unannotated” is a bit of a misnomer, as they often include a minimal amount of annotations.

\(^3\) A bill is “chaptered” by the Secretary of State after it has been approved by both houses of the legislature and has been signed by the governor (or becomes law without the governor’s signature).

\(^4\) Supra, note 2.
The Standard California Codes: 6 in 2. LexisNexis. Includes the following codes: Civil, Civil Procedure, Evidence, Family and Probate, as well as California Rules of Court. Annual.

The California Law page on the California Legislative Counsel site provides full text access to all 29 California codes. One must select a code and click on “Search” to display the table of contents for a code or select one or more codes and enter keywords in the search box at the bottom of the page. Also note that to search the entire code, select the box next to “All” at the bottom of the list of codes.

Legislative Process Materials

- Finding Aids

  Legislative Index. California Legislative Counsel. Provides a subject matter index to all legislative measures for the current legislative session; indicates the subject of each bill, constitutional amendment, and current or joint resolution as introduced and as amended. Note that entries are not removed from the index when the subject matter is deleted from the measure in the course of passage.

  Table of Sections Affected. California Legislative Counsel. An index to each section of the California Constitution, codes and uncodified laws affected by measures introduced; PDF and html documents include links to the bill measures and chapter number (if applicable).

- Bills & Resolutions

  The Legislative Bill Room provides copies of all legislative publications to the public, including single copies of individual bills.

  Legislative Hearings & Reports Index (U.C. Hastings Law Library, 1984 to present).

  Legislative Highlights (California Senate Office of Research, from 1991)
Search for “legislative highlights”; this source provides a wonderful and succinct review of legislation.

California Law Revision Commission Recommendations on Legislation (1957-current). This commission is the seminal bipartisan bill evaluator and legal issue researcher for our state.

The Bill Information page on the California Legislative Counsel site provides the full text of bills, resolutions, and constitutional amendments. Users may view the status, history, votes, analysis, and veto messages as well. Search by bill number, by author(s) or keyword. Available from the 1993-1994 legislative session to the current legislative session. Note the link to an Index, which lists all bills introduced in the Assembly and Senate.

- Legislative Publications

Journal. California Legislature. State Printing Off. 1849/50-
Contains an account of the proceedings of each house, not a verbatim record of the debates, titles of all measures introduced, considered, or acted upon, the full text of all amendments to any such measures, the text of all house resolutions, roll calls, messages from the Governor, and the rules of the Senate and Assembly. Includes an alphabetical subject index and a bill action index.

Assembly Daily Journal. California Legislature. 1849 to present. Online resources include the State Assembly Web page for current issues of the Daily Journal and the Chief Clerk’s Archive page for issues dated before 1994:
California State Assembly Web page. 1995 to present.
Chief Clerk’s Archive. Office of the Chief Clerk, California State Assembly. 1849-2005.

5 Again, at the time of this revision, the Legislative Counsel released a beta site for California legislative information: http://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/. As of November 2, 2011, it included new functionality to the Bill Search feature and the bill Text Search feature had been improved with the addition of a Boolean search option.
The Daily File is the agenda of business for each legislative day. It also contains a table of all bills and constitutional amendments with their dates of introduction. The Assembly File includes titles of all committee hearing notices and all measure eligible for floor actions.

Current Assembly & Senate Daily File(s) are available on the Legislative Counsel Web site.

California Elections, Ballot Measure Update. California Secretary of State.
Provides current information on ballot measures; the complete ballot pamphlets for the current and previous elections, from March 1996 to present. Links to the University of Hastings College of Law’s California Ballot Initiatives and Propositions Databases. Links to Initiatives & Resources (which includes links to historical voter information guides, from March 1996 to present).

The California Ballot Propositions Database and the California Ballot Initiatives Database are comprehensive (from 1911 to 2003) and searchable. The databases contain the full text of the propositions and initiatives, along with any accompanying material, including ballot pamphlets.

California Ballot Propositions. Los Angeles County Law Library.
Users may browse ballot propositions from 1980 to current.

California Judicial Branch Materials

Court Decisions

Court decisions are published in bound volumes called reporters. California has both official and unofficial reporters. The text of the case opinion is the same in both sources, but the editorial enhancements will differ.
• Official Court Reporters

Reporters that are sanctioned by the State of California to contain published case law are called official reporters.

California Reports. LexisNexis.
Includes full text opinions of California Supreme Court cases. The first series includes volumes 1 to 220 (1850-1934); California Reports, 2nd includes volumes 1 to 71 (1934-1969); California Reports, 3rd includes volumes 1 to 54 (1969-1991); California Reports, 4th includes volumes 1 to present (1991-).

California Appellate Reports. LexisNexis.
Includes published opinions of the California Courts of Appeal and Appellate Departments of the Superior Courts. First series includes volumes 1 to 140 (1905-1934); California Appellate Reports, 2nd includes volumes 1 to 276 (1934-1969); California Appellate Reports, 3rd includes volumes 1 to 235 (1969-1991); California Appellate Reports, 4th includes volumes 1 to present (1991-).

California Official Reports (Advance Sheets). LexisNexis.
Recent court decisions appear in advance sheets (paperbacks which are discarded when bound volumes arrive).

The entire run of California Official Reports & California Appellate Reports is available for free at this official Web site.

In addition, slip opinions from the last 120 days for the California Supreme Court and the California Courts of Appeal that have been either certified for publication or ordered published are available on the Opinions page of the California Courts Web site as well. Supreme Court opinions are posted immediately after filing, Court of Appeal opinions are usually posted within hours of filing. These slip opinions may become superseded during the time they are made available on this Web site – so proceed with caution.

• Unofficial Court Reporters

Unofficial court reporters are published commercially and do not have government sanction. Court decisions are reprinted in their entirety by commercial publishers West, the Daily Journal Corporation and Incisive Media (formerly ALM). West’s reporters use the ubiquitous “key number system” to categorize cases by subject, as do the West’s digests, for subject access to case reporters.
California Reporter. Thomson West.
First series includes volumes 1 to 286 (1960-1992). California Reporter, 2d includes volumes 1 to 135 (1992-2004), and California Reporter, 3d includes volumes 1 to present (2004 - ) with advance sheets. This series contains decisions of the Supreme Court, Courts of Appeal and Appellate Departments of the California Superior Courts.

Pacific Reporter. Thomson West.
First series includes volumes 1 to 300 (1883-1931) and Pacific Reporter, 2d includes volumes 1 to present (1991- ) with advance sheets. This series contains appellate decisions from fifteen western states, including California. It ceased publication of California Courts of Appeal decisions in 1960, but continues to publish California Supreme Court opinions.

This publication is an insert in the Los Angeles Daily Journal and the San Francisco Daily Journal, both published by the Daily Journal Corporation. This publication contains the full text of both Supreme Court and Courts of Appeal decisions within a few days of the decision. It also includes full text of decisions from the U.S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, the Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel, the U.S. Supreme Court, and the California Attorney General.

Cal Law. ALM.
A regional news source from Law.com. Cal Law is a subscription based Web site for California opinions. The subscription fee is heavily discounted if you also subscribe to The Recorder, which is the daily legal newspaper for Northern California. This site also contains the California Daily Opinion Service (C.D.O.S.), which is similar to the Daily Appellate Report that was described directly above.

FindLaw’s California Cases. Thomson Reuters (West).
FindLaw provides the full text of California Supreme Court and appellate court opinions dating back to 1934. Registration is free. Unannotated.

LexisNexis Communities. LexisNexis.
Search the last ten years of State & Federal Courts and U.S. Supreme Court from 1781 to present.

---

6 LexisNexis Communities have replaced lexisOne. You will still be able to access the same free forms and free case law through the Communities Portal.
Digests

Digests provide the only means of conducting comprehensive subject searches of court decisions in the print format. Find an appropriate legal topic and subtopic by using the index volumes and you’ll be directed to the main digest volumes, where you will find short summaries of all decisions in your jurisdiction. The subject headings, or “headnotes,” are assigned to a case by the publisher, and correspond to the subject headings in that publisher’s digest.

The following digest sets correspond to the West Reporter sets:

- West’s California Digest. West Group. 1850 to 1949.
- West’s California Digest, 2nd. Thomson West. 1950 to present.
- West’s Pacific Digest. Thomson West. 1962-present.

These digest sets correspond to the former official reports:

Court Rules

Court rules ensure the proper control of litigation by establishing uniform procedures. There are rules that apply to all California state courts, to all appellate courts, and to all trial courts. There are also “local rules” that are set by each individual court. A litigant must abide by all applicable court rules.

- Deering’s California Codes: Rules Annotated. LexisNexis. 4 vols.

California Rules of Court, State. Thomson West. Annual.
- Also in West’s Annotated California Codes (Court Rules)

California Civil Practice Statutes & Rules, Annotated. Thomson West. Annual.

Local Court Rules:

Official Local Court Rules. Judicial Council of California.
Provides links to the local rules of the superior courts of California. Alphabetical by county.

Jury Instructions

During a trial a judge gives specific instructions to a jury before deliberation begins. The use of the CACI (for civil cases) and CALCRIM (for criminal cases) jury instructions are strongly encouraged by the California Rules of Court. The older sets of jury instructions, BAJI and CALJIC, were drafted by the Committee on Standard Jury Instructions, and include notes explaining their use, history, and relevant cases. Most of the publications below are updated with a new edition each year or twice each year. In most cases, your local library will retain the latest edition only.

- Civil Jury Instructions

  Civil Jury Instructions (CACI). Judicial Council of California.

- Criminal Jury Instructions

California Executive Branch Materials

California’s executive branch is large and complex. There are hundreds of executive, administrative, and advisory agencies. Most California administrative law research will focus on regulatory rules and regulations, which begins this section. Also covered are agency reports, decisions and orders as well as executive orders and proclamations.

Administrative Rules & Regulations

Administrative rules and regulations are issued by state agencies and are designed to implement or explain legislation. Administrative rules and regulations carry the same force of law as legislation and published case law.

The full text of the California Code of Regulations (CCR) is available for free online in full text (except for Title 24), maintained by West under contract with the State of California Office of Administrative Law.

California Regulatory Notice Register (Z-Register) contains the most recent notices of proposed actions by state agencies which relate to the repeal, adoption, or amendment of regulations contained in the California Code of Regulations.

California Regulatory Code Supplement (Digest of New Regulations).
This source offers the official changes (final actions) to the California Code of Regulations, on a weekly basis. From the point in time that the changes are published in this source, the changes await codification into the California Code of Regulations. Note that this source only includes those changes that have actually been made, whereas the Z-Register includes all proposed changes (which may not actually become law).

Title 24 of the California Code of Regulations, called the California Building Standards Code, is published independently of the rest of the California Code of Regulations.

It is published every three years and updated by supplements in intervening years. It is available to the public at no cost through depository libraries (click on the “DOC” link for a list of names and addresses for depository libraries throughout California).

There are several parts to the California Building Standards Code:

- California Building Standards Administrative Code (Part 1)
- California Building Code (Part 2)
- California Residential Building Code (Part 2.5)
- California Electrical Code (Part 3)
- California Mechanical Code (Part 4)
- California Plumbing Code (Part 5)
- California Energy Code (Part 6)
- California Historical Building Code (Part 8)
- California Fire Code (Part 9)
- California Existing Building Code (Part 10)
- California Green Building Standards Code (CAL Green Code) (Part 11)
- California Reference Standards Code (Part 12)

2010 Triennial Edition of CCR, Title 24, California Buildings Standards Commission. Applies to all occupancies that applied for a building permit on or after January 1, 2011, and remains in effect until the effective date of the 2013 triennial edition.
For more information on Title 24 of CCR and the selected parts that are available online, please visit the California Buildings Standards Commission Web site.

California Agency Decisions, Orders & Reports

Some agencies have decisions and orders posted online. The quickest way to find out is to search that agency’s Web site. The State of California posts an Agency Directory (link below), which provides links to the agencies’ sites. Reports are rarely posted online. To find out if an agency has published a report, go to the Legislative Counsel’s Agency Reports database.

Alphabetical listing of state agency Web sites. Links to State agencies, departments, boards and commissions. Also includes links to frequently requested projects, programs, and other nonprofit organizations related to government.

- Agency Decisions & Orders
  Note that the print version of an agency decision may be deemed the controlling or official version. Contact the individual agency directly for availability of the print decision. In addition, because of the transitory nature of the Internet, some of the links below are sure to have been changed since the publication of this chapter. If a link is broken, please use the Agency Directory to find the agency Web page and look for either a tab or link to the publications listed below. Indeed, listed below are a just a few examples of agency decisions and orders posted online.

  Office of the Attorney General’s Legal Opinions.
The legal opinions of the Attorney General issued since 1986 are posted to this Web site. Search opinions by year, by keyword or phrases, and by specific citations. Yearly indexes (since 1997) are also posted to this site.

  1972-2010 Reported CEQA Cases. California Natural Resources Agency.
Provides online access to court decisions relating to the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA). Includes court reporter citations.

  Fair Employment and Housing Commission Decisions.
Precedential decisions from 2000 to 2010.

  Department of Managed Health Care Complaint & Arbitration Decisions.
Once a year, the Department of Managed Health Care prepares a report on complaints and Independent Medical Reviews. These reports (from 2000) are posted on this page. Also on this page, scroll down to view the link, is the Arbitration Decisions database, which the public can search and view.

Department of Social Services Precedential Decisions.
This page summarizes cases and provides links to the decisions (in PDF).

Fair Political Practices Commission.
Access to Opinions (from 1975-2006), Enforcement Summaries, Advice Letters (1990-present), and Complaint Closure Letters (from 2009-present).

Medical Board of California Precedential Decisions.
Decisions that contain a significant legal or policy determination of general application that is likely to recur may be designated as precedential. Once a decision is designated as precedential, the Board may rely on it and parties may cite to such a decision in arguments to the Board and courts. May search decisions by keyword or by index.

Office of Administrative Hearings’ Special Education Decisions & Orders.
Search for decisions from July 1, 2005 to present. May search by keyword, name of judge, case number, and school district. May also browse a listing of all decisions. Links to decisions issued prior to July 1, 2005 are located at the bottom of this page.

- Agency Reports

  Agency Reports. California Legislative Counsel.
  This database provides information about reports by various state and local agencies. The information is processed and updated continuously by the Legislative Counsel. For a copy of the report, one must contact the agency directly.

The Governor’s Executive Orders, Proclamations & Press Releases

Executive Orders, Proclamations, Public Notices and Press Releases. The Governor of the California. View current press releases, speeches, executive orders, proclamations, and public notices. After you have selected one of the aforementioned types of documents (e.g., Executive Orders), notice the links under Archives on the left side. of the screen. If the links above fail, go to the Governor of California page and place your mouse over Newsroom.

California Municipal & County Codes, Ordinances

Many city and county municipal codes and ordinances are posted online. If a city or county self-publishes its codes and ordinances, you will find a link on the city or county’s Web site. Normally, a self-published municipal code will have limited search features and may not be updated frequently.

There are several commercial publishers of municipal codes. UCLA Law Library has a comprehensive list of those publishers on one of its LibGuides pages, Municipal codes online, which is on the “Local Gov’t Law” tab of the guide called Online Legal Research: Beyond LexisNexis & Westlaw. Please note that none of these databases is comprehensive. You will find a state’s cities in more than one database. For this reason, researchers who need to search for codes in multiple cities and would like to do one general search (rather than search the codes of each city and county separately) will face some difficulties.

If you are looking for one city or one county’s municipal code or ordinances, the easiest thing to do is to simply use a search engine such as Google or Yahoo or Bing to find the city’s Web site or search for the city name and “municipal code.”

An excellent source for California municipal and county codes and ordinances is the Institute of Government Studies Library, UC Berkeley, California Local Codes and Charters page.

California Attorneys & Judges

Professional Responsibility

Rules of Professional Conduct must be adhered to by California attorneys and judges. Ethics Opinions serve to guide the ethical conduct of attorneys through the use of hypothetical situations that are commented on. State Bar Court slip opinions are ethical rulings regarding California attorneys, but are not final opinions and thus are not citable in a court document.
• Digest

California State Bar Court Reporter. Office of the State Bar Court. 1990-. 6 vols. Loose-leaf. Includes topical digests and a table of cases (including case numbers and subsequent history notations).

• California Rules of Professional Conduct & Code of Judicial Ethics

California Rules of Professional Conduct. State Bar of California. The linked title above should take you to the Rules of Professional Conduct page on the California Bar site. On this page, there are links to the current rules, previous rules, and the proposed rules of professional conduct.

• Ethics Opinions & Rulings

Ethics Opinions. The State Bar of California Committee on Professional Responsibility and Conduct. 1965 to present.

California State Bar Court Reporter. Office of the State Bar Court. 1992-. Loose-leaf.

Published Slip Opinions. The State Bar Court, Review Department. The full text of slip opinions are posted here, where they remain until they are published in their final form in the California State Bar Court Reporter. These are not finalized opinions and thus are not citable in a court document.

Directories

Attorney/Member Search. State Bar of California.
The member records directory of the California State Bar provides contact information and education history for members of the state bar. In certain circumstances, incidents of public discipline are also provided. The Advanced Search page allows users to search for names that “sound like” your entered term. This feature helps if you are not certain of the spelling of an attorney’s name.

Provides information on California’s federal and state court judges and describes court structure and function of judges.

Contains an alphabetical list of names and addresses of California attorneys in Northern and Southern California. Also contains a listing of federal and state courts as well as federal and state officials.

San Diego County Attorney Directory 2009. (52nd ed.). The Daily Transcript Corp.

West’s Legal Directory on FindLaw.

Secondary Sources for California Legal Research

Secondary sources offer two major benefits – they summarize an unfamiliar area of law, and they provide citations to the law. There are many forms of secondary sources. With few exceptions, traditional secondary sources are not available on the free Internet. So unless a hyperlink is included below, assume that the listed resource is a print resource. However, there is an online book, published by the Office of the Assembly Chief Clerk, which may be helpful to those researchers who need an introduction to the legislative process and state government.

California’s Legislature, Office of the Assembly Chief Clerk. (2006)
This book is “an in-depth introduction to the legislative process and state government. This heavily illustrated book is an excellent resource for students, lobbyists, state employees, and the general public. Topics include state history, constitutional and election law, term limits, state emblems, legislative procedure, the executive and judicial branches, and a legislative glossary.”

Access it online for free (in PDF) or order from the Legislative Bill Room for $5.00 per copy by calling (916) 445-2645 or placing an order by mail by filling out the order form (PDF).

This section begins with a short list of resources on California legal research. Legal encyclopedias, treatises, practice guides and handbooks, and formbooks follow.

California Legal Research Guides

Legal Encyclopedias

Legal encyclopedias include many short narrations of the law, arranged by topic. References to California case law and statutory law are included. Since the topics are numerous and the narrations are short, it is the perfect way to start the research process when you are researching an unfamiliar area of law: You’ll likely find something related to your issue, and it will not be overly detailed. Because of the brevity of the narrations, it is nearly always necessary to consult a more detailed secondary source (see the next section on Treatises, Practice Guides, and Handbooks) before proceeding to primary law research.

There is one legal encyclopedia directly relating to California law: California Jurisprudence 3d. Thomson West. 1972-. 74+ vols.

Witkin Treatises

Bernard Witkin was a legal scholar who dedicated most of his professional life to writing a series of treatises covering all aspects of California law. After his death in 1995, the Witkin Legal Institute continued his legacy by updating and then producing new editions of his works. Despite its grand title, Summary of California Law covers civil law only. His co-author in the criminal law set is Norman L. Epstein.

Treatises, Practice Guides & Handbooks

The California Continuing Education of the Bar (CEB) publishes several excellent handbooks, some of which are listed below. In addition, the CEB publishes Action Guides, which are pamphlet sized, inexpensive publications containing basic how-to instructions for a variety of legal situations. The Rutter Group and Matthew Bender also produce many useful practice guides for California law. For a full list of legal publishers, please see Chapter 8.
What follows are major California secondary source works by legal subject. Those subjects include Corporations, Civil Procedure, Employment Law, Estate Planning, Family Law, Landlord-Tenant, Real Property, and Taxation. Sources are listed alphabetically by title.

- Corporations

  Financing and Protecting California Businesses. Lawrence S. Branton. Continuing Education of the Bar, 2006-.

- Civil Procedure

  California Civil Practice: Procedure. Thomson West. 1992-.

- Employment Law

- Estate Planning

- Family Law

- Landlord-Tenant

• Real Property

Miller & Starr California Real Estate, 3d ed. Thomson West. 2000-.

Miller & Starr California Real Estate Forms, 2nd ed. Thomson West. 2005-. Loose-leaf.

• Taxation

Formbooks

California Transaction Forms, Thomson West.

West’s California Code Forms with Practice Commentaries. Thomson West.

FEDERAL LAW

The U.S. federal system consists of executive, legislative, and judicial branches, each of which creates legal information that can be the subject of legal research. This chapter provides brief descriptions of the legislative process and the federal judiciary and focuses on the primary sources of federal law (i.e., cases, statutes, and regulations). Included are references to both print and Internet sources. For a more detailed list of federal law sources please see Chapter 8: Bibliography of Federal Law Resources.

U.S. Constitution

The United States Constitution is the most important document for all Americans. It creates the framework for politics, limits the government’s powers, and guarantees that citizens have fundamental freedoms. The U.S. Supreme Court is the ultimate court that interprets the meaning and scope of the Constitution.
While the actual text of the Constitution can be printed in twenty pages or less, the legal research sources, such as cases and treatises which offer analysis and interpretation of this basic document, number in the millions of pages.\(^1\) The text of the Constitution may be found in many standard reference sources available in every library (e.g., dictionaries and encyclopedias). It is printed at the beginning of the United States Code, the official publication of federal statutes. The Internet is also a great source. For a historical perspective, one may view a signed copy of the Constitution on the National Archives’ America’s Historical Documents Web page. For those seeking commentary and analysis, the Government Printing Office (GPO) makes available editions and supplements (from 1992 forward) of the Constitution of the United States, Constitutional Analysis and Interpretation.\(^2\) Another great Internet resource is Cornell University Law School Legal Information Institute (LII)’s U.S. Constitution page, which has the Constitutional text, along with the annotations prepared by the Congressional Research Service (CRS).

Federal Legislation

The Legislative Process\(^3\)

Because a majority of Congressional bills originate in the House of Representatives, the following discussion traces the progress of a bill that originates in the House. Please note that Senate procedures are very similar.

Ideas for bills come from varied sources including constituents, members of the President’s Cabinet and members of the Congress. Proposed legislation may take one of four forms: bills, simple resolutions, joint resolutions or concurrent resolutions. The designated bill number (e.g., H.R. 1 or S. 1) that a proposed piece of legislation receives does not change as the bill progresses from one house to the next. In the federal system, “H.R.” designates a bill which originated in the House of Representatives and “S.” signifies that a bill originated in the Senate. In contrast, in the California legislative system “S. B.” designates a Senate bill and “A.B.” identifies an Assembly bill.

The first and second readings of a House bill are accomplished by publication of its title in the Congressional Record; while in the Senate, the bill title is read aloud. Once introduced, bills are assigned to appropriate committees for consideration. Each committee has jurisdiction over particular types of proposed legislation. These committees may opt to route a bill to a specialized subcommittee.

Committees schedule public hearings for important bills so that witnesses for and against the proposed measure may present testimony. The subcommittee that has been assigned the bill will then decide whether to table the bill, or to report the bill out favorably to the full committee. The bill may be reported out favorably either with or without amendments. An appointed committee member will prepare a detailed report if the committee decides to report the bill favorably to the House. All reports issued, beginning with the 91st Congress, are numbered with a prefix designating the issuing Congress, followed by the report number (e.g., H. Rpt. 110-513).

Bills of a noncontroversial nature may be placed on a consent calendar, where they will quickly be passed without debate. Other bills not on the consent calendar may be debated on the floor and amendments to the text may be offered.

Voting takes place after the third reading of the bill. If a bill passes the House, it will then be sent to the Senate where the procedure is more formal. If the bill is noncontroversial, it may be considered at the time of introduction and passed without delay. Other bills are read a second time and are subject to the debate/amendment procedure. After the third reading, a vote is taken. A majority is required for the bill to pass. The version of the Senate bill that has passed is returned to the House with a request for concurrence in the amendments.

Conference committees will be appointed by each house to resolve differences in proposed, disputed amendments. If an appointed conference committee is unable to agree on the amendments, it will be discharged and a new conference committee appointed. Both the House and the Senate must vote to accept the conference committee report and the identical text of amendments, or a bill will not become law.

Bills that successfully pass both houses are enrolled and sent to the President for his action. The bill will become law either by Presidential approval and signature, or by the lapse of ten days in which no action has been taken. If the President disapproves of a bill, he returns his veto with his objections to the originating house. A two-thirds majority in each house is required to override the Presidential veto.

Federal Statutes

Bills approved through the federal legislative process become statutes and are known as Public Laws. Public Laws are numbered sequentially with the Congress number and item number designation (e.g., Pub. L. 107-236). The Public Laws are published in chronological order by Congressional year in volumes called the United States Statutes at Large. This large set is published in print by the government and is available online through GPO’s Federal Digital System (FDsys). Researchers who wish to read the legislation in its entirety as Congress passed it will need to refer to the Statutes at Large. The laws are arranged by their Public Law numbers (e.g., Pub. L. 108-262) and are cited by volume and page number (e.g., 118 Stat. 696). In addition, one may find selected statutes in a set published by Thomson West called United States Code, Congressional and Administrative News (USCCAN).

However, the most helpful compilation of federal laws is the subject arrangement found in the official United States Code, which is prepared and published by the Office of the Law Revision Counsel of the U.S. House of Representatives. The U.S. Code is arranged by 50 numbered “Titles” (e.g., Title 15 deals with commerce and trade). New editions of the U.S. Code are published every six years, with cumulative supplements published annually to update the bound volumes. Because laws are passed throughout a Congressional session, the issue of currency should be a concern for researchers using the official U.S. Code. Fortunately, Cornell’s LII U.S. Code Collection integrates the date listings on the House servers with the Library of Congress’ Thomas service to notify searchers of any updates to sections which have changed.

4 In this case, the law was passed by the 108th Congress and was assigned the number 262. You will find this law in the U.S. Statutes at Large (abbreviated as Stat.) in volume 118 and starting on page 696.
5 Note that during the summer of 2011, the House Law Revision Counsel launched a new site in beta to test out new search features. The United States Code is also available online through GPO’s Federal Digital System (FDsys).
6 One may browse titles on GPO’s FDsys by selecting a year and clicking Go. Here’s the list of titles from 2009.
frequently than the official United States Code. If these sources are available to researchers, they should be consulted, not only because of the issue of currency, but also because of their added content. While they both offer the same subject arrangement as the U.S. Code and reproduce the same statutory language, these sets also include notes of court decisions, regulations and other sources that interpret or discuss the text of the federal laws. Hence, citations to the Consumer Product Safety Act may appear as 15 U.S.C. § 2051 et seq., 15 U.S.C.A. § 2051 et seq., or 15 U.S.C.S. § 2051 et seq. Each refers to the same statutory language, which appears in Title 15 (Commerce and Trade) and begins at section 2051. In addition, in the annotated codes, following the statutory language and notes, researchers will find references to relevant sections in the Code of Federal Regulations (discussed at the end of this chapter), citations to law review commentaries and other secondary sources, and cases that have discussed or referred to this section of the Consumer Product Safety Act. For other examples of code citations, please see page Chapter 2: How to Read a Legal Citation.

Each set of the U.S. Code includes a subject index. A particularly useful finding tool is the Table of Popular Names of Acts. Oftentimes, researchers will know only the name of the act as it is referred to in the popular press (e.g., Family and Medical Leave Act). In order to find the citation to the act in the U.S. Code or the Statutes at Large, one may look up the popular name of the act in either U.S.C.A. or U.S.C.S. or using one of the following online sources: the U.S. House of Representative’s Popular Name Tool or Cornell Law School, Legal Information Institute’s Popular names of Acts in the US Code.

Researching Federal Legislative History

Legislative history traces the legislative process of a particular bill for the purpose of (1) locating the current status of a bill and monitoring its progress, or (2) determining the legislators’ intent behind the enactment of a law to explain or clarify ambiguities in the language or the perceived meaning of that law. The work of compiling a legislative history involves searching for the documents generated during the legislative process such as the various versions of a bill; committee hearings, reports and prints; debates; and presidential messages. While there are many sources to aid a researcher in locating these documents, this discussion highlights readily available Internet sources as well as print sources commonly found in law libraries and in larger public libraries. See Selected Legislative History Sources at the end of this section for additional sources.

- Tracking Current Legislation
Thomas, a service of the Library of Congress, was launched in 1995 to make federal legislative information freely available to the public. Bills in the current Congressional session can be searched by bill number or key word and can be browsed by sponsor name.

Thomas provides the text of pending bills as well as a link to the Bill Status and Summary file which indicates the current status of the bill and the last major action on the bill. It also offers links to the Congressional Record (floor debates) and links to committee actions. Once a bill is passed into law, Thomas will include the Public Law as well.

Researchers can also search for analysis and commentary on a bill as it goes through Congress in publications such as Congressional Quarterly Weekly Report, the New York Times, and the Washington Post.

- Determining Legislative Intent

Compiling a legislative history to determine intent can be a daunting task, especially if you are unfamiliar with this type of legal research. Once you know the steps involved, however, legislative history research can be straightforward. Fortunately, many law libraries offer detailed guides to federal legislative history research.7

The first step in legislative history research is to determine whether someone has already compiled the legislative documents for you. Some libraries have complete legislative histories in both paper copy and microform. Search in the library catalog by title (e.g., legislative history housing act 1961), by subject (e.g., United States Laws, etc. Bankruptcy law of the United States), or by committee name (e.g., U.S. Congress House (or Senate) Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs Sub-committee on Indian Affairs Menominee Restoration Act).

Sources of Compiled Legislative Histories8 also offers a good starting point for locating completed histories. The Law Librarians' Society of Washington, D.C.

7 UCLA Law Library has a detailed Federal Legislative History Research Guide. In addition, an alphabetical list of state legislative history guides has been compiled by Jennifer Bryan Morgan, Documents Librarian, Indiana University School of Law Library—Bloomington.

8 Compiled by Nancy P. Johnson, published by the American Association of Law Libraries, and updated by loose-leaf. Available to HeinOnline subscribers (check your local college or university for access).
(LLSDC)’s Legislative Source Book, which is compiled by members of the Legislative Research Special Interest Section, is another excellent resource. Some of this material has been published in print for many years, and is now also available on their Web site. Resources include Federal Legislative History Research: A Practitioner’s Guide to Compiling the Documents and Sifting for Legislative Intent, A Research Guide to the Federal Register and the Code of Federal Regulations, and Selected Congressional Research Service Reports on Congress and Its Procedures. Also note Legislative Histories of Selected U.S. Laws on the Internet, which is arranged by popular name and public law number.

For laws enacted since 1970, the CIS (Congressional Information Service) Index provides the most comprehensive single access to legislative histories for all major bills. The index volumes and companion abstract volumes bring together all the bills, hearings, reports, etc. as well as related bills from the same or prior sessions of Congress. All the documents (except full text of debates) are available in microfiche and online via the LexisNexis Congressional database. LexisNexis also publishes a retrospective collection.

Unfortunately, compiled legislative histories are not always available. Researchers wanting to research the legislative intent are best served in a law library or a depository library. The following steps offer a methodology for identifying and locating the appropriate legislative documents:

2. Look at the “Historical Note” (which follows the text of the Code section). In the U.S.C.A. look for a citation to the U.S. Code Congressional and Administrative News (USCCAN) for legislative history and purpose.

3. Review the annotations for references to cases and law review articles that discuss legislative intent.

4. Take note of the Public Law citation (e.g., Pub. L. 90-325).

5. Consult one of the following publications to identify relevant documents:
   a. CIS/Annual’s Index of Bill, Report and Document Numbers
   b. USCCAN’s Table of Legislative History

6. Read the statute’s history

9 The Monthly Catalog of the United States Government Publications, which had been printed since the passage of the Printing Act of 1895, was discontinued with the December 2004 edition. For publications issued prior to 1976, the printed Monthly Catalog should be consulted. The print editions were distributed to federal depository libraries. For publications issued after 1976, please use the online Catalog of U.S. Government Publications (CGP), which provides descriptive records for historical and current publications and provides direct links to those that are available online.

Federal Case Law

Case law, which consists of the written opinion of judges rendered in particular cases, is one of the most important sources of U.S. legal authority. While cases involve a specific dispute between parties, judges, in their written decisions, will shape legal doctrine by interpreting statutes and regulations. Statutes, however clearly worded, must be read in conjunction with court decisions that construe and apply their provisions. Cases can also “create” law in areas where there are no governing statutes or regulations.

Federal Judiciary

The judicial power of the United States is vested in the Supreme Court of the United States and the various inferior or lower federal courts. Federal courts hear cases based on the U.S. Constitution, cases dealing with treaties or federal law, and certain other conflicts. Examples of issues based on federal law are immigration, bankruptcy, and federal taxation. Although the U.S. Supreme Court does have original jurisdiction (i.e., it may be the first court to hear a particular case) for some matters such as disputes between states, it is predominantly an appellate court. The U.S. Supreme Court is compelled to hear certain cases, but in most situations it is within the Court’s discretion whether or not to hear an appeal. Cases come to the U.S. Supreme Court from both lower federal courts and state courts, but there must be a federal question involved. Ordinarily, cases are appealed from the highest state appellate court (e.g., the California Supreme Court) or from one of the U.S. Courts of Appeals.

The U.S. Courts of Appeals are the primary federal appellate courts. The United States is divided geographically into twelve circuits. California is in the Ninth Circuit, which is based in San Francisco. In the Ninth Circuit, bankruptcy appeals can be made either to the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel or to the Circuit Court. There is also a special Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. Cases from all fifty states based on patent appeals and appeals from the Court of International Trade, United States Claims Court, the Merit System Protection Board, and other specified cases are appealed to the Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit.

District Courts are the trial courts for the federal system. California is divided into four districts. The Northern District is based in San Francisco; the Central District sits in Los Angeles and Santa Ana; the Southern District has offices in San Diego; and the Eastern District sits in Sacramento and Fresno. District courts are courts of first instance for most federal questions. There is also a bankruptcy court in each district.

In addition to the regular court system, there are several administrative agencies with judicial or quasi-judicial powers. The U.S. Tax Court and the National Labor Relations Board (NRLB) are two examples. Appeals from these agencies go to the Courts of Appeals.

Federal Case Law Publications

Cases are published chronologically in multi-volumes sets called “reporters” or “reports.” When the volumes reach a certain number (e.g., 100 or 300) the publisher will start over with volume one and designate it the publication’s second series. For example, the Federal Reporter began in 1880 and is currently in its third series. Hence, there is more than one volume with the number 1 in the Federal Reporter series: volume 1 of the first series (cited as F.), volume 1 of the second series (cited as F.2d.), and volume 1 of the third series (cited as F.3d).

11 For a Circuit map, please see http://www.uscourts.gov/court_locator.aspx.
Please note that while all decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court are published, only some of the U.S. Courts of Appeals and U.S. District Courts’ decisions are published. Also note that there are separate reporters for specialized subject fields of federal law. For example, the decisions of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces (formerly U.S. Court of Military Appeals) are published in West’s Military Justice Reporter (1978 to current). The Bankruptcy Reporter (1980-current) contains the decisions of the U.S. Bankruptcy Courts and the bankruptcy decisions from the U.S. District Courts. For a complete list of federal court reporters, please see Table 1.1: United States Jurisdictions, Federal of The Bluebook: A Uniform System of Citation, 19th ed. (Harvard Law Review Association, 2010).

12 Although only the printed bound volumes of the United States Reports contain the final, official opinions of the Supreme Court, the time lag between issuance of an opinion and its final publication in a bound volume is about four years. For this reason, print researchers must consult one of the unofficial, commercial publications, which are far more current.

13 Cases not selected for publication (by West’s editors) in the Federal Reporter series are published in the Federal Appendix.

14 This set began publication in 1940 and contains a selected number of U.S. District Court decisions dealing with procedural issues under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure.
Federal Regulations & Regulatory Decisions

Federal regulations are rules and procedures promulgated by the executive and administrative agencies, which are delegated power by Congress. Agencies have both quasi-legislative power and quasi-judicial power. Hence, agencies may promulgate binding regulations and issue decisions involving particular parties on a case-by-case basis. Agencies may also issue advisory opinions or decisions, which may also be called orders or releases. This area of research is often called administrative law. Researchers new to this area of law may consult the United States Government Manual, which provides comprehensive information on the agencies of the legislative, judicial, and executive branches. Another useful resource is Louisiana State University Libraries’ Federal Agency Directory. It lists current/active/existing U.S. federal government agencies. Since the directory is not annotated, researchers should use this resource.

when they know the name of the agency but do not know the URL.

Regulations

Regulations supply detailed explanations and interpretations for the broad mandates of Congressional acts. Regulations are a binding source of law similar to statutes and cases. Regulations from all federal agencies can be found in two publications issued by the government. The Federal Register is a daily publication that contains the text of new and proposed regulations. The Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) is the codification of the general and permanent rules published in the Federal Register. Consult Appendix C of the U.S. Government Manual for a list of agencies and where they appear in the CFR.

Research for federal regulations should begin with the Code of Federal Regulations. The CFR is divided into 50 titles that represent the broad areas subject to federal regulation. Each title is divided into chapters, usually bearing the name of the issuing agency, which are divided further into parts that cover specific regulatory areas. Within the titles are chapters subdivided into subchapters by subject and then into parts dealing with specific topics. CFR parts are further subdivided into subparts and finally into sections. Each title is published annually, with the new edition replacing the old. An index is also published. The publication schedule divides the CFR into fourths, with one-fourth of the titles being published in the spring, one-fourth in the summer, etc. A typical citation would read 23 C.F.R. § 750.308, where 23 is the title number and 750.308 is the section number.

During the year, the daily Federal Register prints amendments to the CFR, and provides cross-referenced tables to allow the researcher to determine whether a particular CFR section has been amended since the last annual edition was published. The e-CFR is a current, daily edition of the CFR. Please note that it is not an official, legal edition of the CFR.

Regulatory Decisions

Federal agencies such as the National Labor Relations Board and the Federal Maritime Commission often have judicial or quasi-judicial authority and may issue administrative decisions. The decisions of many agencies are not published officially by the agency. Electronic database and loose-leaf law publishers are the main sources for this information. However, an increasing number of administrative decisions are becoming available on the Internet, but there is little consistency in how agencies provide access to this information. The University of Virginia Library’s Administrative Decisions & Other Actions – By Agency provides links to administrative actions that are outside the scope of the CFR or the FR. The only other avenue for these decisions and rulings is to make a request to the appropriate agency.

Presidential Materials

Materials that emanate from the President’s lawmaking function include executive orders for officers in departments and agencies and proclamations for announcing ceremonial or commemorative policies. Executive orders and proclamations may be found in the Federal Register, Code of Federal Regulations and the Web sites listed below.

U.S. Constitution, with Commentary & Analysis

Prepared by the Congressional Research Service, Library of Congress, the bound volume is over 2600 pages and is supplemented by pocket parts.

Online Access:
- CRS Annotated Constitution: Hyper-texted interpretation provided by Cornell University Law School’s Legal Information Institute (LII) which includes links to U.S. Supreme Court opinions, the U.S. Code, and the Code of Federal Regulations.

This six-volume set, supplemented by bound volumes, covers all aspects of constitutional law, including important cases with brief outlines of the constitutional issues involved. It is available online via Gale’s Virtual Reference Library (subscription required).

CHAPTER 8: BIBLIOGRAPHY OF FEDERAL LAW RESOURCES

This encyclopedia includes more than 500 short explanatory essays, which cover specific cases, individuals, organizations, legal concepts and topics. Each entry is followed by suggestions for further reading. It includes a bibliography, list of cases, and an index. Available online via NetLibrary (subscription required).

U.S. Constitution as Historical Document

National Archives and Records Administration (NARA), Charters of Freedom, Constitution of the United States
Download high-resolution images of the Constitution, Declaration of Independence, and the Bill of Rights. Other resources include articles, exhibits, and links to questions and answers.

The Library of Congress, American Memory, Documents from the Continental Congress and Constitutional Convention, 1774-1789
Includes the Continental Congress Broadside Collection, the Constitutional Convention Broadside Collection, and early printed versions of the U.S. Constitution and the Declaration of Independence. Access full color scanned images as well as text versions of documents. Full text searchable.

Yale Law Library, The Avalon Project, The American Constitution – A Documentary Record
Provides the full text (in html) of several pre-constitutional legal documents, as well as numerous historical documents in the categories of “Revolution and Independence,” “Credentials of the Members of the Federal Convention,” “the Constitutional Convention,” and “Ratification and Formation of the Government.”

Legislative Branch Resources

Finding Aids

CIS/Index. Washington, DC: Congressional Information Service, 1970-.
This multi-volume set indexes nearly every Congressional document and is published monthly, with quarterly cumulations and annual bound volumes. Online access through LexisNexis Congressional Universe (subscription required).
   The CD-ROM version of the CIS/Index. Part I indexes pre-1970 documents. Part II is updated quarterly.

Congressional Index. Chicago, IL: Commerce Clearing House, 1937/38-.
   This two-volume set (one for each house of Congress) includes the status of legislation, committees, members of Congress, voting records, etc. for each Congress from the 75th Congress (1937-39) to the current Congress.

   Indexes federal and state statutes and landmark cases by common names. This two-volume set is updated by a cumulative supplement.

U.S. Code Table of Acts Cited By Popular Name
   This table, included in the indexes to the U.S. Code, U.S.C.A. and U.S.C.S., lists laws alphabetically under either the short titles assigned by Congress or names by which they are commonly known, and provides citations to the Statutes at Large and U.S. Code.

Online Access:
   o Popular_Name_Tool, U.S. House of Representatives, Office of Law Revision Counsel
   o Popular_Names_of_Acts_in_the_U.S._Code, Cornell Law School’s Legal Information Institute

Catalog of U.S. Government Publications
   This online catalog is the finding tool for current and historical publications from the legislative, executive and judicial branches of the U.S. government (from July 1976 to present) in both electronic and print format. Updated daily, it provides direct links to publications available online. The monthly (with semiannual and annual indexes) print version ceased with no. 1345 (Dec. 2004). Consult the print Monthly Catalog for publications issued prior to July 1976.

Statutes & Codes

CHAPTER 8: BIBLIOGRAPHY OF FEDERAL LAW RESOURCES

This official, multivolume set includes the acts (both public and private) passed during each Congress, published chronologically. The bound volumes are kept up to date by slip laws (i.e., individual pamphlets designated by public law number, containing the text of newly passed legislation).

Available online via FDsys from volume 117 (108th Congress, 1st Session (2003)) through volume 121 (110th Congress, 1st Session (2007)), as of November 3, 2011. For current slip laws, see the FDsys’ Public and Private Laws page (104th Congress to current Congressional session).

U.S. Code Congressional and Administrative News. St. Paul, MN: West Group, 1952-.

This set (abbreviated as USCCAN) is an unofficial publication of the acts of Congress in chronological order. Beginning with the 76th Congress, 1st Session (1939), this set is far more current than either the official slip laws or the United States Statutes at Large. Non-cumulative pamphlets keep the bound volumes up to date. USCCAN is also a valuable source for legislative histories and includes presidential proclamations and executive orders.

This official publication is the codification by subject matter of the general and permanent laws of the United States. Published by the Office of the Law Revision Counsel of the U.S. House of Representatives, the Code is divided by broad subjects into 50 titles. New editions are published approximately every 6 years and are updated by annual cumulative supplements.

Online Access:

- The U.S. House of Representatives, Office of Law Revision Counsel, United States Code: Search and download titles and chapters of the U.S. Code. Links to classification tables, a popular name tool, and Thomas. Click on the “About” link for information on currency of the Code. Note that a beta site was released (accessed Nov. 3, 2011).

- GPO’s FDsys, United States Code: Search the most recent official edition of the U.S. Code. Also available are prior editions (from 1994), plus supplements.

Cornell Law School’s Legal Information Institute (LII), U.S. Code Collection

Generated from the most recent official version made available by the U.S. House of Representatives; includes an update service that integrates the services of the House server with the Library of Congress’ Thomas service.
This unofficial publication follows the same title and section arrangement as the official U.S. Code, but includes annotations to judicial decisions, law review articles, and references to other West publications. The bound volumes are supplemented by pocket parts and monthly statutory supplements.

This unofficial publication follows the same title and section arrangement as the official U.S. Code, but includes annotations to judicial decisions, relevant administrative regulations, law review articles and other secondary sources. It includes a cross-reference table to the Code of Federal Regulations and is supplemented by pocket parts and monthly advance sheets.

Bills & Resolutions

This set (paper or microfiche) includes the full-text of Senate and House bills and resolutions.

Thomas (Library of Congress)
93rd Congress to current Congress; in Advanced Search, may search multiple Congresses, limit by Congressional sponsor, by committee, by date of introduction, and by type of legislation.

GPO’s FDsys Congressional Bills (Government Printing Office)
103rd Congress to current Congress; the database is updated daily by 6 a.m. (EST). May browse by type of bill and by Congress; provides links to table of years and session dates of Congress and to a Congressional Bills Glossary.

American Memory’s Bills and Resolutions, A Century of Lawmaking for a New Nation (Library of Congress)
Provides the text of bills and resolutions from the 6th Congress to 42nd Congress in the House of Representatives; the 16th Congress to the 42nd Congress in the Senate; and the 18th Congress to the 42nd Congress for Senate Joint Resolutions.

Legislative History Sources

Included below are compiled legislative history sources as well as numerous individual Congressional publications. Please use the Catalog of U.S. Government Publications to locate specific congressional publications (for those issued before July 1976, consult the print Monthly Catalog, which are retained by many federal depository libraries). Researchers should also consult the sources listed under Legislative Finding Aids for indexes and other resources that will aid in identifying documents produced in Congress during the enactment of a law (debates, hearings, reports, etc.).

- Compiled Legislative History Sources

  This collection contains full-text legislative histories on a select number of historically significant legislation, such as the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993 and the Voting Rights Act of 1965. It is available in microfiche and online through HeinOnline (subscription required). Accompanied by Federal Legislative Histories: An Annotated Bibliography and Index to Officially Published Sources, compiled by Bernard D. Reams, Jr. Westport, CT: Greenwood Press, 1994.

  Legislative Source Book. Law Librarians Society of Washington, D.C. (LLSDC). This online resource includes research guides, directories, and links to other sources for federal legislative histories, including Electronic Sources for Federal Legislative History Documents with Years/Congresses Available, by Richard J. McKinney.

  Sources of Compiled Legislative Histories: A Bibliography of Government Documents, Periodical Articles, and Books, 1st Congress—94th Congress. Nancy P. Johnson. Littleton, CO: Published for the American Association of Law Libraries by F. B. Rothman, 1979–. This one-volume loose-leaf publication contains citations to published legislative histories. It is arranged by public law number and includes an author-title index and public law index. Available online through HeinOnline (subscription required).

  U.S. Code Congressional and Administrative News. St. Paul, MN: West Group, 1952–. This set includes select legislative histories materials. Includes citations to other reports and Congressional Record dates.

- Congressional Publications

  This publication is issued daily, with weekly cumulations. The Monday issue includes a subject index to all House and Senate legislation. Available on FDsys (104th Congress to current Congress).

The official record of the proceedings and debates of the U.S. Congress. Published daily when Congress is in session, the Congressional Record (CR) consists of 4 sections—Daily Digest, House, Senate, and Extension of Remarks. Following each session of Congress, the daily CR is revised, printed, repaginated, and permanently bound.

Note: The debates for sessions prior to 1873 are recorded in The Debates and Proceedings in the Congress of the United States (1789-1824), The Register of Debates in Congress (1824-1837), and The Congressional Globe (1833-1873), which are available online at the Library of Congress’ American Memory, A Century of Lawmaking for a New Nation: U.S. Congressional Documents and Debates (1774-1875)

Thomas’ Congressional Record
Search multiple Congresses from the 101st Congress (1989-1990) to the present. May also view the latest Daily Digest or browse the Daily Issues. There is also a keyword index. Limit searches by member of Congress, section of the Congressional Record and by date.

GPO’s FDsys Government Publications page includes the following:
- Daily Congressional Record (Volume 140 (1994) to present)
- Bound Congressional Record (Volumes 145 - 147 (1999 to 2001))
- Congressional Record Index, an index to the daily issues of the Congressional Record from 1983 to the present in two parts: a listing of individuals, organizations, and topics and the History of Bills, which lists legislative actions reported in the Congressional Record.

Congressional Committee Prints
Committee prints are publications issued by Congressional committees on topics related to their legislative or research activities and are good sources for statistical and historical information as well as legislative analysis. Unfortunately, the procedures for printing and publication of these prints differ with each committee and, hence, are inconsistent. The Senate has a numbering system for its committee prints (based on the Congress and order in which the print was released; e.g., S. Prt. 108-3), but the House does not. They are not normally included in the U.S. Congressional Serial Set. However, sometimes committee prints are ordered printed as Congressional Documents, if the information they contain is in demand. Documents have a larger distribution than committee prints.

FDsys provide online access to prints, from the 102th Congress (1991-92) forward. FDsys also provides access to Congressional Documents from 99th Congress (1985-86) to current Congress.

U.S. Congressional Serial Set. Washington, DC: U.S. GPO, 1817 -.
Commonly referred to as the Serial Set. Contains House and Senate Reports and House and Senate Documents, which are arranged by session of Congress and numbered report/document. Documents before 1817 may be found in the American State Papers, which is available online at the Library of Congress’ American Memory.

FDsys provide online access to Congressional Documents and Congressional Reports. GPO’s page also includes numerical lists of documents and reports and the schedule of Serial Set volumes.

Browse committee reports by type: House, Senate, Conference or Joint, or search the full-text. Limit by committee or by date.

U.S. Congress Conference Reports

Congressional Hearings.
A hearing is a meeting or session of a Senate, House, joint, or special committee of Congress, usually open to the public, to obtain information and opinions on proposed legislation, conduct an investigation, or evaluate/oversee the activities of a government department or the implementation of a federal law. In addition, hearings may also be purely exploratory in nature, providing testimony and data about topics of current interest.

GPO’s FDsys contains selected House and Senate hearings for the 99th Congress (1985-86) forward. Whether or not a hearing is disseminated on FDsys depends on the committee.
Rutgers – Camden School of Law, U.S. Congressional Documents Archive
Full-text archive of selected Congressional hearings and committee prints, dated from the 1970s to 1998. As of November 3, 2011, there were 13,213 documents available, with plans to add new materials over the next several years. May browse listings or search full-text.

Federal Government News Sources

Roll Call. Washington, DC: Roll Call Group, 1955-.

Free online resources include:

Directories

Biographical Directory of the United States Congress, 1774–present Biographies of all members of Congress from 1774 to the present. Searchable by name, position (e.g., Representative, Senator, Delegate), state, party (e.g., Democrat, Federalist, Republican), and year or congress. Biographies include years of service, place and date of birth, education, and political career and link to bibliography, research collections, and House and Senate history pages.

Congressional Staff Directory. Washington, DC: C.Q. Press, 1959-.
Annual directory of members of Congress which includes addresses, telephone and fax numbers, email and Web addresses; biographies and photographs; state map with district highlighted; staff members with titles and legislative responsibilities; all district offices with address, phone, fax, and staff; and leadership positions, committees, subcommittees and caucuses. In addition, detailed information on committees and members’ congressional districts.

Congressional Yellow Book. Washington, DC: Washington Monitor, 1976-.
Brief biographies of members of Congress and specific details on legislative staff assignments in Washington and in their home districts. Directories of committees and subcommittees, including detailed information on legislative staff. Quarterly.

Index to members of Congress, committees, staff and agencies. Searchable by keyword and browsable by state or section. Includes Congressional District maps, biographies, and committee assignments. Available online via GPO Access (from 105th Congress (1997-98) forward).

Judicial Branch Resources

Reported court decisions are an important source of law in the Anglo-American legal system. Court decisions are published in books called reporters. Different reporters are published for different courts. Digests serve as subject indexes to reporters, enabling researchers to find specific cases by legal issue. Citators such as Shepard’s give up-to-date information on the status of cases. These three types of sources (case reporters, digests, and citators) must be used together to conduct thorough case law research. Public libraries often have neither the space nor the budget to maintain these services. Therefore, it is recommended that users with case law research be referred to local law libraries.

Court Decisions (i.e., Cases or Case Law)

- U.S. Supreme Court Cases
United States Law Week. Washington, DC: Bureau of National Affairs, 1933-.
This publication (cited as U.S.L.W.) is a comprehensive source for current information on the Court’s activities. Volume 1 includes the full-text of Supreme Court opinions. Volume 2 includes current cases and statutes from federal and state court and legislatures.

The official reporter for U.S. Supreme Court decisions (cited as U.S.). Cases are published first as bench opinions, then as slip opinions, then in advance sheets, and finally in bound volumes. The official Web site for the U.S. Supreme Court includes slip opinions and the full text bound volumes from volume 502 (1991) to the most current bound volume (which is volume 550 (2006) as of March 23, 2011).

This unofficial reporter (cited as L.Ed., L.Ed.2d) contains editorial summaries, headnotes, and annotations. It is kept up to date by advance reports, Later Case Service volumes, pocket parts and Interim Edition volumes.

West’s Supreme Court Reporter. St. Paul, MN: West Group, 1988-.
Like the Lawyers’ Edition, this unofficial reporter (cited as S.Ct.) contains editorial summaries and headnotes. It is kept up to date by advance sheets.

Supreme Court Cases on the Internet:
- Cornell’s Legal Information Institute (LII), Supreme Court Collection
  Includes U.S. Supreme Court decisions from 1990 forward and over 600 historic decisions. Finding aids include case name lists, topical lists, and authorship lists.

- FindLaw’s Supreme Court Opinions
  A searchable database of Supreme Court opinions since 1893. Browsable by year and U.S. Reports volume number and searchable by citation, case name and full text.

- Lexis Communities Free Case Law
  Access U.S. Supreme Court cases from 1781 to present. LexisNexis headnotes are not included. May search by keywords or by citation. Must create an account (which is free) to view the full text of cases.
CHAPTER 8: BIBLIOGRAPHY OF FEDERAL LAW RESOURCES

- OpenJurist
  A free legal research service which includes U.S. Supreme Court opinions from Volume 1 of the official United States Reports.

- Oyez
  From 1792 forward. Oyez provides a summary of facts of the case, question(s) presented, and the Court’s conclusion. Links to full text opinion provided by Justia.

- The Public Library of Law
  Powered by Fastcase. Free account registration required. U.S. Supreme Court cases from Volume 1 of the United States Reports. May search by case name or citation (no fields provided, just enter the citation/case name into the search box).

Other Supreme Court Internet Resources:

- ABA’s Preview of the United States Supreme Court Cases
  Provides links to the briefs filed in cases (both scheduled and unscheduled) from 2003-2004 forward. Supreme Court Preview includes articles that highlight cases from the current term. Following oral argument, the articles include links to commentary and to the Supreme Court's Argument Transcript.

- Official U.S. Supreme Court Web Site
  Provides a wealth of information about the Court, its history, and its justices as well as information on pending cases and recent decisions. It includes a complete list of justices from 1789 to the present.

- SCOTUS blog
  The law firm Akin Gump Strauss Hauer & Feld, LLP publishes the Supreme Court of the United States (SCOTUS) blog. Read news, commentary and analysis as well as keep up to date on new filings, orders and opinions.

- On the Docket
  On the Docket, part of the Oyez Project, is an online clearinghouse for news about decisions handed down by the U.S. Supreme Court and cases accepted for review. View summaries of upcoming cases and recently decided cases. There is also a Term Calendar and Timeline (where you can move forward or backward to see more content).
Each entry offers a full account of the case, the vote of the Justices, the legal and social background, the reasoning behind the Court’s decision, and the case’s impact on American society. Includes a glossary of terms, and the Supreme Court Justices’ nominations, appointments and succession.

- U.S. Courts of Appeals Cases

  Now in its third series (abbreviated F., F.2d, F.3d), this reporter contains selected decisions of the U.S. Courts of Appeals (from 1880) and is updated with advance sheets.

  West’s Federal Appendix. St. Paul, MN: West Group, 2001-.
  This set (cited as F. App’x) includes Court of Appeals decisions not selected for publication in the Federal Reporter. Includes decisions from every circuit (except the 5th and 11th). Researchers need to determine for themselves whether these cases may be cited as precedent.

  Courts of Appeals Cases on the Internet:
  - FindLaw’s Federal Courts of Appeals Opinions
    Coverage varies by jurisdiction but earliest opinions are dated between 1994 and 1997. This page also includes a link to a page listing each court’s official Web site.
  - Lexis Communities Free Case Law
    Users must create a free account to view cases from the U.S. Courts of Appeals. Limited to cases decided within the last 10 years.
  - OpenJurist
    Includes Courts of Appeals opinions published in the Federal Reporter from 1880 to present.
  - Public Library of Law
    Includes cases from the U.S. Courts of Appeals from 1950 to present (except for the 11th Circuit (from 1981) and the Federal Circuit (from 1982)). In advanced search, may search only one jurisdiction at a time.
CHAPTER 8: BIBLIOGRAPHY OF FEDERAL LAW RESOURCES

• U.S. District Court Cases

  West’s Federal Supplement. St. Paul, MN: West Group, 1933-.
  Now in its second series (cited as F. Supp., F. Supp. 2d), this reporter contains selected federal district court cases beginning in 1932. Like the other West reporters, it includes editorial summaries, headnotes with key numbers, and references to secondary sources.

  West’s Federal Rules Decisions. St. Paul, MN: West Group, 1940-.

District Court Internet Resources:

  o  FindLaw’s U.S. District Courts
    Provides links to official District Court Web sites which often contain recent opinions.

  o  Justia’s Federal District Court Filings & Dockets and Opinions & Orders
    May search by party name, by jurisdiction, lawsuit type, and limit by date case was filed. Browsable by state, nature of suit and case name. Cases available from 2004 to present.

  o  PACER’s County/District Locator
    Search for District and Circuit of federal courts by county name; search for all counties in a District; or search for details by county code.

• Other Federal Courts Resources

  U.S. Courts’ Court Locator
  An interactive federal court map which also allows searching for a court by zip code, city and state, area code, and type of court.

  Cornell’s LII, Federal Law Materials - Judicial Opinions
  Scroll to the bottom of this page for links to the official Web sites of the lower federal courts—to statistical data and decisions by circuit and by state. Also provides links to U.S. Courts of Special Jurisdiction.
Digests

United States Supreme Court Digest, 1754 to Date. St. Paul, MN: West Group, 1943-.

This subject index to U.S. Supreme Court cases is a companion to West’s Supreme Court Reporter. Includes a descriptive word index, a table of cases, and references to West’s Key Number system. Updated by pocket parts.

United States Supreme Court Digest, Lawyers’ Edition. Charlottesville, VA: LEXIS Law Publishing, 1948-.

This subject index to U.S. Supreme Court cases is a companion to U.S. Supreme Court Reports, Lawyers’ Edition. Organized by digest topics and includes Table of Cases volumes. Updated by pocket parts.

West’s Federal Practice Digest, 4th. St. Paul, MN: West Group, 1989-.

This digest, which began as the Federal Digest, serves as a subject index to all federal courts. It includes a descriptive word index, references to West’s Key Number system, a Table of Cases, and Words & Phrases volumes. Updated by pocket parts and supplementary pamphlets.

Citators

Shepard’s Citations

Includes Shepard’s United States Citations, Shepard’s Federal Citations, Shepard’s Code of Federal Regulations Citations, Shepard’s Administrative Citations, Shepard’s Pacific Reporter Citations, Shepard’s California Citations, and many more (for a full list of titles, search the LexisNexis Bookstore).

Shepard’s Citations in Print, Product Literature and Manuals

Links to PDF documents: Editorial Analysis definitions, features and organization, and How to Shepardize in Print.

Internet Resources (fee based)

Note: Many public law libraries have public access subscriptions to Westlaw or LexisNexis which allow users to search these databases at no cost. Contact your local law library for availability (for contact information, see Appendix C of this publication or Your Public Law Library’s Find Your Nearest California County Law Libraries Web page).

- Westlaw by Credit Card
“The price of retrieving a document or KeyCite result varies, depending on the type of document. You will always be asked to confirm charges before your credit card is billed, and this prompt lists the price. Charges are applied monthly to the credit card you provided at registration.”

- Georgetown Law Library, Free and Low Cost Legal Research on the Web, Low-Cost Legal Databases
  Provides a list of lower-cost subscription legal databases, all of which include a “citator” service. The guide cautions: “these citators typically only provide a list of cases in which the citation appears. They do not include qualitative information, such as an indication that a particular case has received negative treatment. Westlaw and Lexis both provide this information through their Shepard’s and Keycite services, and those services are available through the lower cost lexisONE and Westlaw by Credit Card.”

Judges

Almanac of the Federal Judiciary. Chicago, IL: LawLetters, 1984-.
Currently published by Aspen Publishers in loose-leaf format. Provides profiles of every federal judge including academic and professional background, experience on the bench, noteworthy rulings and commentary by lawyers. Two volumes per year—volume 1 covers district court judges, magistrates and bankruptcy judges; volume 2 covers circuit court judges.

Provides information on each court—location, jurisdiction, method of selecting judges, and maps of judicial divisions. It is arranged alphabetically by state—federal district court judges are profiled in the state section in which the judge presides. There are separate sections for the U.S. Supreme Court and federal Courts of Appeals.

Biographical Directory of Federal Judges (from the Federal Judicial Center)
This comprehensive database provides information about all judges who have served since 1789 and is updated daily. Search by name or browse using the alphabetical index. This page also includes a link to The Federal Judges Biographical Database, which one may use to create customized lists of judges based by multiple criteria, including nominating president, type of court, dates of service, and demographic groups.
Lists names, addresses, and telephone numbers for judges, clerks, and administrators at the top three levels of the state and federal judiciary. Annual.

Offers profiles which ran in the Daily Journal legal newspaper and covers all judges, state and federal, sitting in California. Includes alphabetical and jurisdictional indexes. Loose-leaf.

Includes names, addresses, and telephone numbers for all federal judges and court staff. There are biographies for a select number of judges and judicial staff. Includes maps showing the jurisdiction of the district courts for each state. Biennial.

Consists of two sections—one for the federal courts and one for state courts. Includes contact information for judges and court staff. Semiannual.

History & Statistics

U.S. Courts’ Statistics

U.S. Courts’ History of Authorized Judgeships
Includes historical information on authorized judgeships for all courts and judgeship appointments by presidents since 1933.

Administrative Law

- Federal Regulations

Regulations promulgated by federal agencies are first published chronologically in a daily publication called the Federal Register. They are then arranged by subject in the Code of Federal Regulations.

Federal Register. Office of the Federal Register, National Archives and Records Service, 1936-.
Includes proposed and final rules and regulations of federal agencies, agency notices, presidential documents of general applicability, and Sunshine Act meetings. Also include extensive preambles that explain the agency rationale for promulgating the regulatory changes and summarize the public comments on proposed rules. There is a monthly index, which cumulates references since the beginning of the year.

Federal Register on GPO’s FDsys provides online access from 1994 (Volume 59) to the present. Database is updated daily by 6 a.m. and is published Monday through Friday, except Federal holidays.

Also available is the unofficial prototype edition of the Federal Register, which is somewhat more user-friendly.

The Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) is the codification of the general and permanent rules published in the Federal Register by the executive departments and agencies of the federal government. It is divided into 50 titles that represent the broad areas subject to federal regulation. Each title is divided into chapters, which usually begin with the name of the issuing agency. Chapters are divided into parts that cover specific regulatory areas. Each volume of the CFR is updated once each calendar year and is issued on a quarterly basis.

Code of Federal Regulations on GPO’s FDsys
All titles are available from 1996 to the current year. CFR volumes are added to GPO’s FDsys concurrent with the release of the paper editions. A list of agencies and where they appear in the CFR may be found in the Appendix of the U.S. Government Manual.

e-CFR is a daily updated version of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). It is an editorial compilation of CFR materials and Federal Register amendments.

Code of Federal Regulation on Cornell’s LII

Links to the most recent version of the CFR placed on the Internet by the GPO. May retrieve sections by citation (title & section) or browse by title. There is also a link (on the right) to the LII index of all section headings, which is recommended as a first search.

- Administrative Decisions and Rulings

  Administrative agencies have quasi-judicial powers—they hold hearings and issue decisions involving specific parties. The publication pattern of agency decision varies by agency. In addition, there is no mandated and organized system for the publication of agency decisions. Some agencies publish all decisions, while others are more selective. Hence, commercial publishers are a major source of administrative decisions in their subject fields.

  Loose-leaf services are available for heavily regulated areas such as tax (e.g., CCH’s Tax Court Reporter), securities (e.g., CCH’s Federal Securities Law Reporter), and labor (e.g., BNA’s Labor Relations Reporter). Not only are loose-leaf publications usually very current (some are updated weekly), but they often contain relevant primary sources of law and some secondary materials in one publication. In addition to statutes, regulations, court cases and administrative agency decisions, they generally provide current awareness information such as news of proposed legislation and pending regulations. These services are often better indexed than the government publications and contain features to help you locate information.

  To review a list of published agency decisions, see the following reference titles:

    For a non-exclusive table of administrative agency and executive materials, see T1.2 at pages 218-228.

Presidential Documents

The major legal documents issued by the President are executive orders and proclamations. Executive orders involve the exercise of presidential authority and do not have the force of law until they are printed in the Federal Register. Proclamations usually involve announcements of policy and are often ceremonial. Nonetheless, proclamations have important legal significance such as when used to grant presidential pardons. Proclamations are also published in the Federal Register.

Public Papers of the Presidents of the United States. Washington, DC: Federal Register Division, National Archives and Records Service, 1957-.
This series covers the administrations of Presidents Hoover, Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon, Ford, Carter, Reagan, George H.W. Bush, Clinton, and George W. Bush. Currently, volumes are published approximately twice a year, and each volume covers approximately a 6-month period. Each Public Papers volume contains the papers and speeches of the President of the United States that were issued by the Office of the Press Secretary during the specified time period. The material is presented in chronological order, and the dates shown in the headings are the dates of the documents or events. Each Public Papers volume features a foreword signed by the President, and a portfolio of photographs selected from White House Photo Office files, as well as subject and name indexes, and a document categories list.

Weekly Compilation of Presidential Documents. Washington, DC: Federal Register, National Archives and Records Administration, 1965-.
A companion to the Public Papers series, the Weekly Compilation was begun in 1965 to provide a broader range of Presidential materials on a timely basis to meet the needs of the contemporary reader. The appendices in each Public Papers volume provide listings of:
A digest of the President's daily schedule and meetings and other items of general interest issued by the Office of the Press Secretary;

- The President’s nominations submitted to the Senate;

- A checklist of materials released by the Office of the Press Secretary; and

- A table of Proclamations, Executive Orders, and other Presidential documents released by the Office of the Press Secretary and published in the Federal Register.

Presidential Materials on the Internet:

- White House Briefing Room’s Presidential Actions
  Official proclamations, presidential memoranda, and executive orders that President Obama has issued since his inauguration.

- FDsys’ Compilation of Presidential Documents
  The Compilation of Presidential Documents collection consists of the Weekly Compilation of Presidential Documents and the Daily Compilation of Presidential Documents, which are the official publications of materials released by the White House Press Secretary. From 1993 to present.

- FDsys’ Public Papers of the Presidents of the United States

- The American Presidency Project
  Established in 1999, this project is the result of a collaboration between John Woolley and Gerhard Peters at the University of California, Santa Barbara. The Document Archive contains over 86,000 documents related to the study of the presidency and includes the Messages and Papers of the Presidents (Washington to Taft, 1789-1913), The Public Papers of the President (Hoover to Bush, 1929-1993), as well as thousands of other documents such as party platforms, candidates' remarks, formal farewell addresses, and much more.

- Codification of Presidential Proclamations and Executive Orders
  Via NARA. Provides access to the edited and re-arranged text of Presidential Proclamations and Executive Orders from April 13, 1945 to January 20, 1989. This page also includes a link to the Executive Orders Disposition Tables, which begins with E.O. 7532, January 8, 1937 to present, and includes title, signature date, Federal Register citation, and

Federal Agency Directory (via Louisiana State University Libraries)
Lists current/active/existing U.S. federal government agencies as represented in the U.S. Government Manual. No annotation provided. The index is searchable by agency keyword only. Note that this index is for people who already know what agency they are looking for, but do not know the URL.

Now in its 14th edition, this directory includes profiles of more than 100 federal agencies and departments, including contact information, structure, and current issues.

Federal Staff Directory. Mount Vernon, VA: Congressional Staff Directory, Ltd., 1982-.
Contains listings from the White House offices, offices of the Vice President, agencies of the executive office of the President, presidential advisory organizations, executive departments, independent agencies, quasi-official international and non-governmental organizations and federal executive biographies. Published three times a year.

Contact information for over 45,000 U.S. federal positions located within the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area. Quarterly publication.

Provides comprehensive information on the agencies of the federal government. Also includes information on quasi-official agencies, international organizations in which the U.S. participates, boards, commissions, and committees. Includes citations to statutes under which the agencies operate and organizational charts. The Manual includes the Declaration of Independence and the U.S. Constitution. GPO’s FDsys includes editions of the Manual from 1995-96 forward.

ASSISTING SELF-REPRESENTED LITIGANTS IN CALIFORNIA

The number of pro se litigants has risen dramatically in recent years. The primary reason, fairly obvious and well understood by the legal community, is the scarcity of affordable legal services. People simply cannot afford to hire an attorney. Hence, librarians can expect to encounter a rising number of questions from users with law-related problems. In providing assistance to these users, librarians should understand the obstacles pro se litigants face in navigating the legal system on their own. First, the legal system is far from “user-friendly”—complex procedures and rules vary from jurisdiction to jurisdiction, from court to court, and even from judge to judge. Second, legal information can be found in multiple sources and formats and is not often written in plain English. Another obstacle is the characteristics of the litigants themselves, who often have a lack of knowledge of the law and court procedures, unrealistic expectations, and, at times, harbor disdain for attorneys and the justice system.

In the state of California, over 4.3 million of California’s court users are self-represented. Pro se litigants submit two-thirds of family law court filings. In addition, judges and court staff report that the defendant in unlawful detainer cases is self-represented over 90% of the time. Fortunately, the Judicial Council of California, the policymaking body of the California courts, established the Task Force on Self-Represented Litigants in 2001 “to coordinate the statewide response to the needs of litigants who represent themselves in court.”

This chapter will describe the state’s programs as well as others offered to Californians at county law libraries and through legal clinics, providing links to Internet resources throughout. At the end of this chapter, there is a list of selected Internet sources.

4 Judicial Council of California, Fact Sheet: Programs for Self-Represented Litigants (February 2009).
California Courts’ Programs for Self-Represented Litigants

In furtherance of its mission to ensure meaningful court access for all Californians, the California Judicial Council launched the California Courts Self-Help Center in 2001. The California Courts Self-Help Center is designed to provide the types of legal information needed by the majority of self-represented litigants. The Web site’s more than 1200 pages of information include instructions on how to navigate the court system, offer step-by-step guidance in filling out court forms, and provide information on specific legal topics such as family law, restraining orders, landlord-tenant issues, and small claims court. A Spanish language version was launched in 2003 and information is now also available in Chinese, Korean, and Vietnamese. The California Courts Self-Help Center also provides contact information for free and low-cost legal help and a legal glossary. Links to other governmental bodies and organizations offering legal assistance are also included.

In 2008, the Judicial Council established a network of court-based self-help centers. These self-help centers, held in or near superior courts, are staffed by attorneys and other legal personnel to provide information and education to self-represented litigants. Some courts also offer Family Law Facilitator programs in which attorneys help self-represented litigants with forms and court procedures relating to child and spousal support. Family law facilitators do not meet individually with litigants. Rather, they offer group sessions or walk-in clinics for anyone who does not have their own lawyer. There is no income-level requirement.5

The oldest of California’s self-help programs is the Small Claims Legal Advisors, which provides free assistance to litigants in small claims proceedings. Assistance varies by county and may be provided by telephone, in person, or through information booklets. Advisors “may be volunteers, and shall be members of the State Bar, law students, 5 To find the family law facilitator in your county, use this link: http://www.courts.ca.gov/9497.htm.

paralegals, or persons experienced in resolving minor disputes, and shall be familiar with small claims court rules and procedures. Advisors may not appear in court as an advocate for any party.”

6 A 2002 study commissioned by the Judicial Council exposed significant problems with this approach, including the use of law students and non-attorney volunteers who are not permitted to give legal advice, but are limited to answering questions on the process.

7 Steven Weller et al. Report on the California Three Track Civil Litigation Study (July 31, 2002) at 34-35.
• Caregivers and the Courts: An eight-page primer on juvenile dependency proceedings for California foster parents and relative caregivers.

• Guardianship Pamphlet: A six-page pamphlet that gives basic information to individuals who may become the legal guardian of a child who has been declared a dependent of the juvenile court. Also available in Spanish, Korean, Chinese and Vietnamese.

• Juvenile Court Information for Parents: A six-page pamphlet that provides information to parents of children charged with minor crimes.

The California Courts Web site was given a new look and a new URL in March of 2011. It is now much easier to find information by topic by going to the Online Self-Help Center and then browsing by subject area. The publications listed above were found either in the forms section or within a subtopic, embedded within the text. Lastly, consult the Self-Help Glossary for definitions of various legal terms and phrases.

California State Bar

The California State Bar publishes a number of consumer pamphlets intended to help members of the public with their legal questions. Current titles include the following:

• Kids & the Law: An A-Z Guide for Parents
• Seniors & the Law: A Guide for Maturing Californians
• How Can I Find and Hire the Right Lawyer?
• Guide to Legal Literacy
• What Should I Know About Divorce and Custody?
• Statutory Will Form
• Problem with a Lawyer?

Most are available in English and in Spanish in PDF format for free. Pamphlets can also be ordered directly from the State Bar.

County Law Libraries

The California county law libraries serve as resources for legal information for all Californians. Their user base includes not only attorneys and other legal professionals but also lay people handling their own legal concerns.
The Council of California County Law Libraries (CCCLL), composed of representatives from the county law libraries across the state, offers Your Public Law Library, a Web site designed to bring together and highlight self-help resources available to members of the public. Your Public Law Library includes five sections:

- Self-Help which provides links to Web sites offering content specifically designed for pro se litigants (including forms)
- Mini-Research Class which offers guidance on the legal research process including where to start and what resources to check
- Find Your . . . Nearest California County Law Library which offers a listing of all 58 county law libraries including contact information and Web site addresses
- Legal Links which provides links to Web sites offering both federal and California-specific legal information
- AskNow, a real-time reference service provided by county law librarians

Your Public Law Library provides an excellent starting place for library users embarking on self-representation.

Individual county law libraries have responded to the demand for self-help legal services in a variety of ways: in-person reference assistance, email reference, and participation in AskNow's Law Librarian Service. They also maintain extensive lists of local legal aid providers and often make them available on their Web pages.

Additionally, larger county law libraries put on a variety of workshops geared to address commonly encountered legal situations. A sampling of workshops follows. Visit your local county law library’s Web site to see what workshops they offer. A complete list of county law libraries can be found on the Your Public Law Library Web site and in Appendix C of this publication.

Hosts a self-represented litigant class and guide to small claims court workshop, presented by the San Mateo County Superior Court Self-Help Center (in Spanish and English).
CHAPTER 9: ASSISTING SELF-REPRESENTED LITIGANTS

Self-Help Publishers

Established in 1971 by Ralph Warner, then a legal aid lawyer, Nolo Press is the premiere self-help legal publisher in California. Nolo offers titles on a wide range of legal issues, including wills, divorce, child custody, elder care, and taxes (to name a few). Their books are written by attorneys using easily understandable language and include forms and software to assist users in completing legal documentation. Updates to their titles are posted on their Web site. Of particular note to libraries is Nolo’s policy of replacing stolen library Nolo Press titles for free (naturally some restrictions apply).

Oxford University Press publishes over 88 titles in its Legal Almanac Series which “serves to educate the general public on a variety of legal issues pertinent to everyday life and to keep readers informed of their rights and remedies under the law.” Included in the Series are such titles as How to Deal with Your Lawyer, Health Care Directives, Transportation Law: Passenger Rights and Responsibilities, and Pet Law. Written by attorneys (many by Margaret Jasper, a New York attorney) each title provides an overview of the area of law as well as state-by-state coverage of issues within that area. The Series can be purchased as one loose-leaf set or by individual title.

Sphinx Publishing, a division of Sourcebooks, Inc., also publishes self-help legal titles authored by attorneys. California-specific titles include File for Divorce in California Without Children by John J. Talamo and Edward J. Haman and Probate and Settle an Estate in California by Douglas E. Godbe and John J. Talamo. Sphinx has fewer California-specific titles than Nolo Press but does offer quality books on national and general topics such as immigration law, patent law, and sexual harassment.

For a comprehensive listing of self-help titles, please refer to Chapter 10: Bibliography of California Self-Help Resources.

Pro Bono Legal Providers

Pro bono providers are organizations which provide free or low-cost legal advice and representation to individuals who are unable to afford the services of a lawyer. Staffed by licensed attorneys and paralegals as well as attorney volunteers, pro bono providers vary in the types of cases they handle. Typically, providers will handle common legal problems such as landlord-tenant, child custody, child support, employment, and government benefits. Unfortunately, many providers are underfunded and understaffed to meet the demands made on them.

The Legal Services Corporation (LSC) was established by Congress in 1974 as a private, nonprofit corporation to promote equal access to justice to low-income Americans. It is now the single largest provider of civil legal aid in the United States. LSC functions by providing grants, training, and oversight to legal service providers.

In 2008, LSC provided over $43 million to California legal service providers. LSC Programs in California include Legal Services of Northern California, Inc., the Legal Aid Society of Orange County, Central California Legal Services, and the Legal Aid Foundation of Los Angeles. A complete list of LSC supported legal service providers can be found on their Web site along with a list of counties served by the various providers.

LawHelpCalifornia.org provides an extensive listing of California legal aid providers alphabetically and by counties served. Listings include both LSC and non-LSC funded providers and indicate whether an organization provides legal representation in court. In addition to providers that provide general assistance, LawHelpCalifornia.org lists those providers devoted to particular populations such as the homeless, persons with AIDS, seniors, etc. Because of its comprehensive nature, LawHelpCalifornia.org should be the first resource librarians suggest to users looking for pro bono legal services.

The American Bar Association also provides a list of pro bono providers by state in its Public Resources section. The California portion of the Consumer’s Guide to Legal Help Pro Bono lists pro bono providers by county and includes basic contact information, including a link to each Web site, along with information such as types of cases handled and income and other restrictions.

In addition to Bar Associations, some law schools provide clinics tailored to specific legal issues or populations. For instance, the USC Small Business Clinic provides basic corporate legal assistance to small businesses, entrepreneurs, and non-profit organizations. The Cancer Legal Resource Center at Loyola Law School in Los Angeles provides legal information and support to cancer survivors and their families. U.C. Berkeley Law School’s East Bay Community Law Center provides legal services to low-income individuals in the surrounding community. Legal services at clinics are typically provided by second and third year law students under the supervision of licensed attorneys. Local law school Web sites should be consulted for a list of clinics.

I-CAN!™ Legal: http://www.icandocs.org/ca/

Funded by the LSC, the California Administrative Office of the Courts, several California superior courts, non-profit legal services organizations, and the State Bar of California, this free online service fills out forms for you by asking simple questions and placing the answers in the correct place. There are tutorials and written instructions available as well as educational videos. Users must create an account, which allows the person to make changes to information, reprint forms, or use another module. In English, Spanish, and Vietnamese.

Nolo Press: http://www.nolo.com

The self-help publisher’s Web site offers a variety of free resources, including a Legal Encyclopedia, Lawyer Directory, Law Blogs, and Nolo’s Plain-English Law Dictionary. iPhone (and iPod Touch) users can download a free copy of Nolo’s Plain-English Law Dictionary (search iTunes under Free Apps).

FindLaw’s Learn About the Law: http://public.findlaw.com

Use this online legal resource to find information on popular topics such as will preparation, divorce and child custody, personal injury, and employee rights. Also see the FindLaw Law Library for links to Introduction to the U.S. Legal System, Guide to Hiring a Lawyer, and other links helpful to legal researchers.

Online Legal Research Guides:

Most law school libraries (e.g., UCLA Law Library’s LibGuides) and county law libraries (e.g., San Diego County Public Law Library) post research guides on their Web sites. Use Cornell University Law Library’s Legal Research Engine to find authoritative legal research guides on every subject, search the legal Internet, and search academic blawgs (for commentary from law professors).

The Pro Se Law Center: http://www.pro-selaw.org/
Although not a site for use by pro se litigants, this resource center on self-representation in civil legal matters is mentioned here primarily because of its searchable Pro-Se Organization Database. Researchers may also find the White Papers and Research page which includes links to articles, books, cases and opinions, court rules, ethics opinions, and reports to be useful. Lastly, there is a page that provides links to court-based pro se programs and services, organized by state.

BIBLIOGRAPHY OF SELF-HELP RESOURCES

There has been a virtual explosion of legal information resources geared toward the non-lawyer since the previous edition of this book was published in 2001. At that time, Nolo Press was the primary source for books that might help the novice legal researcher interpret the legalese of primary law materials (i.e., statutes, cases and regulations) or learn how to proceed in handling a legal matter (e.g., filing a lawsuit, responding to a summons, establishing copyright protection, changing your name, etc.). Indeed, although Nolo Press continues to dominate the self-help arena, more publishers have entered this field and, thanks to the Internet, what is available online not only supplements, but often replaces, what is available in print.

This chapter consists of an annotated, selective bibliography of legal self-help books and Web sites aimed at providing guidance to the non-attorney and non-law librarian in California. For California resources outside the self-help arena, please see Chapter 5: California Law and Chapter 6: Bibliography of California Resources of this publication.¹

The books and Web sites listed below were selected because they have proven their reliability over the years. The book titles and Web sites are arranged under the following subject headings:

Art Law
Business Law

Includes corporations, limited liability companies and partnerships, small businesses and nonprofits

Civil Procedure & Litigation

Includes enforcing judgments, superior & appellate court practice, personal injury, traffic and small claims procedure, troublesome neighbors and their pets

Consumer & Individual Rights

Includes right of patients, privacy, and identity theft

¹ See also Patricia Gima and Lisa Guerin, Nolo’s Guide to California Law, 11th ed. (Nolo, July 2011).

Veterans’ Rights & Benefits
Proceed with caution: Remember that laws are continually changing. Publishers attempt to keep their resources current, but it is sometimes beyond their control. The books and Web sites listed are current as of early November 2011. Because many public libraries have Nolo Press books in their collections, please consult your local library catalog or call the reference desk. In any case, the books included in this bibliography should be available in any large county law library (see Appendix C for locations) or through your local bookstores.

Art Law

Gives instructions for how to document the creation of art, apply for a design or utility patent, and do a patent search.

According to the publisher description, this book “takes a substantive approach to litigation (e.g., what the pleadings should say, rather than what they look like) referring to “Litigation by the Numbers” for up-to-date information on format and filing and service deadlines. It’s for anyone wanting more in-depth information about litigation.”
CHAPTER 10: BIBLIOGRAPHY OF SELF-HELP RESOURCES

Updated every January and July, this loose-leaf is designed to walk the reader through the entire lifecycle of a California state court civil lawsuit. It provides step-by-step instructions on how to take a case from filing all the way to enforcement of a judgment.

From Oceana’s Law for the Layperson Series. Contents include “no pet” lease clauses, pet licensing and leash laws, nuisance pets and dangerous dog laws, traveling with your pet, wrongful death or injury to a pet, estate planning for your pet, importing a pet to the United States, and animal welfare.

This book answers the basic questions that often trouble neighbors: fences, trees, boundaries and noise.

Judicial Council of California, Self-Help Center (http://www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp.htm)
The site is “intended to help a person find legal assistance, learn about California law, work better with an attorney, and represent yourself in some legal matters.” The site does not provide legal advice.

This book covers civil litigation in California state courts and California federal district courts. It follows the litigation process chronologically from initial client questions and contracts, to ethical issues, through the pleading and discovery phases, to trial, post-trial and appeal. The book is intended to be used on its own, or with the companion study guide.

How to protect your rights after an accident, how to evaluate what the claim is worth, how to negotiate a fair settlement and more.

Discusses dog owner liability, animal cruelty, estate planning, and licensing issues.

Access rates from the most recent auction of 52-week Treasury bills.

This book guides you step-by-step through small claims procedure, providing practical information on how to evaluate your case, file and serve the papers, prepare and present the case, and then collect when you win. Several types of cases are discussed, including landlord-tenant and vehicle accident.

Consumer & Individual Rights

American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) (http://www.aclu.org). Wye Mills, Maryland; ACLU Publications, 800-775-ACLU.
The ACLU Web site identifies resources on a multitude of legal based consumer concerns; i.e., rights of the poor, families, Indians and tribes, public employees, the right to privacy, and the rights of women, lesbians and gay men.

Discusses such topics as informed consent, emergency treatment, refusing treatment, confidentiality and malpractice.

Discusses both California and federal laws that protect the rights of individuals with disabilities. The above link will open a PDF 842 kb/85 pgs.

Provides a practical guide for the public on California and federal civil rights law.

The Consumer Protection page (http://www.consumeraction.gov/index.shtml) includes links to information on a variety of consumer topics, instructions on how (and where) to file a complaint, and lists of other publications dealing with corporations, automobiles, utilities, securities, banking and insurance and includes materials in Spanish. Note that as of July 2011, Consumer Action.gov merged with USA.gov.

Federal Trade Commission (http://www.ftc.gov)

The FTC “is the only federal agency with both consumer protection and competition jurisdiction in broad sectors of the economy.” Its work is performed by the Bureaus of Consumer Protection, Competition and Economics and aided by the Office of General Counsel and seven regional offices. For consumer complaints contact the Consumer Response Center at 877-FTC-HELP (382-4357); 9:00am to 5:00pm Eastern Standard Time, Monday through Friday. The Web site includes a tabbed page called “Consumer Protection,” also available in Spanish, which includes consumer and business information, information on how to file a complaint, and, under “Resources,” regulatory guidance documents by topic, featured articles, a catalog of all cases brought by the agency since June 1996, and a list of all Commission actions organized by date.

From Oceana’s Law for the Layperson Series. Contents include consumer product safety, the Consumer Credit Protection Act, consumer banking, automobiles, and health care rights.

From Oceana’s Law for the Layperson Series. Contents include information on securing your computer, email and Internet scams, online financial services, protecting children’s privacy online, socializing on the Internet, and Internet identity theft.

From Oceana’s Law for the Layperson Series. Contents cover common carriers, airlines, the rights of travelers with disabilities, railroads, buses, and cruise ships.

Discusses why shopping in stores can be riskier than shopping online, how to spot scammers in any situation, how to build a social networking profile without being the victim of fake “friends,” how to secure your bank accounts, keep your personal and public records safe, limit your risk to medical identity theft, and keep your children and elders’ identities secure.

National Consumer Law Center (http://www.nclc.org/)
Non-profit corporation offers technical assistance, publications and training to lawyers. According to the agency’s Web site, attorneys from all over the world view the center’s books as authority for consumer law.

Contract Law

For those contracting their services to others or hiring independent contractors. Instructions on how to put your agreement in writing, define a project’s scope, components and duration, satisfy IRS requirements, and avoid disputes. Includes forms and electronic agreements in the book and on CD-ROM.

Includes sample agreements, forms, lists of state sales tax agencies and state offices that provide small business help. Also covers insuring your business, record keeping and pricing your services.

Defines common contract terms, discusses the importance of contractual clauses and how to change them, and focuses on the legal rules for electronic contracts. Also includes sample contracts and clauses.

Available as tear-outs and on CD-ROM, the forms include bills of sale for buying and selling personal property, promissory notes for lending and borrowing, a basic will form and general power of attorney form, contracts for in-home child care, releases for settlement disputes, notices for dealing with telemarketers, and contracts for home repair and remodeling.
Copyright, Trademarks & Patent Law

This book includes agreements as tear-outs and on CD-Rom for the authorized use of text, photographs, artwork and music.

Discusses issues such as who owns creative works and how to protect ownership rights, resolve intellectual property disputes and transfer rights to others.

From Oceana’s Law for the Layperson Series. Contents include types of applications and registrations, the PTO trademark application process, international applications, monetizing trademarks, infringement issues, and Internet issues regarding trademarks.

U.S. Copyright Office (http://www.copyright.gov)
The Copyright Office Web site provides copyright laws, regulations, copyright forms, copyright legislation, and copyright links to GPO Access, WIPO and URAA agreements. U.S. Copyright Office records are available for searching at this web site from 1978 to date. This includes COHM (all materials except serials and documents), COHD (documents) and COHS (serials). For the period 1891 to 1978, check the Catalog of Copyright Entries available at many larger public libraries. The Copyright Office Web site cautions users about the inconclusiveness and exceptions in conducting copyright investigations. Many public libraries are equipped to assist users in searching copyright records and the office will provide searches and other records for a fee set by statute.

The USPTO’s official site provides instructions on how to search for trademarks and patents and apply for patent and trademark rights. Patent grants are searchable in full text since 1976; patent applications are searchable from March 15, 2001. The trademark electronic application system (TEAS) allows online application filing through e-TEAS or PRINTEAS if the form cannot be filed electronically. To discover if a trademark is previously registered electronically, select TESS (U.S. Trademark Electronic Search System) from the home page of the Patent and Trademark Office. TESS contains more than 3 million pending, registered and dead federal trademarks.

Criminal Law

This guide is intended for federal pro se litigants and attorneys involved in federal criminal appeals and prison civil rights actions. It covers post-conviction remedies and prisoner civil rights complaints.

Explains how the system works, including arrests, booking, preliminary hearings, bail, arraignment, plea bargains, and sentencing.

The focus of this comprehensive prisoner’s rights manual is on civil litigation. It does not deal with criminal law-related matters, such as post-conviction remedies and detainers. Includes information on all aspects of prison life as well as material on legal research, legal writing, types of legal remedies and how to effectively use those remedies.

From Oceana’s Law for the Layperson Series. Contents include domestic violence, sexual assault, the Sex Offender Registration and Notification Act (SORNA), stalking, teenage dating violence, battered immigrant women and children, and human trafficking and the sex trade.

Contains a section on how to clean up your criminal record, as well as links to relevant Web sites and forms.

Discusses in detail the laws governing prisoner rights and the policies and practices of the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation. Also includes sample forms and model pleadings. Updated by supplement.

Step-by-step guide to California state habeas corpus process, including court forms and sample court pleadings. Links to 29-page PDF.

Landlord-Tenant Law

This concise legal guide for California landlords tells you how to avoid legal pitfalls by understanding leases and rental agreements. Basic rent rules, rent control, repairing property, and abandoned property are among the chapter topics. Includes tear-out forms and agreements including lease and rental agreements.

This manual for California landlords details the landlord’s role in evictions, including the reasons for eviction. How to file and conduct an uncontested eviction lawsuit (residential tenants only) and how to collect a money judgment are both covered. It is advisable to use this in conjunction with The California Landlord’s Law Book: Rights and Responsibilities.

Also available in Spanish.

This book explains how to maximize deductions, fill out IRS Schedule E, utilize real estate tax credits, maximize depreciation deductions, deduct losses, and keep proper tax records.

Learn how to get the right insurance for your property, understand fair housing rules, and remove environmental hazards.

Comprehensive manual on many of the issues arising in the representation of tenants and applicants under HUD’s major low-income housing programs, including admissions, rents, utilities, maintenance, leases, and evictions and terminations.

Written for the tenant, this book discusses deposit returns, breaking a lease, getting repairs made, using Small Claims Court and dealing with an unscrupulous landlord. Contains sample letters, rental agreements and rent control charts.

Includes information on how to determine whether or not the property will turn a profit, landlord business basics, finding the right tenants, preparing and signing the lease, handling repairs, complying with your state’s rental laws, dealing with problem tenants, and preparing for the sale of the property.

Learn how to inspect a rental property, negotiate a lease, understand rent control, get needed repairs, protect your privacy, break a lease, and prepare for eviction proceedings.

Includes leases and rental agreements, discrimination, rent, security deposits, privacy, roommates, and repairs and maintenance.

Learn how to choose tenants, prepare a lease, collect and return deposits, hire a property manager, keep up with maintenance, limit liability, and deal with problem tenants.

Discusses how to prepare a rental agreement or lease, make required disclosures, comply with state laws, check tenant references and credits, and conduct a final inspection.

Includes information on California landlord-tenant law, a renter’s guide, and links to relevant agency Web sites.

Lawyers

The American Bar Association, Consumers’ Guide to Legal Help
(http://apps.americanbar.org/legalservices/findlegalhelp/home.cfm)
This site guides the user to a list of resources by state. Provides links to lawyer referrals, commercial directories, legal aid for low-income people, self-help and court information. Also includes a Consumers’ Guide to Legal Help: Legal Terms

Attorney Locate (http://www.attorneylocate.com/) Endorsed by the Association of Trial Lawyers of America, this free national attorney referral service available only through the Internet allows a user to search for an attorney by location and practice area.

Bar Associations
Most local county bar associations throughout the United States can assist in locating attorneys. For example, the Los Angeles County Bar Association (http://www.lacba.org/) has a lawyer referral and information service called SmartLaw (http://www.smartlaw.org/) where one can find a lawyer by area of law, location, and by language spoken (or call (213) 243-1525). Go to Hieros
list of associations worldwide. Scroll down to the bottom of the page for links to local and state associations in the U.S. Another resource is FindLaw’s State Bar

FindLaw’s Lawyer Directory (http://lawyers.findlaw.com/) Features profiles of lawyers from across the U.S. May search or browse by legal issue and location. Also note the links to FindLaw’s Guide to Hiring a Lawyer (http://public.findlaw.com/library/hiring-lawyer/) and Introduction to the U.S.

Fox, Lawrence J. & Susan R. Martyn. How to Deal With Your Lawyer: Answers to
From Oceana’s Law for the Layperson Series. Contents include five sections: (1) the client-lawyer relationship; (2) what to expect from your lawyer; (3) what not to expect from your lawyer; (4) other people’s lawyers; and (5) gaining even when you lose.
LawHelpCalifornia.org (http://lawhelpcalifornia.org)
Provides low-income Californians with easy online access to basic legal resources and attorney information. Does not provide direct legal services. Provides referrals by topic or one may browse the Referral Directory (link at the top right, next to the Help button), which lists organizations alphabetically and by counties served. Note that resources are available in 28 other languages, including Cambodian, Punjabi, Russian and Polish.

Martindale-Hubbell’s Lawyer Locator (http://www.martindale.com)
This database of over 1 million lawyer profiles allows users to search for lawyers or law firms—by name, practice area, city, and state. The Advanced Search allows users to limit results by years in practice, languages spoken, law school attended, and major memberships.

Nolo’s Lawyer Directory (http://www.nolo.com/lawyers/)
Each attorney provides the same information for his or her profile. Nolo has confirmed that every listed attorney has a valid license and is in good standing with the applicable bar associations at the time they are listed in the directory. Lawyers are required to notify Nolo within three business days if they become subject to any disciplinary action by a bar association.

Public Counsel (http://www.publiccounsel.org/)
Largest pro bono office in the nation. In California, the organization assists low-income children, youth, adults and families in the areas of child care law, children’s rights, community development, consumer law, homeless assistance and immigration. Public Counsel, in association with Centro Maravilla, offers free legal help on all consumer-related matters. For location, dates and times, see http://www.publiccounsel.org/services.

The State Bar of California, Attorney Search (http://members.calbar.ca.gov/search/member.aspx)
The public can check an attorney’s bar membership record by name or by bar number. Users can search names that “sound like” the search term, which comes in handy if you are not certain of the spelling of a person’s name. Profiles contain contact information, law school attended, date of admission to the bar, as well as whether there is a record of discipline against the attorney.
Legal Research

This succinct guide covers major primary and secondary sources, including Web resources such as Thomas and PACER (Public Access to Electronic Court Records) as well as online databases and library materials. It covers legislative history, administrative law, practice and specialized resources, and research in comparative and international law.

Well-illustrated procedures covering legal research strategy. It includes an overview of the law, an explanation of statutes, case law and Shepard’s citators, and examples relating to specific cases and legal questions. There are also chapters on how to obtain information under the Freedom of Information Act and how to use computer-assisted legal research.

FindLaw’s Introduction to the U.S. Legal System.
FindLaw’s introduction to the U.S. legal system explains the difference between a civil and criminal case, the types of cases heard in federal court and state court, and what to expect if you are involved in a lawsuit.

From Oceana’s Law for the Layperson series.

Law Libraries Web sites
County and University law libraries have developed Web sites with links to primary (statutes, regulations, cases) and secondary (explanatory and analytical) information:

The following are a few examples:
- Orange County Public Law Library (http://www.oc.ca.gov/lawlib)
- San Diego County Public Law Library (http://www.sdcpll.org)
- Cornell Law School’s Legal Information Institute (LII) (http://www.law.cornell.edu)
- Washburn Law School (http://www.washlaw.edu)
Law librarians have developed this Web site for law librarians and others. It contains legal news, court rules, opinions and forms, and links to tested and proven Web sites.

Dan Martin, Law Professor and Library Director at Loyola Law School, continues to edit this excellent explanation of all facets of California research sources: constitutional, statutory, administrative, etc.

Nolo Press (http://www.nolo.com)
Legal how-to publisher’s Web site contains a legal encyclopedia, frequently asked questions, and their product catalog.

The author’s focus is on public libraries that are of small to medium size. There are four basic parts: (1) “Foundation: Legal Information Overview,” (2) “Preparation: Understanding Legal Information Needs,” (3) “Information: Specific Legal Questions” and (4) “Finding State and Local Law”. There are three appendices which include a glossary and bibliography of online legal sources.

Your Public Law Library’s Mini Research Class (http://www.publiclawlibrary.org/research.html)
Provided by the Council of California County Law Librarians, this mini research guide is intended to help users learn the legal research process, with guidance on where to start and what resources to check. The sections are linked so that one may skip to relevant sections.

Public Record Data

Provides a comprehensive overview of how to obtain documents from federal executive branch agencies. Although the focus is on the Freedom of Information Act process, other means of accessing government records are addressed.
BRB Publications, Inc. (http://www.brpub.com/)
A publisher of sourcebooks used for locating public records, this site includes a Free Resource Center.

California Bar Journal (http://www.calbarjournal.com/)
This monthly publication includes a section called “Trials Digest,” that summarizes the important trials in California provided by Trials Digest, a Thomson West business. Archived issues (from 1996) are freely available online. Not a very comprehensive source, but it is free. All other online services are fee-based, including O’Brien’s Evaluator, Verdictum Juris, Tri-Service, and the Los Angeles Daily Journal’s Verdicts and Settlements.

California Secretary of State (http://www.sos.ca.gov/admin/public-records.htm)
Produces a 6-page publication on Guidelines for Access to Public Records the counter services and research facilities accessible to the public at the California State Archives and regional offices. A formal request pursuant to the California Public Records Act is not necessary for inspection and copying of public records that are routinely available at the public counters and the research facility. There are public counters at the regional offices in Los Angeles, San Diego and San Francisco (see Guidelines for location).

Justia: Federal District Court Filings & Dockets (http://dockets.justia.com)
This is a free searchable database of recently filed U.S. federal district court civil cases. It includes over 1 million civil cases filed since Jan. 1, 2004 and is updated multiple times each day. Selected high profile cases dated earlier than 2004 are included. Searchable by party name, jurisdiction, lawsuit type and date. Users may also browse by state, nature of suit, and cases most recently filed.

LA eCourt Online, Superior Court of California County of Los Angeles (https://www.lasuperiorcourt.org/onlineservices/LAECourtOnlineIndex.htm)
Some Superior Courts will allow the public online access (for a fee) to court documents. In this case, the documents only include legal documents filed in general jurisdiction civil cases from the Stanley Mosk Courthouse (111 N. Hill St. Los Angeles), as well as a criminal defendant index.

PACER (http://www.pacer.gov/)
Public Access to Court Electronic Records (PACER) is an electronic public access service that allows registered users to obtain case and docket information from the U.S. Courts of Appeal, District, and Bankruptcy courts, and the U.S. Party/Case Index via the Internet. One must register, which is free, in order to access PACER, which charges $.08 per page. The charge applies to the number of pages that result from any search, including a search that yields no matches (one page for no matches). The charge applies whether or not pages are printed, viewed, or downloaded. There is a cap of $2.40 charged for any single document.

Registrar Records
Your local county is the official source for retaining public records related to fictitious business names, marriage licenses and death certificates and assessor records. For a list of California counties and their Web sites, see the California State Web page (http://www.ca.gov).

This is a print resource that you will find in most large law libraries. It includes an index for each year.

Real Property Law

Learn how to get financing, find inspectors and insurance, negotiate with sellers, and close the deal.

Practical tips on how to sell a home without a broker.

Provides information on mortgages, including adjustable rate mortgages, short sales, deeds in lieu of foreclosure, judicial and non-judicial foreclosure, credit counseling, liens and using bankruptcy to deal with foreclosure.

From Oceana’s Law for the Layperson Series. Covers the mortgage loan process, home equity financing, real estate closing, mortgage loan discrimination, the Truth-in-Lending Act, the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (RESPA), and foreclosure.

Social Security

Contents include an overview of the Medicare program, beneficiary appeals, provider appeals, coverage and payment appeals, and miscellaneous appeals.

U.S. Social Security Administration (http://www.socialsecurity.gov/)

Use the official Web site to estimate your retirement benefits, check the status of your application, and find a local Social Security office. The public also has access to online forms and publications (e.g., How You Earn Credits, Disability Benefits, Benefits for Children with Disabilities, Medicare, and The Appeals Process). See http://www.socialsecurity.gov/pubs/.

Tax Law

Provides “legitimate tactics and insights that will lower your tax bill without running afoul of the IRS.”

California Franchise Tax Board (http://www.ftb.ca.gov/)

Responsible for administering two of California’s major tax programs: Personal Income Tax and the Corporation Tax. The public will find forms, bills & notices, tax return basics and assistance and answers for individuals, and tax resources for businesses.

Learn how to file a late return, work out a payment plan, get a Taxpayer-Assistance Order, stop collection efforts, avoid property seizures, protect assets, and appeal the auditor’s decision.

Includes information on deductible business expenses, bookkeeping, and payroll taxes, as well as a discussion of the different types of corporations, partnerships, and limited liability companies. Also includes how to buy or sell a business and how to deal with the IRS.
CHAPTER 10: BIBLIOGRAPHY OF SELF-HELP RESOURCES

Discusses common deductions, including start-up and operating expenses, health deductions, vehicles, travel, inventory and equipment.

Discusses how to write off start-up and operating expenses, travel, health insurance, inventory and equipment.

Discusses common tax deductions and how to choose the best legal structure for your business. Other topics covered include retirement accounts, continuing education, and professional fees.

Examples of publications available online (in both html and PDF) are “Employer’s Tax Guide,” “Armed Forces’ Tax Guide,” and “Tax Guide for U.S. Citizens and Resident Aliens Abroad.”

Veterans’ Rights & Benefits

From Oceana’s Law for the Layperson Series. Contents cover the Department of Veterans Affairs, disability compensation and pension benefits, health care benefits, veterans’ group life insurance, education and vocational rehabilitation benefits, home financing benefits, dependent and survivor benefits, Board of Veterans appeals, and the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act.

National Veteran Legal Services Program (http://www.nvlsp.org)
The NVLSP is an independent, non-profit, charitable organization that advocates for veterans’ rights. Their Web site offers information for veterans requiring assistance on many matters and provides links to their publications, correspondence courses and affiliations.
Contents include information on compensation claims, claims based on treatment by the VA, claims based on secondary disabilities, and filing your claim.

The DoD announced on Oct. 6, 2008 (see News Release) the development of a comprehensive handbook describing compensation and other benefits service members and their families would be entitled to upon separation or retirement as a result of serious injury or illness. The handbook describes the disability eligibility process, various program qualifications, application procedures, and numerous resources with associated contact information. The electronic version of the handbook will be updated frequently and the hard copy will be updated annually. The electronic version of the handbook can be found on these sites:
- http://www.turbotap.org/register.tpp
- http://www.npc.navy.mil

U.S. Department of Veteran Affairs, Board of Veterans’ Appeals (http://www.va.gov/landing_bva.htm)
The purpose and composition of the Board, a part of the Department of Veterans Affairs, is presented on this Web site. The Web page indicates it is designed primarily to assist citizens and veterans in understanding the appeals process, and to provide copies (in PDF) of the application forms. Decisions of the Board are included from 1994 to the present.

AVAILABILITY, ACCESSIBILITY AND MAINTENANCE OF LEGAL COLLECTIONS

Librarians remain committed to providing the best collections possible for the communities they serve. Library users expect to be able to find the information they need to conduct their personal and business affairs. This expectation includes finding legal information when they need it. In addition, during the last decade, courts have seen an increasing number of self-represented litigants—lay people who are choosing to litigate a variety of legal issues without being represented by an attorney. This group often turns to their local public libraries as a first step in seeking legal information.

When Legal Information in Print is Preferred

As mentioned in Chapter 1: Introduction, legal materials may be divided into three types of sources: primary authority, secondary authority, and indexing/finding tools (e.g., citators and digests), all of which are now available in a variety of formats. As discussed previously, the good news is that much of the primary material (i.e., cases, statutes, and administrative materials) is now available on government Web sites, which is helpful for researchers seeking current legal information. There are also a number of reputable legal Web sites, such as Cornell’s Legal Information Institute, FindLaw, and WashLaw.

With the wealth of legal resources that are available online today, the challenge for the librarian is being able to effectively and efficiently access the information library users need. Even with all the “free” legal information available through the Internet, there is still a significant percentage of the population that is not computer-literate. Additionally for those with limited education or for whom reading English is difficult trying to use and understand legal materials in any format can be very challenging. The reality is that few researchers are able to answer their legal questions by just accessing the primary sources. Most need the in-depth explanations of the law contained in secondary resources, such as legal treatises, periodicals, practice guides and formbooks.

Five Factors to Consider When Building and Maintaining a Legal Reference Collection in a Public Library

The general principles of building and maintaining a library collection are also applicable to legal publications. However, there are a number of factors public librarians may need to take into account when making acquisitions decisions about a legal reference collection for their community. The following is intended to serve as a general guideline for public librarians developing and maintaining legal reference collections.

One: Locate Area Law Libraries

- Know your proximity to a county law library, law school, academic or other public library that may provide legal materials and reference services to the public.¹

- Learn the hours and types of services and resources of the law libraries open to the public in your area and distribute this information to your users. These law librarians are committed to the goal of providing and improving public access to legal information. It is important to note that they are serving the same people being served by public libraries in their communities.

¹ The California Council of County Law Libraries’ Public Law Library Web site is a great place to start. There is a list of county law libraries under Find Your . . . that includes links to those county law libraries that have Web sites. These sites offer an increasing amount of online legal information to the public, including links to fillable forms, courts and other local government agencies, as well as to local legal referral services and clinics. Some county law libraries also offer classes for the public that provide an introduction to legal research and law library resources.
Two: Network with a Law Librarian

- There are three major regional law librarian groups in California:
  Southern California Associations of Law Libraries (SCALL)
  San Diego Area Law Libraries (SANDALL)
  Northern California Association of Law Libraries (NOCALL)

- Public librarians should contact their local American Association of Law Libraries (AALL) chapter, as the members are often willing to provide assistance by evaluating public library legal reference collections. The chapters also occasionally offer legal information programs and workshops for both professionals and the public we all serve. (For public librarians in states other than California, go to the Chapters page on the AALL Web site.)

Three: Identify the Information Needs of Your Users

- This may seem obvious, but it is important to keep a record of the number of legal reference questions and use of the legal reference collection.

- Can you identify separate user groups of the collection, such as small business owners, government employees, students, or self-represented litigants? Is there a high proportion of a particular user group whose population might have many do-it-yourself individuals?

- Many public libraries provide some Nolo Press self-help law books for their users; however, these sources may not provide the depth of legal information some researchers need. For example, in a community where there are many small business owners, the public library may need to build its legal reference collection as part of its mission to serve this section of the community. These library users may need information on a variety of legal issues, such as federal and state employment law, consumer issues, insurance and related liability information, and debt collection law.

Four: Consider Costs of Legal Materials, Including Updating

- Once the decision is made to build and maintain a legal reference collection, there are several factors that must be considered in budgeting for legal materials. It is imperative to keep law materials up-to-date, and the upkeep expense can be considerable, as legal materials in all formats continue to increase in price. Never assume that an order for a legal title includes its supplementation. Publishers will not automatically send supplementation unless a standing order is established. This can be done when placing the order by including on the order form a phrase such as “including standing order for supplementation until forbidden” or similar wording.

- Almost all law publishers offer the option of automatic standing order plans for individual titles. On a title by title basis, verify with the publisher that a standing order exists for items you already have in the collection. A few legal publishers will notify customers of new supplementary materials and request instructions without automatically sending the materials. If a library’s budget process does not permit standing orders, an “update expected” note should be placed in the check-in record for each legal title as a reminder to the acquisitions staff to check for and order updates.

Five: Consider Level of Staff Commitment Necessary to Keep Legal Materials Current

- Updating print law materials is labor intensive and will require staff time to be done correctly.

- It is imperative that the library staff receives adequate training, or updates may be incorrectly filed or discarded. Part of this training includes understanding the necessity of keeping all shipping material such as filing instructions together with the book through its processing until it is finally shelved, so that superseded volumes are pulled according to the instructions.

Legal Information Vendors

In recent years, smaller legal publishers have been absorbed by the two main legal publishing conglomerates: Reed Elsevier PLC, owner of LexisNexis, and Thomson West. One problem that has resulted from this change is that responsibility for publishing a specific legal title may have been shifted from the original publisher to another publisher within the larger conglomerate. While many of the formerly independent legal publishers continue to exist as divisions and publish under their traditional names, determining the current publisher of a law book can often be challenging. Please see Chapter 12: Major Legal Publishers for a complete list.

The upside of this consolidation of smaller publishers is that legal information vendors have become more aware of the potential for enlarging their customer base beyond the traditional law school, court, and law firm libraries. They have become increasingly willing to market their materials not only to public law libraries, but also to university libraries that do not support a law school, and even to public libraries. Some legal vendors have even begun to offer consortium pricing for some of their products. Several examples of this trend, of which county law libraries have been able to take advantage for their users, are discussed in the section on “Accessing Online Legal Information” below.

Maintaining a Traditional Print Legal Collection

A unique characteristic of law book publishing is the need for constant revision. New laws and amendments to existing laws are passed almost daily when Congress or the state legislature is in session. New court decisions interpreting the law are issued daily. It is very important that law books in the collection are current. It is better to send a user to another library, rather than to offer an out-of-date publication, because offering out-dated law could be detrimental to the user.

To keep their books up-to-date, legal publishers issue supplements in one or more formats:

- Separate Hard-Bound Volumes
  These separate volumes may be added to sets such as case reporters that are published in chronological order, as an additional volume supplementing the information in the earlier volume, or a replacement volume that incorporates current information from the same earlier volume into a new revised volume. The instructions accompanying the new volume should explain whether or not the earlier volume is out-of-date and should be discarded.

- Pocket Parts
  Pocket parts may be issued annually or on some other regular schedule. They are used to supplement both single volume texts and multi-volume sets. Occasionally, a volume in a set will have no revisions, so a pocket part will not be issued for that volume. This is most likely to occur if the main volume is new, if the volume is scheduled to be revised fairly soon, or if there is a separate supplementary pamphlet as described below. In these instances, the publishers will often provide a card to be slipped into the main volume, which will read: This volume has no pocket part. Care should be taken that the cards are filed with the proper volumes in order to inform researchers that they have the most recent volume or to direct them to a separate supplement to update the information in the main volume.

- Paper-Bound Pamphlets
  These are usually issued annually or on a similarly regular schedule, and are designed to stand on the shelf next to the main hardbound volume. The pamphlet for the prior year is usually, although not always, discarded when the new pamphlet arrives. Be sure to read the directions carefully. Occasionally, when the pocket part grows too big to be placed in the back of the main volume, the next supplement will become a pamphlet. Again, in this instance, the publishers will often provide a card to be slipped into the main volume, which will read: This volume contains no pocket part. Refer to the separate softbound supplement to this volume for the latest updating material.

One traditional example of paperbound pamphlets is the advance sheets to the case reporters, which are produced as the appellate courts issue their written opinions. Prior to computer access and the availability of court opinions online, legal publishers created the advance sheet as a means of publishing new case law in a timely manner. Rather than waiting until there were enough opinions to fill a hardbound reporter volume, the publisher compiled these decisions as they were issued by the courts, and printed them out in the paperbound advance sheets. After several advance sheets were published, the publisher would then combine all the cases published in the separate pamphlets and produce the hardbound case reporter volume. After the library processed the reporter, the advance sheets containing the same cases would then be pulled from the shelf and discarded. The legislative pamphlets to West’s and Deering’s Annotated Codes are another example of this type of advance pamphlet.

- Loose-Leaf Pages
  Loose-leaf supplementation for legal materials is usually the most current and the most labor intensive of the print materials, since packets of supplementary pages may be issued as frequently as weekly. Packets are usually numbered and dated. Each packet should be checked in separately to insure that all supplements are received and filed in order. Proper training of staff who will be responsible for filing the loose-leaf pages is essential.

  Printed instructions accompany the packet and must be followed carefully. If a packet is missing or was never received, contact the publisher for a replacement. Never file a packet if an earlier packet has not been filed.
Usually filing involves replacing obsolete pages with new pages; however, old pages are not always replaced with new pages. Some publishers send transfer binders to hold older, but still relevant materials. The instructions should alert you to shifts of pages from one volume to another.

After filing a packet, date and place the filing instructions in the volume with previous instructions. If a contents checklist is included with the packet, the volume may be checked against this. Place the most recent checklist in the front of the book. These information sheets may help resolve future questions about the volume’s contents.

Other Considerations for Print Legal Collections

Once supplemental materials are received, updating must be completed in a timely fashion. Superseded materials must be promptly discarded. Supplements almost always include filing instructions. If supplements or loose-leaf pages are missing, claim them from the publisher’s customer representative immediately. For questions concerning how to file pages, local law libraries can be very helpful. There are also several private loose-leaf filing companies that provide trained employees to do this work at an hourly rate.

It is recommended that public libraries do not attempt to keep outdated legal materials for historical purposes; that is within the province of major law libraries. A public library should focus its attention on keeping its legal materials current, if it determines that maintaining a legal reference collection is within its mission.

New editions of titles in the legal reference collection should be acquired promptly. If a decision is made not to purchase a new edition or not to update a specific legal title, remove the old edition from the shelves. Out of date legal material is worse than no material at all in law publications. If your library is slow at receiving superseding materials, it is important that you alert users about out-dated legal material by affixing a notice in a prominent place (such as the title page and the spine) to indicate that it is not current.

Weeding

For the reasons mentioned above, weeding is more vital in legal collections than in most other subjects. Last year’s law may well be bad law. Legal information is sometimes out-of-date as quickly as it is printed. A schedule should be established for reviewing the legal collection on a regular basis, and for discarding or replacing outdated materials. If a particular legal title has not been supplemented in some form for several years, a local law librarian can suggest how soon the particular title should be discarded.

West’s Annotated California Code & Deering’s California Codes Annotated

Many public libraries subscribe to one or both of these California annotated code sets, and they present a special maintenance problem, as they are supplemented in a couple different ways. These sets are updated with annual pocket parts, as well as with advance legislative service pamphlets, which allow the researcher to identify changes in the law. In other words, the advance legislative pamphlets update the annual pocket parts and supplements to the code print volumes. These advance legislative service pamphlets should be retained for only the current year’s legislative session, until the annual pocket parts are received covering that legislative year, usually during the following January.

The pamphlets for the prior year can be discarded, along with the out-dated pocket parts, when the new pocket parts arrive. Both West’s and Deering’s list the coverage of the pocket part on the cover for example: 2008 Cumulative Pocket Part replacing 2007
Pocket Part supplementing the 1982 main volume. Pocket Part will be supplemented by Interim Annotation Service Pamphlets in 2008. Compare the coverage note on the pocket part with the coverage of the advance legislative session pamphlets and discard all pamphlets that have been incorporated into the pocket part.

Accessing Online Legal Information

The two largest commercial legal information vendors, LexisNexis and Thomson West (Westlaw), now offer “public access” subscription packages to county law libraries in California. These contracts offer online access to a specific list of databases, most of which are state and federal primary materials, with additional access to some related secondary sources and citators. In 2006, California Continuing Education of the Bar (CEB), one of the foremost publishers of California legal practice materials began offering OnLaw, its database of practice materials and forms, to county law libraries at consortium prices. These three legal vendors, along with a number of others, are increasingly willing to negotiate subscriptions with libraries that permit researchers to access the databases through their public access computers.

There is a key difference, however, between legal vendors and other vendors who market their databases to the library community. The legal vendors continue to be reluctant to allow remote access for users of libraries who serve the public. Use of their databases tends to be restricted to in-library use only. These subscriptions are still costly and can consume a significant portion of an acquisitions budget. Public librarians will need to do a cost-benefit analysis before subscribing to any of these legal databases, in order to determine whether they have staff with sufficient training in legal terminology and legal research methodology to provide assistance to users of commercial electronic legal information. However, many county law libraries now offer access to these databases for in-house users. Become familiar with the resources available at your closest county law library.

Additional Information to Assist Public Libraries

The American Association of Law Libraries’ Committee on Relations with Information Vendors (CRIV) provides a terrific resource that can assist public librarians with acquisitions information for legal materials. CRIV’s Tools includes a checklist, sample letters, and vendor contact information. One may also Request Assistance with working with a vendor by contacting the CRIV chair directly.

IndexMaster is another online resource to which some law libraries subscribe and which can be used as an acquisitions tool. IndexMaster has contracted with many legal publishers to provide online access to the table of contents and indexes of many of their secondary publications and created a searchable database of this information. It has the added benefit of being relatively inexpensive compared to other acquisitions tools.

Additional Information:
AALL’s Committee on Relations with Information Vendors (CRIV):
The legal publishing landscape has changed dramatically in the past decade. As mentioned in Chapter 11, many of the smaller, independent publishers of legal information have been subsumed by larger publishing conglomerates. To date, the top major legal publishers are Reed Elsevier (LexisNexis, Matthew Bender, and Martindale Hubbell), Thomson Reuters (West, RIA, and Sweet & Maxwell) and Wolters Kluwer (CCH, Aspen, and Loislaw). These three publishers currently dominate the legal information market.¹

This chapter contains the contact information for major publishers of legal information. Included are publishers of primary legal materials (statutes, cases, and regulations) and secondary sources (treatises, practice guides, encyclopedias, directories, periodicals and citators). Most of the publishers listed here offer materials that are national in scope, although a few are California-specific.

ALI-ABA (American Law Institute - American Bar Association)
4025 Chestnut Street
Philadelphia, PA 19104
(800) 253-6397
http://www.ali-aba.org/

ALI-ABA is a major publisher of legal materials on specific practitioner-oriented subjects. Included among its major publications are the Restatements of the Law. The Restatements are a scholarly work, used mostly by judges and for instruction in law schools. ALI-ABA is also a major publisher of continuing legal education (CLE) materials for attorneys.

American Bar Association
321 North Clark Street
Chicago, IL 60654-7598
(312) 988-5000; (800) 285-2221
http://www.americanbar.org/aba.html

The American Bar Association is the largest bar association in the United States. In addition to publishing the ABA Journal, a news magazine for attorneys, it also publishes studies and statistics on the legal profession, research articles, and scholarly publications. The target audience for most ABA publications is the practicing bar and legal scholars.

Bureau of National Affairs (BNA)
1231 25th St. NW
Washington, DC 20037
(800) 372-1033
http://www.bna.com/

BNA produces many current awareness loose-leaves, such as U.S. Law Week, (which contains the full text of current U.S. Supreme Court opinions as well as updated reports on current state and federal case law), and in-depth, subject-specific treatises such as the Environmental Reporter and the Labor Law Reports. Many of these treatises also contain weekly current awareness reports. The target audience is practicing attorneys who specialize in a particular area of law as these publications are both detailed and comprehensive. Many of BNA’s publications are also offered in electronic format through their website.

---

California Continuing Education of the Bar (CEB)
300 Frank H. Ogawa Plaza, Ste. 410
Oakland, CA 94612-2047
(800) 232-3444; 510-302-2000 (outside CA)
http://ceb.com

CEB publishes treatises and practice guides on specific areas of California law. Online access to these publications is offered through a database entitled OnLAW. CEB publications are relied on by California attorneys for their step-by-step guidance and detailed analysis.

---

Commerce Clearing House (CCH)
4025 W. Peterson Avenue
Chicago, IL 60646
(800) 835-5224; (312) 866-6000

CCH, a division of Wolters Kluwer, publishes loose-leaf sets in topical areas such as tax, labor, securities, etc. CCH loose-leaf sets have both in-depth coverage of a topic and a current awareness volume, which usually includes new case and statutory developments that are updated weekly. Like the BNA materials, CCH sets will be used mostly by practicing attorneys who specialize in a particular area of law. Many of CCH’s legal and tax publications are now offered in electronic format through CCH’s online database Intelliconnect.
Daily Journal Corporation
915 E. First Street
Los Angeles, CA 90012
(213) 229-5300
http://www.dailyjournal.com

Its major publication is the legal newspaper the Daily Journal, with local editions for Los Angeles and San Francisco. Each issue includes a biographical profile of a judge or prominent California attorney, legal news affecting California, and current opinions from the California Supreme Court, the Courts of Appeal, the U.S. Supreme Court, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, and the Federal District Courts in California. The Daily Journal Corporation also publishes the California Lawyer magazine.

LexisNexis
1275 Broadway
Albany, NY 12204-2694
(800) 223-1940

LexisNexis’ major publications include the Deering’s California Codes Annotated and many specialty treatises, practice sets, casebooks and formbooks. Lexis also publishes Shepard’s Citations, the citation system relied on by attorneys to verify their research.

Martindale Hubbell
121 Chanlon Road
New Providence, NJ 07974
(800) 526-4902
http://www.martindale.com/Products_and_Services/index.aspx

Publishes the Martindale-Hubbell Law Directory, a multi-volume directory of attorneys available in print, on CD-ROM, and on the Web. This publication is a staple in academic, court, and firm libraries. Martindale-Hubbell is now a division of Lexis Publishing.
Matthew Bender
P.O. Box 22030
Albany, NY 12201-2030
(212) 967-7707; (800) 833-9844 http://www.bender.com/bender/open/

Matthew Bender, now part of LexisNexis, publishes major scholarly treatises and practitioner aids for attorneys. Examples include California Pretrial Civil Procedure and Discovery, California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Annotated and California Probate Practice. Most of the Matthew Bender treatises are available on CD-ROM, on the Web, and on Lexis.com.

Nolo Press
950 Parker Street
Berkeley, CA 94710
(800) 992-6656
http://www.nolo.com/

Nolo is one of the leading publishers of legal “self-help” books, many of which can be found in general bookstores. These books explain in layman’s terms the basics of several common legal procedures, such as writing a will, fighting a traffic ticket, and solving neighbor or landlord-tenant disputes. Some books come with sample forms suitable for copying. The target audience is the lay person. Many Nolo books are also available as e-books through EBSCO’s Legal Information Reference Center database. See Chapter 10: Bibliography of Self-Help Resources for a detailed list of self-help books.

The Rutter Group
15760 Ventura Blvd., Suite 630
Encino, CA 91436
(800) 747-3161
http://www.ruttergroup.com/

The Rutter Group is a division of West Publishing. The Rutter Group publishes practice guides in loose-leaf format. These guides are used almost exclusively by practicing attorneys as they are well-indexed and provide many references to primary sources. Most Rutter Group publications are available on Westlaw.com.
U.S. Government Printing Office (GPO)
732 North Capitol Street, NW
Washington, DC 20401-0001
(202) 512-1800
http://www.gpo.gov/

The GPO is the official publisher for the US Government. The GPO publishes statutes, congressional documents and agency rules and regulations. Items published by the GPO are usually inexpensive but the publishing schedule may not be very timely. Federal depository libraries get items from the GPO free of charge in exchange for making them available to the public.

West
610 Opperman Drive
Eagan, MN 55123
1-800-344-5008
http://store.westlaw.com/default.aspx

West is the largest publisher of statutory and case law in the United States. In addition to state case reporters, it publishes state codes (for example, West’s Annotated California Code), federal statutes, treatises, hornbooks, casebooks and digests. West also publishes California’s only legal encyclopedia, Cal Jur, as well as numerous California formbooks, loose-leafs and practice guides.

GLOSSARY OF LEGAL TERMS¹

Jump to terms beginning with the letter: A B C D E F G H I J K L M N O P Q R S T U V W XYZ

Action: A judicial proceeding for the enforcement or protection of a right. Often used as another term for a lawsuit.

Advance sheet: A pamphlet containing the full-text of recent court opinions. Advance sheets are printed before a bound volume appears.

Administrative law: The branch of law dealing with the regulations and administrative decisions of government agencies.

Amicus curiae: Literally, “friend of the court.” An amicus curiae brief is an appellate brief prepared and submitted by a non-party with the court’s permission.

Annotation: Editorial commentary, critical notes and references to relevant legal sources (such as cases) often found following the text of the code sections in sets such as Deering’s California Codes Annotated and West’s United States Code Annotated.

Answer: The formal written statement by a defendant in a civil case that responds to a complaint, articulating the grounds for defense.

Appeal: A request made after trial (or adjudication) by a party that has lost on one or more issues to a higher court for review of the decision of a lower or inferior court or administrative agency. The one who appeals is called the “appellant,” while the other party is the “appellee.”

Bench trial: A trial in which there is no jury and the judge decides the case.

Bill: A proposed law submitted to a state or federal legislature. If a bill passes, it becomes a statute.

Breach: A violation of or failure in the performance of an obligation created by a promise, duty or law without excuse or justification.

Brief: A party’s written argument which cites legal authorities and is designed to persuade the court. Examples include appellate briefs and trial briefs.

¹ For definitions of terms not included in this Glossary, see Plain-English Law Dictionary (from Nolo Press), Law.com Dictionary, Lawyers.com Legal Dictionary, and U.S. Court’s Glossary.
Case law: The law established by previous decisions of appellate courts. A synonym for legal precedent.

Cause of action: The fact or facts that give a person a right to relief in court.

Certified copy: A copy of a document issued by a court or government agency guaranteed to be a true and exact copy of the original.

Charter: The fundamental law of a municipality or other local unit of government; analogous to a constitution.

Citation or Cite: The written reference to legal authorities such as statutes, reported cases, regulations, and law review articles. Legal citation manuals include The Bluebook: A Uniform System of Citation and the California Style Manual.

Citator: Traditionally, a set of books that provides the subsequent history of reported cases using abbreviations and arranged in a tabular form. The most well known citator is Shepard’s Citations. Today, most citators are online services, whereby users simply enter the citation of the case (or regulation, statute, or law review) in order to view the newer documents that cite the original document.

Civil procedure: The rules and processes by which a civil case is tried and appealed, including the preparations for trial, the rules of evidence and trial conduct, and the procedure for pursuing appeals.

Clerk of court: The court officer who oversees administrative functions, especially managing the flow of cases through the court.

Code: The statutory laws of a state or nation, generally arranged by subject.

Common law: Originating from England, common law relies on the articulation of legal principles in a historical succession of judicial decisions. Common law principles can be changed by legislation. Also called “case law.”

Complaint: A written statement that, when filed with a court, begins a civil lawsuit, in which the plaintiff details the claims against the defendant.

Conservator/Conservatorship: The legal right given to a person to manage the property and financial affairs of a person deemed incapable of doing so for him or herself. See also guardianship.

Constitution: The fundamental law of a state or a nation; creates the branches of government and identifies basic rights and obligations.

Contract: An agreement between two or more people, which creates an obligation to do or not to do a particular thing. A legally enforceable agreement between two or more competent parties made either orally or in writing.

Court rules: Regulations governing practice and procedure in the various courts.

Decision: A judgment, decree, or order pronounced by a court in settlement of a controversy submitted to it.

Defendant: In a civil case, the person or organization against whom the plaintiff brings suit; in a criminal case, the person accused of the crime.
Digest: A compilation of paragraphs summarizing court opinions, organized by subject matter and jurisdiction.

Discovery: Procedures used to obtain disclosure of evidence before trial. Depositions are oral statements by a party or witness under oath in response to questions. Interrogatories are written answers by a party or witness.

Docket: A log containing the complete history of each case in the form of brief chronological entries summarizing the court proceedings.

Docket number: A unique number assigned to a case when it is filed with the court.

Due process: In criminal law, the constitutional guarantee that a defendant will receive a fair and impartial trial. In civil law, the procedural rights of someone who confronts an adverse action threatening liberty or property.

Enabling statute: A statute that confers (as to an administrative agency) the power or authority to engage in conduct not otherwise allowed.

En banc: French, meaning "on the bench." Indicates that all judges of an appellate court sit together to hear a case, as opposed to the routine disposition by panels of three judges. In the Ninth Circuit, an en banc panel consists of 11 randomly selected judges.

Encyclopedia (legal): A complete compendium of the law indexed by subject and supplemented annually. American Jurisprudence 2nd and Corpus Juris Secundum include case law from all the states. California Jurisprudence 3rd includes case and statutory law from California.

Estate planning: The arranging for the disposition and management of one’s estate at death through the use of wills, trusts, insurance policies, and other devices.

Et al.: Latin, meaning “and others.”

Et seq.: Latin, meaning “and the following.” Often seen following code citations (e.g. Vehicle Code ’ ’ 22100 et seq.)

Family law: An area of law dealing with family relations, including divorce, adoption, paternity, custody and support.

Federalism: A political system in which power is divided and shared between the national/central government and the states/regional units, in order to limit the power of government.

FOIA: Freedom of Information Act

Fundamental right: A right that is considered by a court (as the U.S. Supreme Court) to be explicitly or implicitly expressed in a constitution (as the U.S. Constitution).

Gravamen: The essential element of a lawsuit.

Guardian ad litem: A guardian appointed by a court to represent the interests of a minor, a person not yet born, or a person judged incompetent in a particular legal action.
Guardianship: A legal arrangement under which one person (a guardian) has the legal right and duty to care for another (the ward) and his or her property. A guardianship is established because the ward is unable to legally act in his or her own behalf.

Headnote: A paragraph printed preceding the text of an opinion, which summarizes an important legal issue of a case and which is often assigned a topic and number by editors.

Hearing: A proceeding of relative formality at which evidence and arguments may be presented on the matter at issue to be decided by a person or body having decision-making authority. The purpose of a hearing is to provide the opportunity for each side of a dispute, and especially a person who may be deprived of his or her rights, to present its position. A hearing, along with notice, is a fundamental part of procedural due process. Hearings are also held, as for example by a legislature or an administrative agency, for the purpose of gathering information and hearing the testimony of witnesses.

Hornbook: Basic legal textbook, usually written by an authority in a field of law. An example is Prosser & Keaton on the Law of Torts.

J.D.: Juris Doctor or doctor of jurisprudence, the degree commonly conferred by law schools.

Judgment: The official decision of a court resolving the dispute between the parties to the lawsuit.

Jurisdiction: The power of a court over the subject matter or over the property to decide a matter in controversy. Also, the geographic area over which a particular court has authority.

Jurisprudence: The study of law and the structure of the legal system.

Law review: A legal journal published and edited by law school students to which legal scholars and students contribute articles.

Lawsuit: A legal action started by a plaintiff against a defendant based on a complaint that the defendant failed to perform a legal duty, which resulted in harm to the plaintiff.

Legal aid: Assistance provided by an organization established to serve the legal needs of low income individuals.

Legislation: The making or giving of laws, especially the exercise of power and function of making rules that have the force of authority by virtue of their promulgation by a legislature.

Legislative history: The background documents generated during the passage of a bill through the legislative process. Examples are committee hearings and reports.

Legislative intent: The ends sought to be achieved by a legislature in an enactment. Courts often look to legislative intent for guidance in interpreting and applying a statute. The legislative history, the language of a law, and the wrong to be corrected may provide indications of legislative intent.

LexisNexis (or Lexis): A subscription online legal research service, owned by Reed Elsevier.

Lien: A charge or encumbrance upon property for the satisfaction of a debt or other duty that is created by agreement of the parties or by operation of law.

Litigation: A case, controversy, or lawsuit. Participants (plaintiffs and defendants) in lawsuits are called litigants.

Loose-leaf: A publishing format in which legal materials are kept up-to-date by interfiling new pages periodically (inserting new pages and discarding old ones).

Malpractice: Negligence, misconduct, lack of ordinary skill or a breach of duty in the performance of a professional service (as in law or medicine) resulting in injury or loss.

Mechanic’s lien: A lien against a building and its site to assure priority of payment for labor or services (such as construction or design) or material.

Memorandum opinion: A brief opinion of a court that announces the result of a case without extensive discussion. Memorandum opinions are usually unpublished and cannot be cited as precedent.

Opinion: The judge’s written statement explaining how and why a decision was reached in a case. Because a case may be heard by three or more judges in the courts of appeals, the opinion in appellate decisions can take several forms. If all the judges completely agree on the result, one judge will write the opinion for all. If all the judges do not agree, the formal decision will be based upon the view of the majority, and one member of the majority will write the opinion. The judges who did not agree with the majority may write separately in dissenting or concurring opinions to present their views. A dissenting opinion disagrees with the majority opinion because of the reasoning and/or the principles of law the majority used to decide the case. A concurring opinion agrees with the decision of the majority opinion, but offers further comment or clarification or even an entirely different reason for reaching the same result. Only the majority opinion can serve as binding precedent in future cases.

Order: A mandate from a superior authority (e.g. executive orders); a ruling or command made by a competent administrative authority, especially one resulting from administrative adjudication and subject to judicial review and enforcement; or an authoritative command issued by the court (e.g. court order).

Ordinance: Law passed by the local legislative branch of government (city council, county commission); analogous to a state or federal statute.
APPENDIX A: GLOSSARY OF LEGAL TERMS

Parallel citation: A citation indicating other sources for the same judicial opinion or statute. (See Chapter 2: How to Read a Legal Citation for further explanation and examples)

Per curiam: Latin, meaning “for the court.” In appellate courts, often refers to an unsigned opinion.

Plaintiff: A person or business that files a formal complaint with the court.

Pleadings: Written documents filed with the court, which describe a party’s legal or factual assertions about the case.

Pocket part: A paper supplement inserted into a bound volume to update the information found in the main volume. Pocket parts are a common way to update sets of codes.

Power of attorney: An instrument containing an authorization for one to act as the agent of the principal and which terminates upon revocation by the principal or death of the principal or agent.

Precedent: A court decision in an earlier case with facts and legal issues similar to a dispute currently before a court. Judges will generally "follow precedent" - meaning that they use the principles established in earlier cases to decide new cases that have similar facts and raise similar legal issues. A judge will disregard precedent if a party can show that the earlier case was wrongly decided, or that it differed in some significant way from the current case.

Primary authority: Rules of law promulgated by the three branches of government as well as the texts of constitutions:
  • Constitution-Organic laws of our nation and of our states
  • Legislative-Statutes
  • Executive/Administrative-Regulations, Executive Orders
  • Judicial-Case opinions

Private law: A branch of law concerned with private persons, property, and relationships (compare with “public law”).

Procedure: The rules for conducting a lawsuit. There are rules of civil procedure, criminal procedure, evidence, bankruptcy, and appellate procedure.

Pro se: Representing oneself; serving as one’s own lawyer.

Public law: An enactment of a legislature that affects the public at large throughout the entire territory (as in a state or nation) which is subject to the jurisdiction of the legislature or within a particular subdivision of its jurisdiction; the area of law that deals with the relations of individuals with the state and regulates the organization and conduct of the government (compare with “private law”).
Re or In re: “With regard to” or “in the matter of.” Often used in the title or name of a case where the proceedings involve a probate or bankruptcy estate, or a guardianship.

Real property: Land, buildings, crops and other resources attached to or within the land or improvements or fixtures permanently attached to the land or a structure on it.

Record: A written account of the proceedings in a case, including all pleadings, evidence, and exhibits submitted in the course of the case.

Regulation: A rule issued by an administrative agency under authority granted to the agency by the legislature.

Reply: A plaintiff’s or complainant’s response to a plea, allegation, or counterclaim in the defendant’s answer.

Reporter/Reports: Compilations of judicial opinions arranged chronologically.

Restatement: Multivolume publications by the American Law Institute and authored by legal scholars and experts that set forth statements of major areas of law (such as contracts, torts, trusts, and property) and are widely referred to in jurisprudence but are not binding on courts.

Ruling: An official or authoritative determination, decree, or interpretation (as by a judge on a question of law).

Secondary authority: Sources which explain or describe the law; examples include treatises, legal encyclopedias, hornbooks, and law review articles.

Shepardize: To use a Shepard’s citator to trace the history of a case or statute in order to verify its validity or find later legal authorities.

Slip law: The earliest separate publication of a new statute, made prior to its inclusion in the general laws.

Slip opinion: The earliest printed copy of a single judicial opinion. Slip opinions are compiled into advance sheets. Advance sheets are then compiled into bound volumes.

Source of law: The authority such as a constitution, treaty, or statute that provides the legal basis for judicial decisions and for legislation.

Statute: A law or act passed by a legislature.

Stare decisis: The doctrine of precedent, under which it is necessary for courts to follow earlier judicial decisions when the same points arise again in litigation.

Substantive law: Law that creates or defines rights, duties, obligations and causes of action that can be enforced by law.

Supersede: To subject to postponement or suspension; to take the place of in authority; to take the place of and render null or ineffective.

Supplement: An update usually issued annually, either paper or hardbound. May be inserted into a bound volume as a pocket part or may be shelved next to the main volume.

Testate: Having made a valid will; disposed of or governed by a will.
APPENDIX A: GLOSSARY OF LEGAL TERMS

Tort: A wrongful act or violation of a duty (other than a breach of contract) that injures another and for which the law imposes civil liability.

Treatise: A type of secondary legal material which analyzes a particular aspect of law, often providing information intended to assist attorneys in their practice.

Treaty: An international agreement between two or more countries.

Triable: Subject to judicial or quasi-judicial examination or trial.

Westlaw: Subscription online legal research service, owned by Thomson Reuters.

WestlawNext: Launched in early 2010 by West, WestlawNext is a legal research service that allows users to conduct a federated search across multiple content types, without having to select a database first. Appendix C

CALIFORNIA’S COUNTY LAW LIBRARIES

California’s county law libraries were organized in 1891 to serve all county residents, the judiciary, state and county officials, and members of the state bar (1891 Cal. Stat. 430). The operation and governance of county law libraries was later codified in California Business and Professions Code §§ 6300 et seq.1 Each library is governed by a board of trustees, which is comprised of one to five superior court judges (depending upon the size of the county) and two attorneys appointed annually by a county’s board of supervisors.

Collections:

A typical county law library collection will include current and historic California primary (statutes, cases and regulations) and secondary (treatises, practice guides and form books) resources in print, microfiche and/or digital formats. The collections of larger county law libraries (those located in or adjacent to larger municipalities) will also include primary and secondary resources from other states and foreign countries as well as special collections of California appellate briefs, self help legal materials, legislative history documents, historic voter pamphlets and archival county/municipal codes. Several county law libraries have also been designated as official depositories of state and federal government publications which guarantees the availability of selective government publications at the library (in print or a digital equivalent) for a minimum of five years.

Services:

Reference and research assistance (but not advice) is available in person, by phone and through live chat/remote access. At the library, a user will find free access to the Internet, free access to the legal databases (Westlaw, LexisNexis, Loislaw, Fastcase) subscribed to by the Library, and software that will allow them to create legal pleadings or calculate family support (Word, Dissomaster, XSpouse). Many libraries offer MCLE classes for attorneys as well as classes on how to find legal information in print or online for paralegals and pro se litigants. Almost all the libraries have wi-fi, offer fee based document delivery and interlibrary loans service with other libraries. This appendix contains a list of California’s county law libraries and a summary of the services offered by each library. The information is based upon a mixture of contact with the libraries (when possible), the annual survey of county law libraries done by the Council of California law librarians, the law library’s Web site, and a library’s listing in Your Public Law Library.

The list is divided into two parts: Southern California and Northern California. The counties of Southern California traditionally include the ten counties located south of the 35° 47’ 28” north latitude, which form the southern boundaries of Monterey, Kings, Tulare, and Inyo counties. Northern California includes the remaining forty-eight counties of the state. This section of the appendix is further divided into three parts that coincide with the following regions: (1) the Central Coast, Northern Coast, and the San Francisco Bay Area; (2) the Shasta Cascade; and (3) the combined areas of the Central Valley, Gold Country and High Sierra. To locate the county your city resides within, the Web site of the League of California Cities provides an alphabetized list of California’s 481 cities, which also includes the county and population data of each city.

If you have not already done so, please consider visiting your county’s law library to see what it can do for you. The mission of county law libraries remains the same: to provide free access to legal materials.

Selected Internet Resources

The ABA’s Section of Legal Education & Admissions to the Bar
- Web site: http://www.americanbar.org/groups/legal_education.html
- There are links to ABA-Approved Law Schools, Accreditation, and Bar Admissions.

\(^2\) The University of La Verne College of Law’s provisional ABA approval expired in July 2011. The school applied for and regained California Bar accreditation in August 2011.
• One may search for law schools alphabetically, by private school, by public school, and by geographic region on the ABA-Approved Law Schools page, http://www.americanbar.org/groups/legal_education/resources/aba_approved_law_schools.html

The Association of American Law Schools (AALS)
• Web site: http://www.aals.org/index.php
• AALS is a nonprofit association of 171 law schools. Its purpose is “the improvement of the legal profession through legal education.”
• Publishes the Directory of Law Teachers, which lists, by school, the full-time faculty and professional staff of all member and fee-paid law schools. This annual publication contains biographical sketches of over 10,000 full-time teachers and lists full-time teachers by subjects taught.

The Law School Admission Council (LSAC)
• Web site: http://www.lsac.org/
• The LSAC is a nonprofit corporation “whose goal is to provide the highest quality admission-related services for legal education institutions and their applicants throughout the world.” Those services include the Law School Admissions Test (LSAT), research and statistical reports, videos, and LSAT preparation tools.
• The most recent edition of the Official Guide to ABA-Approved Law Schools is posted online at https://officialguide.lsac.org/release/OfficialGuide_Default.aspx. One may search in a variety of ways: keyword, geography, or by alphabet.
• The Research page (under LSAC Resources) includes a wealth of information, such as statistical reports, data on matriculants by ethnicity, and information on grants.

The State Bar of California
• http://www.calbar.ca.gov/
• There are several useful pages for prospective law students on the California Bar’s website. Click on the “Bar Exam” link on the right-side of the screen. The main screen includes information on the California Bar Exam. On the left, there are links to “Pre Legal and Legal Education,” “Law Schools,” “Other Attorney Admission/Law Student Programs,” and “Law Student Resources.”
