Charles Kesler is the Dengler-Dykema Distinguished Professor of Government at Claremont McKenna College, a Senior Fellow of the Claremont Institute, and Editor of the Claremont Review of Books.

He has written extensively on American constitutionalism and political thought, and his edition of The Federalist Papers is the best-selling edition in the country. He is also the author of I Am the Change: Barack Obama and the Crisis of Liberalism; the editor of Saving the Revolution: The Federalist Papers and the American Founding; and co-editor, with William F. Buckley, Jr., of Keeping the Tablets: Modern American Conservative Thought.

From 1989 to 2008, Dr. Kesler was director of the Henry Salvatori Center for the Study of Individual Freedom in the Modern World. He is the recipient of the prestigious 2018 Bradley Prize, a high honor bestowed upon distinguished individuals who have influenced American scholarship and debate. And he received his B.A. in Social Studies and his M.A. and Ph.D. in Government from Harvard University.